BRITISH TROOPS BESIEGE ARABS IN JERUSALEM

Men on Walls Fight Rebels in Old City.

Oppose Partition

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Oct. 18.—The British cabinet meets tomorrow to study the recommendations of a government commission which went to Palestine earlier this year. The investigators, it was learned tonight, have decided the idea of a Jewish state in Palestine cannot be carried out and must be dropped. The cabinet will be asked to abandon the partition scheme, submitted in 1937, providing for Jewish and Arab states under British protection and separated by a British corridor. It is understood Colonial Secretary Malcolm MacDonald will suggest more complete control of Palestine by the British.

JERUSALEM, Oct. 18.—(AP)—Defiant in the face of a formidable display of British armed strength, Arab rebels clung to the Moslem section of Jerusalem's old city tonight after four days of siege. The British proclaimed all of Palestine under martial law.

The Arabs are fighting against Jewish immigration and settlement in Palestine; they want abandonment of the British plan for a Jewish national home and state in Palestine and instead an Arab national government after the removal of British rule.

The scarred and battlemented walls of the ancient city were surmounted by platoons of British soldiers, armed with rifles, machine guns, and hand grenades. From within the Moslem section rebel riflemen kept up intermittent sniping attacks.

Protect Jewish, Armenian Quarters.

British soldiers and police were rushed into the old city last night to protect the Jewish and Armenian quarters. These were understood to be the only sections of the old city under complete British control.

Last night echoed to the bursting of terrorists' bombs, the ping of snipers' bullets, and rifle fire by soldiers. The rifle fire continued intermittently tonight, keeping the populace in near hysteria.

It was announced British troops would enter the old city tomorrow to clear it of armed Arabs. They face a difficult task for the rebels have secreted themselves in cellar hideouts from which they emerge from time to time to carry on their guerrilla warfare in the narrow, winding streets. It would be virtually impossible to differentiate between Arab noncombatants and rebels, for they dress alike.

Threat to Near East Peace.

Sir Harold MacMichael, commander in chief of the British forces and high commissioner for the Palestine mandate, which Britain holds under authority of the league of nations, placed the country under army control.

British troops have been increased to 20,000, equipped with planes, tanks, armored cars and artillery, since the Arab uprising in the Holy Land became recognized by the British as a revolt of growing proportions and a threat to the peace of all the near east. A sweeping military campaign is expected to crush the revolt of an estimated 10,000 Arabs waging guerrilla warfare throughout Palestine.

The Palestine police force was placed under the British military command by the order for martial law. Inspector General of Police Alan Saunders was placed under the direct orders of Maj. Gen. Robert Haining, general officer commanding British forces.

Appoints Military Governor.

Sir Harold authorized appointment of military commanders to take over the offices of district commissioners. Maj. Gen. O'Connor, commanding the 7th division, was appointed military governor of Jerusalem.

These were the immediate British objectives:

1. Repair, occupation and control of widely sabotaged railways.
2. Restoration of telegraph and telephone communications.
3. Reëstablishment of security on all highways.
4. Occupation of the more active

PICTURE SIKORA AS CRAZED BY WIFE'S AFFAIR

Killer Unmoved by Tale of Shooting.

BY WILLIAM MOORE.

That charge was made by Attorney W. W. Smith yesterday in the opening statement of his defense of her husband, Rudolph Sikora, a subdued young man dressed all in blue. Sikora is on trial before a jury of eleven married men and a bachelor before Judge James F. Fardy on a charge of murdering his rival, Edward Solomon. All the jurors are qualified for the death penalty.

Wife Absent from Courtroom.

If Sikora hoped for a glimpse of his brunette young wife, who calls him a model husband, although she still renounces his love, he was disappointed. She was in the building most of the day, but kept away from the courtroom and out of her husband's sight.

He sat unmoved as the jury was told how he fired five bullets into Solomon on the morning of Aug. 22, as Solomon was leaving a newsstand across the street from the Solomon home at 1463 Winnemac avenue.

A Symbol of Eddie.

Sikora, who is 31 years old, only stared at the floor when his attorney told the story of the panda. It was a panda Solomon had given Margaret, the attorney said, a panda which she kissed in her husband's presence. When he asked her why, Smith told the jury, Margaret responded:

"It is a symbol of Eddie Solomon. I take it to bed with me. When I kiss that panda, it is a salute to Eddie."

The crowd in the courtroom leaned forward, but the husband seemed not to hear when Smith told his story of the way Margaret broke the news to her husband of the first time she kissed Solomon. She and Solomon were employed in the same La Salle street accounting office.

Alone in the Office.

"Eddie and I were alone in the office," Smith said she told her husband. "He called me into the vault. As soon as I got in there he grabbed me and kissed me until I knew I never had been kissed before.

"When we left we were both emotionally exhausted."

The attorney's story was in support of his assertion that Solomon, urbane, 35 years old, and a university man, possessed a glamor that the hard working husband never had. It followed his assertion that the plainly dressed young husband wished his wife to be retiring, that he objected to her cigaret smoking as unseemly in a wife.

Begged to Return.

Once, Smith said, Sikora and his mother-in-law begged Margaret to return after she had left the Sikora apartment at 3221 Cullom avenue. But Margaret, who is 22 years old, told them, in Smith's words:

"Let me go to hell in my own way."

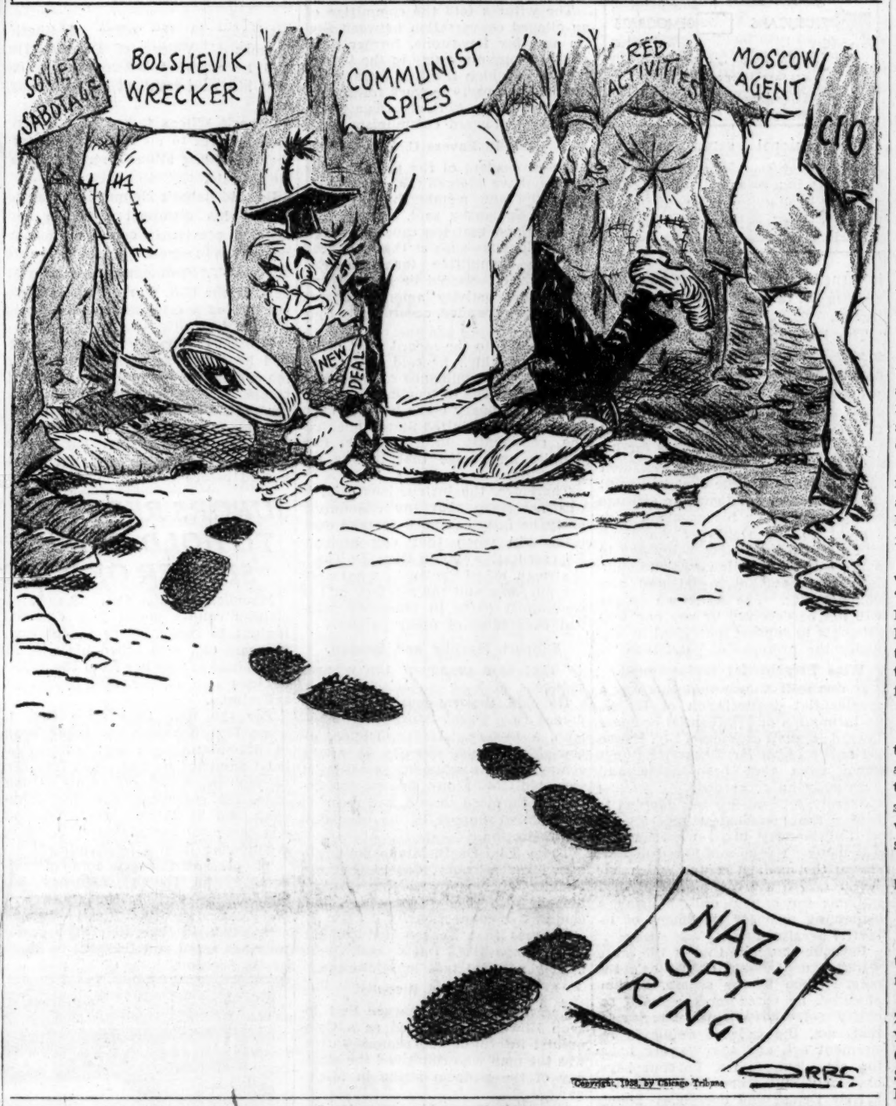
New York, Oct. 18.—(AP)—New stomachs created by surgery were described to the American College of Surgeons today.

They are made with the aid of discoveries, reported at this meeting, that, if even a little bit of a person's stomach can be left intact, it can be spliced to an intestinal organ that will grow like a new room added to a house to replace some of the lost area.

How these methods have been discovered as the result of desperate operation to save life when stomachs were found far gone from ulcer or cancer was told by Dr. Hans Finsterer of Vienna, noted ulcer surgeon.

THE DEMON SPY CHASER



Bungled Nazi Spy Efforts Told to Jurors

New York, Oct. 18.—[Special.]—A story of how a Nazi-German spy ring evolved a fantastic plot to lure Col. Henry W. T. Eglin, commandant of Fort Totten, a New York harbor defense post, to a hotel and steal from him plans of coast defense artillery emplacements, was told here today before a federal jury. Three persons are on trial as spies.

Capt. Fritz Wiedemann, adjutant to Adolf Hitler, mentioned in spy's story.

The witness from whose lips came this extraordinary tale was Guenther Gustav Rumrich, self-confessed army deserter and mail order spy for the German government. Rumrich is the federal prosecution's star witness and has pleaded guilty to an indictment charging him and seventeen other persons with espionage.

Nazi Officials Indicted.

Several defendants to the indictment are high Nazi officials. Most of them are in Germany. The three defendants now on trial are Johanna Hofmann, hairdresser from the German liner Europa; Private Erich Glaser from Mitchel field, United States army air base, and Otto Herman Voss, German born aviation mechanic seized at the Serversky aircraft plant on Long Island.

Rumrich, a gloomy and subdued man with a bulging forehead, said that Fritz Schmidt, an alleged higher-up in the spy ring who was supposed to be an aid of Capt. Lieut. Ernst Mueller, chief of the German naval intelligence at Hamburg, first suggested the plot against Col. Eglin.

Army Secrets Wanted.

"Schmidt told me the order was out to ferret out secret military information wherever this was possible," said Rumrich speaking slowly as he was questioned by District Attorney Lamar Hardy.

WIFE MAKES SURE HER HUSBAND DOES HAVE A BIG BLOWOUT!

New York, Oct. 18.—(AP)—Mrs. Mary Cusick bought herself a little 7 year old sedan and her husband, John took it last night, telling her: I'm taking the car to a big blowout. You stay home." Mrs. Cusick trailed him, found the car parked outside a barroom, dropped a match in the gasoline tank—and ducked just in time to escape the blast. "There," she shouted at her husband, "is your blowout!" Police arrested her on a charge of arson.

CANADIAN ENVOY TO U. S. SUED BY SON FOR $300,000

TORONTO, Ont., Oct. 18.—(AP)—A suit asking $300,000 damages was filed today in Ontario Supreme court by Leonard Marler against his father, Sir Herbert Marler, Canadian minister to Washington, D. C., and Dr. George H. Stevenson, superintendent of the Ontario hospital at London, Ont.

Young Marler's statement of claim alleges that his father and Dr. Stevenson wilfully and by collusion caused him to be detained with mental patients in the London hospital from Feb. 17 until Sept. 20, 1938. He alleges he was obliged to labor with work gangs in the hospital.

The statement of claim also alleges that his intended marriage was hindered, although it was authorized by the marriage license bureau at London on Feb. 8, 1938.

LEERS AT DOGS, THEN AT JUDGE; NOW HE'S IN JAIL

Those dogs in the Evanston pound weren't baying at the man in the moon, they were yammering at the seamy visage of Andrew Thompson. Andrew would get drunk and leer at them through the bars. He did not seem to tire of this, but the dog warden, Chester Nichols, did. He had Thompson arrested.

So yesterday Andrew leered at Magistrate James M. Corcoran. "You can't put me in jail," said he. "I'm in class A on the WPA lists and in line for a good job."

"Fined $25," barked the judge. And Andrew, an itinerant who gave all Evanston as his address, went to the county jail to work it out.

Old Harvard Is in Bad with Its Home Town

Cambridge, Mass., Oct. 18.—(AP)—Amid uproar the city council tonight unanimously adopted a resolution to make Harvard university a separate municipality—depriving it of Cambridge police, fire, and health protection.

Two fires, termed incendiary by police and firemen, flared up in the basement of the city hall as the councilors, two floors above, heard one of their number charge the university with a conspiracy to capture the government of Cambridge.

Old Records Destroyed.

While firemen sped to those fires, which destroyed old records, another fire broke out in the police station garage a short distance away. The blazes were quickly controled.

The resolution called upon the city solicitor to draft state legislation to incorporate the university as a separate city with the duty to furnish all services now furnished by the city.

Councilor John J. Toomey, who introduced the resolution, charged that Harvard was behind a move to introduce a so-called plan "E" form of municipal government, providing for a business manager, in Cambridge.

Makes "Guinea Pig" Charges.

"Through the medium of that plan," he said, "Harvard hopes to use the city of Cambridge as a 'guinea pig' for its laboratory experiments." He pointed out that the university, being tax exempt, paid nothing for city services, and charged the school is encouraging student and faculty trading with university organizations instead of private dealers.

Toomey said that Harvard, which had $134,600,000 in endowments in 1937, acquired $1,500,000 in real estate between 1917 and 1931.

Blind a Year, Transferred Cornea Restores His Vision

Pittsburgh, Pa., Oct. 18.—(AP)—A part of an eye from another man gave Walter Van Horn blurred vision today in an eye that had been sightless for more than a year. A square segment of a cornea from the useless eye of Franklin Parsons of Beaver Falls was transplanted eight days ago to the cornea of Van Horn's eye.

Heroic Pilot, Hands Burned, Lands Airliner

Montgomery, Ala., Oct. 18.—(AP)—Like a blazing meteor, with flames licking at the main cabin, an airliner with fourteen persons aboard plunged toward earth tonight a few miles from Montgomery airport. Pilot Dave Hissong, his hands scorched and burned, clung to his controls and landed the plane in a field, every passenger uninjured.

The craft, an Eastern Air Lines plane, was bound from Houston, Tex., to New York, with its next stop scheduled at Atlanta, Ga. Three passengers had boarded it at Montgomery.

Leave Liner Quickly.

After Hissong's phenominal landing the eleven passengers, guided by Steward Frank Gibbs, quickly left the burning airliner. Hissong and the co-pilot sawed a hole in the roof of the control compartment and made their escape.

W. O. Foote, Montgomery manager for Eastern Air Lines, who was aboard, gave an airman's tribute to Hissong's skilled piloting and his defiance of the flames.

"We left the Montgomery field and were up to about 1,400 feet," he said, "when the right motor began to miss. In another minute it burst into flame. Hissong was the first to see it and cut the gasoline from the motor. Then he tried to turn around and head back for the airport.

Motor Falls Into Space.

"But when he had made a half turn the right motor, its supports burned away, fell into space. Hissong kept the plane on an even keel while Gibbs saw that the passengers' safety belts were tight. Every one was in his seat when we landed."

The co-pilot was C. R. Russell.

Official Passenger List.

The official passenger list, giving destinations but not home cities, as announced by the air lines was:

R. B. Kahle, D. Drucher, J. T. Nix, Z. Lebenson, J. H. Sothan, all New York; Henry Bonck, Washington; J. V. Connolly, E. D. Rivers Jr., and George Stewart, Atlanta; F. T. Vonnegutt, New Orleans manager of Eastern Air Lines, and Foote.

2 Planes Collide; 6 Die.

LONDON, Oct. 18.—(AP)—A mysterious note indicating that a crash was anticipated was found near the flaming wreckage of two royal air force planes today after they had collided in midair with a loss of six lives. The note read:

"What will this plane look like in a few minutes?"

The collision, involving two big, long range bombers, occurred over Dunmow Park, Essex. One explanation of the note—unless a suicidal sabateur was aboard one of the planes—was that a member of one of the crews feared a crash as the two bombers circled above the park.

NEW SCANDAL HITS GOV. EARLE AND SEN. DUFFEY

Democratic Inquiry Thrown in Uproar.

BY WILLIAM FULTON.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Harrisburg, Pa., Oct. 18.—[Special.]—A photostatic record of an audit purporting to show payments of $50,000 each to Gov. George H. Earle and Senator Joseph F. Guffey, twin rulers of Pennsylvania and lieutenants of the Roosevelt administration, threw a legislative hearing into an uproar tonight.

The evidence was produced by Charles J. Margiotti, former attorney general of the state. Gov. Earle fired Margiotti, his chief law officer, in a rage during the hot Democratic primary campaign last spring. At that time Margiotti demanded a grand jury investigation into the charges of corruption which rival Democratic factions hurled at each other.

Tries to Block Grand Jury.

Gov. Earle, in an attempt to hamstring a grand jury investigation, had the Democratic controled legislature vote a series of laws giving a legislative committee precedence over a grand jury in making inquiry into acts of state officials.

This legislative committee has been in session several weeks and so far has managed to keep the inquiry from developing sensational angles.

Tonight the fiery Margiotti took the committee of five Democratic and two Republican members completely by surprise. It was the first time he had appeared in three weeks. He jumped to the witness table and before the bewildered Democrats knew what was happening poured out the major outline of his story.

Chairman Begins to Growl.

When Earle and Guffey's names were mentioned Committeeman Chairman Herbert Cohen, also Democratic majority leader in the house, began to growl. Margiotti handed him and other committee members copies of an audit of the Bankers' Securities corporation headed by Albert M. Greenfield, millionaire realtor high in the councils of the Earle organization.

The audit, according to Margiotti, carried two $50,000 loans receivable on Dec. 31, 1935, from "Earle, Hon. George H.," and "Guffey, Hon. Joseph," the abbreviation standing for "Honorable," which is the handle given to most politicians who achieve public office.

It was shortly before this date that the Sunday movies legalization measure had been pushed through the Pennsylvania legislature. Previously Margiotti had charged that the Democratic party bosses had extracted $100,000 from the moving picture interests for passage of the legislation.

To Recall Greenfield.

In a letter which Margiotti displayed from his informant, one "William Jones," who was not otherwise identified, it was suggested that the legislative committee look into the dates when the loans were made. The letter writer indicated they would coincide with the period when the movie bill was pending.

Finally, after prodding by the Republican members of the committee, Chairman Cohen ordered the committee's counsel to subpena the necessary auditing records. Greenfield, who testified previously he had made no personal loans to Earle, will be recalled.

Collateral for the Earle and Guffey loans was identical preferred stock in the Bankers Securities corporation amounting to $22,500 and bonds in the New York Post, Inc., valued at $50,000.

Audit Lists Stern Loan.

J. David Stern, publisher of the New York Post and the Philadelphia Record, has been the chief apologist for the Roosevelt régime and defender of Earle's activities.

Stern was listed in the audit as having enjoyed a loan of $15,000 from the Greenfield company. As collateral he gave a $15,000 note of the Democratic city executive committee, apparently the Philadelphia organization.

As Margiotti left the stand Chairman Cohen said sarcastically he hoped in the future the former attorney general would bring in evidence from some informant other than "Willy Jones." Margiotti spun around.

"I'm working on something that pertains to you, Cohen," he shouted. "You asked for it and you're going to get it. The information comes from one of your own clients."

rent inquiry, Gov. Earle has been accused of accepting money from Matthew H. McCloskey, political contractor. McCloskey received 10 million dollars worth of public building contracts in the joint state federal Public Works administration program.

Earle is head of the state general authority which awards these contracts. He has admitted that he took $26,500 from McCloskey in "loans." Earle claimed he needed the money because he was caught short in the sugar market.

Earle is running for senator against the incumbent Republican, James J. [Puddler Jim] Davis. For governor the Democrats nominated an obscure Pittsburgh lawyer, Charles Alvin Jones, to run against the Republican gubernatorial nominee, Judge Arthur H. James. Because of the Earle scandal and waning Roosevelt popularity the G. O. P. is given a good chance of recapturing the state this fall.

Earle Gives Out Statement.

At Pittsburgh, where he delivered a campaign speech tonight, Gov. Earle issued the following statement:

"About four years ago I subscribed for $50,000 of bonds of the New York Post. I gave my note to cover this subscription. The New York Post banked this note with its bankers. Some two years ago or so, when I sold the bonds, I paid off the note in full with interest.

In Philadelphia Publisher Stern said that at the time the Post was purchased Guffey and Earle joined with half a dozen others of his friends in purchasing $1,000,000 of the Post's bonds.

"Senator Guffey and Gov. Earle subscribed for $50,000 of bonds each," he added, "and gave their notes for that amount to New York Post, Inc. That company banked the notes with its financial agent, Bankers' Securities corporation. Senator Guffey and Gov. Earle did not borrow from Bankers' Securities. They had nothing to do with where the New York Post, Inc., banked the notes. Both notes have been paid off.

"Every year for the last three years, according to law, we have published a list of our stockholders and bondholders in which the names of Senator Guffey and Gov. Earle have appeared. Margiotti is trying to make political capital out of a commonplace business transaction."

Version of Company Treasurer.

Also in Philadelphia, Alfred Blasband, treasurer of the Bankers' Securities corporation, said that "about 1934 or 1935 Bankers' Securities corporation acted as financial agent for the New York Post, Inc., in the financing of an issue of 6 per cent debenture bonds at the time J. David Stern took over the New York Post.

"Subscriptions to the issue were obtained from a number of interested parties, among them subscriptions for $50,000 each from Mr. Guffey and Mr. Earle, who were both presumably interested in the establishment in New York of a newspaper with liberal views.

"In order to facilitate completion of the financing Bankers' Securities corporation, in its capacity as banker for the issue, made loans on the security of the bonds for the convenience of the New York Post on several of the subscriptions.

"These included the notes of $50,000 each made by Mr. Guffey and Mr. Earle secured by the bonds and additional collateral. Both these loans were subsequently paid off in full with interest."

Libel Suits Arising.

M. L. Annenberg, publisher of the pro-Republican Philadelphia Inquirer and owner of a leased wire news service on race tracks, started the parade when Guffey, in a radio speech, accused him of being linked with the underworld. Annenberg filed libel suits against Guffey, Stern, the Record Publishing company, Greenfield, a radio station, and its owner.

Then Greenfield sued Annenberg and Eli Z. Dimitman, city editor of the Inquirer, for publishing a story about the closing of the Bankers' Trust company in Philadelphia. The account stated that three days before the bank closed its doors Greenfield withdrew $300,000. This was denied by Greenfield.

Tells of WPA Coercion.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 18.—[Special.]—Senator James J. Davis of Pennsylvania today submitted to the senate committee on campaign expenditures another batch of affidavits from WPA workers charging that they had been coerced into making contributions to the Democratic state committee, and, when they refused, were dismissed.

He informed the committee that he previously had asked Administrator Harry L. Hopkins to make an investigation and discipline those responsible for playing politics with federal funds, but nothing had been done.

JERSEY SENATE RACE SERVES UP POLITICAL HASH

Hague and New Deal Lie Down Together.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Newark, N. J., Oct. 18.—[Special.]—A furious struggle over the senatorship, calling into play all the strategems of the most expert practitioners of the political art, is in progress in New Jersey. And it's a pretty dish of scrambled politics the Democratic and Republican cooks have produced.

In the mêlée party lines are being badly bent, twisted and broken. The Democratic candidate for senator is diminutive William H. J. Ely, former New Jersey Works Progress administrator. He is running as a simon pure New Dealer and also as an apologist for Democratic Boss Frank Hague's warfare on New Dealer John L. Lewis' C. I. O. The Republican candidate is a wealthy business man, former Senator W. Warren Barbour, one time amateur heavyweight champion of the United States. He is running on a 50 per cent New Deal senate record and with the blessing of the C. I. O.

Issue Is in Doubt.

There were so many signs of deep seated reaction against the Roosevelt régime in this state that a Republican victory in the congressional election was the general expectation among the politicians. Of late, however, evidence of Republican disaffection and the ironing out of Democratic factionalism have thrown the issue in doubt.

Most potent factor favoring the victory of Ely is the coalition behind his candidacy of President Roosevelt and the Hague machine, notorious for ballot box stuffing, graft and other forms of corruption. It's a combination widely regarded as unbeatable—President Roosevelt, with the power, prestige and money bags of his office, and Boss Hague, the poor boy who made a fortune on his $8,000 salary as mayor of Jersey City, with the cohorts of voters he commands.

Woodring Brings the Word.

The coalition was formally proclaimed at a Jersey City massmeeting last Monday night at which Secretary of War Woodring joined Boss Hague in asking the voters to elect Ely because he would be a 100 per cent yes man to Mr. Roosevelt.

The cynical judgment one encounters on every side is that Boss Hague will hold back the returns from Hudson county [Jersey City] on election night until it becomes known how many votes are needed to put Ely over and then furnish the required number.

The formation of the Roosevelt-Hague coalition hung fire for some time and was consummated only a few days ago. Hague is precisely as much of a New Dealer as is Al Smith. The President professed to be abhorrent of the Jersey boss. But each needed the other.

Hague Eyes 1940.

Hague has his eye on 1940 as much as Mr. Roosevelt has. Hague wants to take a solid delegation to the Democratic national convention for an anti-New Deal candidate for the nomination, preferably John Garner, possibly Bennett Clark. And he wants the vice presidential nomination for his political protégé, Gov. Harry Moore of this state. In pursuance of these plans he deemed it important to elect a senator this year and keep on good terms with the New Deal.

But there were difficulties. Hague had put up the bars against the C. I. O. calling sitdown strikes or even organizing industries in Jersey City. His police force had given the bums rush to the C. I. O. organizers and even such sympathizers as Socialist Norman Thomas and Congressman Jerry O'Connell [D., Mont.].

He thus alienated the support of John Lewis' following. He counted on offsetting this defection, however, with WPA votes and to that end picked Ely, the Works Progress administrator, as his candidate for senator. Ely resigned and was nominated.

Starts Political Coup.

Thereupon Hague packed his bags and went to Europe. Even after he returned he was not visibly exerting himself for Ely. It became bruited about that Hague had cooled on the proposition of putting Ely, the blown in the bottle New Dealer, across. But it turned out that the boss was only angling for a bigger fish—in Washington.

The boss, it appears, was getting pretty fed up with the annoyances emanating from the White House and other sources of John Lewis' influence. Following the arrest of the C. I. O. organizers in Jersey City and the "deportation" of Thomas for his attempt to speak there, the President in his June 24 fireside chat had said: "I am concerned about the attitude of a candidate or his sponsors with respect to the rights of American citizens to assemble peaceably and to express publicly their views and opinions on important social and economic issues. The American people will not be deceived by any one who attempts to supress individual liberty under the pretense of patriotism."

Wins Presidential Endorsement.

It was well known that this was a presidential denunciation of Hague, an intimation of presidential coolness toward Hague's candidate, Ely. Hague set out to impel Mr. Roosevelt to get down from that high horse and eventually he succeeded.

Secretary Woodring was deputed to confer the presidential indorsement at the Monday night meeting. He was met by Hague and taken in tow, shown the medical center which has just received a PWA allotment of 7 millions for a new unit, housing a swimming pool for treatment of infantile paralysis.

Barbour contends that if the state wants a dependable liberal he's the man. When in the senate, he emphasized, he voted for the social security act, the Wagner labor relations act, the railroad employés retirement act, and the Wagner housing act. The voters, Barbour says, have only Ely's word for it that he's a New Dealer and everybody knows that Hague's Senator Harry Moore made similar promises and look what he did when he got to Washington.

SMASH A. F. OF L.! STALIN'S ORDER, INQUIRY HEARS

Step Toward Communism in U. S., Says Witness.

BY JOHN FISHER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 18.—[Special.]—Joseph Stalin, soviet dictator, has ordered the communist party in the United States to destroy the American Federation of Labor as a stepping stone toward communism in America.

This charge was made today before the Dies house committee investigating un-American activities by Jacob Spolansky of Detroit, a sheriff's investigator, who also said communists were responsible for the wave of sitdown strikes in Michigan.

The witness told the committee of an alleged conversation between Stalin and Jay Lovestone, former head of the communist party in the United States, in which the Red dictator instructed the party to work toward destruction of the A. F. of L. as a necessary move toward communism here.

Stalin Favors C. I. O.

Newer leaders of the party in this country have adopted the policy of cooperation and membership in labor unions, Spolansky said. It was Stalin's opinion that the cause of industrial unionism—such as that practiced by the Committee for Industrial Organization—should be boosted and communist activity among Negroes should be expanded, according to Spolansky.

He read into the record a set of instructions which he said Stalin had issued for the guidance of American communists. The instructions said that the revolutionary crisis had not been reached in the United States, but that the communist internationale had definite knowledge that it was approaching.

Therefore, the instructions said, it was necessary that the communist party be fully equipped to take over leadership when that day arrived. Representative Martin Dies [D., Tex.], chairman, asked Spolansky what were the purposes and the strategy of the communist party in indorsing political candidates of other parties.

Support Murphy and Benson.

"That is a paradox," the witness replied.

He said the communists had indorsed Gov. Frank Murphy of Michigan, a Democrat, for reëlection, although, he said, Murphy is not a communist. In testimony yesterday it was said Gov. Elmer Benson of Minnesota, Farmer-Laborite, had received communist support in his campaign for reëlection.

Today Tom Davis, Minneapolis railway labor attorney, denied that the Farmer-Labor party, which he said he helped form twenty years ago, had communist connections.

Charges that Benson had communist sympathies, Davis said, were merely political talk in Minnesota.

U. S. Entered Illegally.

Spolansky further charged that Joseph Kowalski, described as a Communist internationale representative, was the man who conceived the strategy of the sitdown strike in Michigan.

He said Kowalski came to the United States illegally and had been deported once. Kowalski is back in Detroit and in charge of all industrial operations of the communist party in America, according to Spolansky.

He named a group whom he characterized as representatives of the Communist Internationale who once engaged in subversive activities in this country. They were Sen Katyama, a Japanese; James Pogany; Bela Kun, who overthrew the postwar Hungarian government, Hay Lozovsky, soviet union leader; Boris Renstein; and Henri Barbusse, late French writer.

Spolansky said he had arrested about 750 communists in Detroit and Chicago. He now is a criminal investigator in the office of Sherif Thomas G. Wilcox of Detroit. He said he expected Wilcox would dismiss him as a result of his testimony here.

"Sherif Wilcox talked of the dark consequences to me if I testified further regarding sitdown strikes," Spolansky said.

He said Labor's Nonpartisan league sought his dismissal after he had testified previously before a subcommittee in Detroit. Spolansky said Richard T. Frankensteen, vice president of the C. I. O. automobile workers headed a delegation which asked his dismissal.

William P. Gerneay of Detroit, testified he had done espionage work in the communist party for an unnamed company. He said an investigator for the La Follette committee issued a subpena for him in 1937 and forecast his probable murder, but that he never was molested and never appeared before the committee.

JURORS REFUSE TO HOLD MERCY SLAYER OF WIFE

Mineola, N. Y., Oct. 18.—(AP)—A Nausau county grand jury declined tonight to indict Harry C. Johnson, 65 years old, who killed his wife at her behest to free her from the agony of incurable cancer after years of suffering.

For the first time since Oct. 1, when Mrs. Johnson was found dead of illuminating gas which her husband admitted he had piped into her blanket-sealed bedroom with a garden hose, the policeman guarding Johnson's bed at Meadowbrook hospital was removed—permanently. Johnson is suffering from a heart ailment.

"I presented every iota of evidence," said District Attorney Edward J. Neary, after the grand jury had debated two hours and returned a "no true bill" verdict. "The grand jury has acted and I expect to abide by its decision."

STRIKE RIOTERS BATTLE POLICE IN SIOUX CITY

Sioux City, Ia., Oct. 18.—[Special.]—Tear bombs were hurled and clubs were wielded by deputy sherifs and policemen tonight as they quelled a C. I. O. riot at the Swift & Co. packing plant here.

There was sharp fighting as nearly a thousand strike sympathizers, in direct violation of an injunction, advanced on the plant with the announced intention of dragging out 150 workmen who were inside. Bricks and stones were tossed at the plant and nearly all windows were broken.

Policeman Is Injured.

Some of the rioters seized a police squad car and turned it over, injuring a policeman. Reinforcements sent by Sherif W. R. Tice arrived in time to save other policemen from serious roughing. It was the tear gas used at plant entrance that ended the most serious phase of the riot. Some of the strike forces said that it floated for more than a block. By midnight the crowd had thinned out and the situation seemingly was in hand.

The strike was called by the C. I. O. union on Sept. 29. Sitdown tactics were adopted by 300 of the strikers and their action caused large quantites of meat to spoil. The men left the plant the following day when the sherif's men arrived with warants for 125 strikers.

The plant has since been shut down, but 100 loyal employés have remained inside, doing maintenance work and acting as guards.

Strikers Mobilize and Attack.

The company today admitted 50 workers, who passed through the picket lines under guard. Shortly afterward the strike forces were mobilized. They started their attack about 9 p. m.

District Judge Otho S. Thomas on Oct. 5 issued an injunction forbidding the C. I. O. to molest workers, but permitting picketing by ten men. Testimony showed that there was no question of wages and hours; only of the method of presenting grievances. James Porter, regional director of the union, defiantly declared that no attention would be paid to the judicial order.

Among the Swift officials in the plant was Attorney Frank L. Horton of Chicago. The officials denied C. I. O. charges that strikebreakers had been imported from Chicago and Omaha.

TRACE POISONING TO BOTH WATER AND BAKED GOODS

Elmwood Park Epidemic Causes Studied.

Engineering and medical detectives of state and city departments, after working for a month on an investigation into the causes of the recent Elmwood Park poisoning epidemic, have gathered evidence that the illnesses flowed from two separate and unrelated sources. Approximately 200 persons, two of whom died, became ill in the suburb and adjoining sections of Chicago.

Some of the victims, including apparently the two who died, were poisoned by bacterially infected filling in bakery goods, the evidence so far gathered indicated. Others according to the evidence, were infected by accidental pollution of water in a dead end sector of the Chicago waterworks system, which also supplies Elmwood Park. Apparently there was no connection between the two sources, other than that they struck at the same time. Therefore the work of tracing the cause of the epidemic is enormously complicated.

Inquiry Not Yet Complete.

The investigation is not complete. It is expected that two months more will be needed to survey all the individual cases. Results of the investigation were discussed Monday at a conference in the Chicago headquarters of the state department of public health, at 1800 Fillmore street.

Present at the conference were C. W. Klassen, chief sanitary engineer of the state health department; Arthur E. Gorman, water purification engineer in the Chicago department of public works; Robert Waller, of that department's water safety division; Joel I. Connolly, assistant to the president of the Chicago board of health, and Dr. Timothy J. King, chief food inspector of the city health department.

128 Cases Surveyed.

The investigators so far have surveyed each of 128 cases of illness appearing in the Chicago areas adjacent to Elmwood Park, all within the area served by the dead end water main. This intensive field survey followed a process of addition and subtraction of the evidence uncovered to establish that both water and pastries caused some of the illnesses. A comparable survey of cases occurring in Elmwood Park, and of cases occurring outside the area served by the water main has not been completed.

The investigators found that two-thirds of the 128 Chicago persons who became ill had eaten some form of cream filled bakery goods. Part, at least, of these bakery products had been delivered before the water main became infected, precluding the possibility that polluted water had also infected the bakery goods.

On the other hand, about a third of the victims in the Chicago area had eaten none of the bakery products, sold by an Elmwood Park bakery. A complete list of the deliveries of the goods was obtained. It was found that the distribution of cases was not uniform with the distribution of the pastries, indicating that another cause was responsible for some of the illnesses. Also, a number of those made ill lived outside the areas served by the main.

Carelessness Suspected.

Carelessness of workmen, the investigators reported, may have been responsible for both the water pollution and the infection of the bakery goods, cream puffs and chocolate eclairs.

Both of the victims who died had eaten some of the pastries. They were Earl Bennison, 53 years old, 2732 North 76th avenue, Elmwood Park, who died Sept. 16 on the way to a hospital, and Charles Herman, 14 years old, 6952 Nelson street, who died the same day, but whose death was not connected with the epidemic until a week later, when it was learned that he had eaten a chocolate eclair.

COURT UPHOLDS SCHOOL BOARD IN PRINCIPAL'S SUIT

The Illinois Supreme court yesterday refused to review the case of William T. McCoy against the board of education. This action upheld the right of school officials to transfer principals and teachers for the best interests of the school system. The Appellate court several months ago dismissed his suit in which he sought reinstatement as principal of the Bowen High school.

McCoy was transferred in March to principalship of the Beidler Elementary school after five and one-half years at Bowen. He charged that he was removed from the high school without cause and asked the courts to compel the schools to return him to his old job.

Link in Etting Case

MRS. HELEN WARNE.

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 18.—[Special.]—The grand jury tomorrow will hear witnesses to the shooting last Saturday night in the Hollywood home of Ruth Etting, singer, the state's attorney's office announced here tonight.

During the exchange of shots Miss Etting's new husband, Myrl Alderman, music arranger, was seriously wounded. Her former husband, Martin [Col. Gimp] Snyder, now is charged with attempted murder, kidnaping and carrying a revolver from which the numbers have been removed.

Alderman is recovering, physicians said today. His first wife, Mrs. Helen Warne, who also remarried, told police today she had only praise for her former husband. Her statements contrasted with those of Alderman's second wife, Alma, who on Monday sued Miss Etting for $150,000 balm charging she alienated the affections of Alderman.

CAPTURE BANDIT IN HOLDUP; PAL FLEES; ONE SHOT

A holdup in a small department store at 3532 North avenue last night resulted in the capture of one of a pair of armed outlaws and the subsequent seizure of a cache of guns that included a civil war pistol.

The robbers entered the store, operated by Isidore Benditzon, 22 years old, and his father, Nathan, and took $50 after terrorizing half a dozen employés and customers. At the door Isidore grappled with the robber who had the money and he was captured with the help of Detective Joseph N. Swee, who was shopping next door. In the struggle Swee's gun was discharged, the bullet grazing the younger Benditzon's leg.

The captive said he was Arthur Stafford, 28, of 2446 Madison street. He said his accomplice, who escaped, was Anthony Haidl, 3422 Grace street. At that address Haidl's sweetheart, Luli Kivinaki, 22, was seized. A .45 caliber automatic, a .38 pistol, three rifles, and an old civil war ball pistol in good working order were confiscated.

CAUGHT IN MACHINE; LOSES ARM.

Eugene Amselini, 28 years old, 1536 Hudson avenue, a mechanic, lost his right arm yesterday when his hand slipped as he was tightening a machine belt in the plant of the Peanut Specialty company, 400 West Superior street.

UNION REFUSES AGAIN TO POST SIGNS FOR G.O.P.

Reject Slogans Assailing 'Boss Rule' of Court.

The bill posters union extended its censorship to the Republican Municipal court candidates yesterday.

Judge Edward B. Casey declared that a union poster had refused to erect signs approved by the G. O. P. judicial nominees which criticized the Nash-Kelly leadership.

The union member also told Judge Casey, the latter added, that the union met a few days ago and agreed not to post anything unfriendly to the Democratic chiefs.

No Offense to Administration.

Ten days ago the union business agent, Otto Krueger, refused to post signs in Chicago bearing the slogan, "Smash Nash-Kelly Boss Rule—Vote Republican." He told George A. Curran, chairman of the Republican county candidates, that the union did not want to offend the city administration.

H. H. Sayre, a bill poster with offices at 3229 South Michigan avenue, was the union member who refused Judge Casey's request. He put his refusal in writing.

"Our union is personally very friendly to you," Sayre wrote the judge, "because of your splendid labor record. But for reasons I prefer not to mention, I will not be able to post the signs in question—those of the anti-Kelly-Nash."

Last night at his home, 1209 East 52d street, Sayre declined to amplify his letter to Judge Casey beyond saying: "I have to make friends, not enemies."

Hit Boss Rule of Courts.

The signs, which Sayre refused to post, display a ventriloquist with a dummy seated on his knee. The pair bear a resemblance to the radio comic, Edgar Bergen, and his wooden stooge, Charlie McCarthy. The dummy is labeled "Kelly-Nash Judges," the ventriloquist "The Bosses."

Beneath this is the lettering: "Redeem the Municipal Court from Kelly-Nash Control," and the additional claim. "Thirty-One of the Thirty-five Present Judges Are Hand Picked by Kelly and Nash."

The sign also requests the voters to vote Republican on the separate judicial ballot.

Following the refusal of Krueger, the business agent, to post the county candidates' signs, the Republicans have been issuing them to citizens who volunteered to place them in store and home windows.

Ban Signs on Poles.

The Chicago Surface Lines took action yesterday to keep candidates' signs off the poles carrying their power cables. Utility poles have been a favorite spot for such posting, which is in violation of a city ordinance.

A. J. Klatte, electrical engineer for the company, said he had ordered all his inspectors to cause the arrest of any persons found posting political or any other signs on the poles.

Oust Konkowski as 26th Ward Democrat Chief; Eye Shooting

Control of Democratic campaign activities in the 26th ward was taken yesterday from Ald. Frank E. Konkowski, the regularly elected ward committeeman of the party. In his stead Joseph T. Baran, sanitary district trustee, will be acting campaign chairman.

J. T. Baran.

The announcement of this radical change was made yesterday afternoon by Ald. Jacob M. Arvey [24th], acting chairman of the Democratic county central committee. It was approved by other leaders of the county organization and by a delegation of precinct workers from the ward.

Leader Reported Out of City.

"I have been advised by Ald. Konkowski that he will not be in the city until after the election," said Arvey. "Under the circumstances another campaign leader must be appointed."

Previously, it had been rumored that Konkowski, after a vacation in California, would return to try to put over the Democratic slate in his territory.

Acquaintances recalled that he had not been in the city hall since Sept. 22, when bullets were fired through the front windows of his real estate office at 1030 Chicago avenue. The window shooting was resumed on Sept. 30.

The reason for the shooting was not learned. It was said, however, that certain of the Konkowski constituents became angry when a new list of probationary policemen was posted recently and names of those they favored were not on it.

District Attorney Investigating.

First Assistant State's Attorney Wilbert F. Crowley disclosed last night that the state's attorney's investigators are looking into Konkowski's affairs. They are seeking to learn the motives of those who fired at the windows. Assistant Prosecutor Mal Coghlan, in direct charge of the search, said that he had nothing to report at present.

Konkowski's whereabouts are unknown, but some of those who were willing to talk off the record said he was still in the city, but was keeping his place of residence a secret.

Some years ago the alderman was a Republican. He switched his allegiance to the Democrats during the administration of Mayor Cermak. He is an attorney.

Baran, who is 44 years old, was elected to the sanitary district board in 1934. He was in the insurance business at one time, but was a wholesale meat dealer when he ran for the office. He has been active in 26th ward politics for more than twenty years.

CITY AND C. & W. I. SETTLE AIRPORT PROJECT DISPUTE

The city and the Chicago and Western Indiana railroad yesterday settled the dispute over the liability for damage that might arise from the proposed transfer of the tracks that now block expansion of Chicago airport. Railroad attorneys agreed to terms drawn up by Joseph F. Grossman, assistant corporation counsel.

Today the ordinance again will be considered by the council aviation committee. If it is approved the proposed ordinance will be recommended for passage at the city council meeting tomorrow. The disagreement over the assumption of liability was the last point at issue. Ald. Bryan Hartnett [12th], chairman of the aviation committee, indicated yesterday that his group would approve it today.

As now written the new section fixing liability provides that the city will assume responsibility for any personal or property damages during the actual track removal. After the railroad begins using the new right of way the company will assume all personal liability while the city will retain responsibility for any property damage.

BUNGLED NAZI SPY EFFORTS TOLD TO JURORS

Witness Reveals Plot to Kidnap Army Colonel.

"He then suggested I should write out an order in military correspondence style [Rumrich is a former sergeant in the United States army and knew the forms of military correspondence] and send it to Col. Eglin. I was to tell the colonel that an army general staf conference was to be held at a certain hotel.

"I was to include directions for him to bring mobilization plans and plans of coast defenses near New York City. Then with the colonel in a hotel room Schmidt said he would get some kind of a fountain pen gas gun that would temporarily put the colonel out of commission.

"While he was helpless Schmidt was to steal the plans and make his getaway."

This program, Rumrich said, was never carried out because he never again saw Schmidt.

Shift Interest to Industry.

Rumrich, who has been termed a "romancing beermug dreamer" by defense counsel, told with sad countenance of previous meetings with Schmidt. Most of these occurred in New York City beer stubes.

At one of the first meetings, Rumrich said, Schmidt informed him that "due to an agreement between some one in Washington and some one in Berlin," there had been a shifting of interest from army and air corps activities to those of industry in this country.

"He said this change in orders for the espionage corps was caused by American rearmament programs," Rumrich related. "He then told me he was carrying $2,000 to be paid to a Brooklyn spy who had stolen for Germany the secret plans of a submarine gyroscope.

"I didn't believe the story. I said there couldn't be that much money for a spy, because I had been getting only $40 or $50 a month."

Shows $1,000 Bills.

But Schmidt, said Rumrich, dug into his pockets, produced an envelope and from it drew two $1,000 bills.

"He told me the gyroscope plans had been sent to the naval war ministry in Berlin and he was prepared to pay compensation for them. Schmidt was a little under the weather when he told me these things. He had been taking drink after drink and his condition was getting worse all the time."

A packed courtroom frequently tittered at the witnesses' statements but hung on every word, as Rumrich then began telling of meetings with another of the alleged spy-ring leaders, one "Wiegand."

"He had a scar on his face and carried a revolver," said Rumrich. "I usually met him at a saloon in Yorkville. When I first met him I was told I would be able to pick him out as the man reading a certain newspaper in the lobby of a hotel.

In typical spy fiction fashion, Rumrich said, he was never informed of the identity of any of the Nazi ringleaders he met. Consequently he was not surprised at the peculiar orders to find Wiegand.

"But I was a bit confused when I got to the hotel to find two men sitting in the lobby both reading the same newspaper," he confessed.

"I went up to one and said: 'Are you Mr. Wiegand.' The man said: 'I'm not.' Then I went to the other and when I asked his name he said: 'Let's get out of here.'"

$50 Bill in Letter.

They went to a nearby cafeteria, said Rumrich, where the mysterious Wiegand gave him a letter and told him to go to the men's washroom to read it. He did so and a $50 bill fluttered out of it.

When he returned to the table, Rumrich related, Wiegand said he had worked for "die sache" [the cause] for eight or ten years. He impressed Rumrich with his importance by producing a photograph of himself in company of Ambassador Hans Dieckhoff and Capt. Fritz Wiedemann adjutant to Chancellor Adolf Hitler. The photograph, said Rumrich, was supposed to have been taken at the German Embassy in Washington during a visit to this country by Capt. Wiedemann.

"I told Wiegand I was surprised that diplomats should be on such terms with people in our line," Rumrich said. "But he replied that diplomats are different these days."

The first mention of Miss Hofmann, a red haired young woman who was a beauty shop employé on the Europa, came when Rumrich said she visited his home in the Bronx with a man named Schlueter. The federal government contends that both Schlueter and Miss Hofmann carried messages and funds from Germany to the spy-ring here.

"Schlueter came in and gave me $50 on one occasion," Rumrich said. "Then he invited me down to the Europa for a bottle of good German beer.

"Another time Schlueter came up with Miss Hofmann. Schlueter introduced her as his niece and called her Ruth. Later I found out her real name was Johanna and she was called Jenni."

The spy leaders were very anxious that there should be no connection between Rumrich's espionage activities and Germany, he related.

Wiegand once told him, he said, that in event he fell under suspicion he was not to use any reference to Germany.

"They told me to say that I was working for Maj. Christopher Draper and gave me a London address for possible use."

Letters Are Introduced.

Letters written by Rumrich to his superiors were then introduced. These had been sent, in accordance with instructions Rumrich said, to a Mrs. Jordan at Dundee, Scotland. There some of the letters were intercepted by British postoffice inspectors and later turned over to the United States government. Mrs. Jordan was convicted of espionage by the British government.

Rumrich readily identified the missives and proceeded to read them aloud to the jury. Although forwarded through Mrs. Jordan, the letters themselves were addressed to "Mrs. Sanders," who in reality, Rumrich said, was a ranking official of the naval intelligence division in Germany.

"There is nothing in my possession which would conclude any kind of connection between you and Germany," Rumrich said in one of these notes. "I guarantee I will take care not to admit anything in case I am apprehended. You may rely on that. There is no danger here as far as I am concerned and I hope I can rely on the same thing there."

Dissatisfied with Results.

Sanders, whoever he was, said Rumrich, was very critical of the results of his spying. He sent word through Schlueter that he wanted to get information about various developments in the army signal corps and about the anti-aircraft defenses along the eastern seacoast.

Schlueter, Rumrich said, told him he had paid $2,000 to a man in a Buffalo aircraft factory for some aviation plans, and was prepared to pay well for other information I could obtain.

"He also told me to find out if a Miss De Wanger was at Mitchell field, Long Island. He said she was known to him and his superiors from a previous experience in 1935 after which she had to flee to Canada. All he wanted was her present address."

Outside court the federal attorneys said Miss De Wanger was Senta De Wanger a government witness who would be called later during the trial.

7,000 ZIONISTS PLEDGE TO FIGHT DICTATOR RULE

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

Fear that England is about to junk its pledge that the Jew is to be allowed a homeland in Palestine brought seven thousand Zionists to a protest meeting in the Civic Opera house last night. The massmeeting was promised that Jews throughout the world will begin a counterattack of democracy against dictators.

Principal speakers were Dr. Solomon Goldman, president of the Zionist Organization of America, and Maurice Samuel, novelist. Dr. Goldman said that democracies must never let what happened at Munich occur again. He referred to the four power conference which resulted in the breakup of Czechoslovakia.

Munich was described by Dr. Goldman as a cemetery for conscience, morality, and justice.

"The conference in that Bavarian city means death to civilization, religion, our educational system, and the democratic philosophy of life," Dr. Goldman asserted. "How can we teach our children that virtue is rewarded; that the meek shall inherit the earth, when it has been made evident that force is esteemed above moral power?

"If the British government were to abandon its international obligations and to betray its solemn pledge to the world as well as to Jewry, then it might better begin burning its books, beginning with the Bible and ending with the Balfour declaration under which the Jew was pledged a homeland in Palestine," said Dr. Goldman.

As a beginning of what he called the frontal attack on anti-Semitism in America, Dr. Goldman assailed the Rev. Charles E. Coughlin, Detroit radio priest.

"Honest people do not need to have pointed out to them the baselessness of charges made against the Jews by Coughlin in his publications," Rabbi Goldman declared. He referred to Father Coughlin's magazine, Social Justice, in which the Protocols of the Elders of Zion were referred to as being authoritative. The protocols, often declared spurious, describe Jewish designs for world authority.

"It is for the Jew boldly to charge that Coughlin is unworthy of his cloth," said Dr. Goldman; "that he is an offense to his church; that he is spreading the kind of doctrin which, in Vienna, led to the recent attack on an archbishop and an assault on a Catholic cathedral."

LEADER OF ARABS TELLS BRITISH 6 PEACE DEMANDS

Must Halt Entry of Jews Into Holy Land.

KARNAYEL, Syria, Oct. 18.—(AP)—The "brains" and guiding spirit of the Arab "Holy Rebels" in Palestine, Haj Amin Effendi Al Husseini, grand mufti of Jerusalem, insists on six "minimum" demands which he declares must be fulfilled by Great Britain before he will order his followers to stop fighting.

The Grand Mufti of Jerusalem.

Grand Mufti's Demands.

The grand mufti's demands were as follows:

1. Immediate cessation of Jewish immigration to Palestine.
2. Granting of independence and a national government to the Arabs in Palestine.
3. Abandonment by England of the idea of a Jewish national home in Palestine, as embodied in the Balfour declaration of Nov. 2, 1917.
4. Termination of the British mandate in Palestine. [The mandate was given by the league of nations.]
5. Prohibition of any further sale of land to the Jews in Palestine.
6. Conclusion of a treaty between England and the Arabs of Palestine similar to the Anglo-Egyptian, Anglo-Iraqian and French-Syrian treaties by which England would set up an Arab state in Palestine with the Jews having only minority rights.

Has No Thought of Retreat.

It is felt here that neither the British nor the Jews in Palestine will accept the terms, but the grand mufti has no intention of departing from them. The Arab leader consented to an interview despite his pledge to French authorities in Syria to refrain from political talks.

"Only justice," he said, "can settle the present dispute between the Jews and the Arabs. The Arabs are the lawful owners of Palestine, while the Jews are mere intruders.

"No pressure or aggression by the British or the Jews can reëstablish peace in the Holy Land. Nor can the British compel us to give the Jews concessions or rights in the Arab homeland to which they are not entitled. Neither can persecution of the Arabs by the British dissuade the Arabs from defending their sacred rights in the Holy Land."

Offers Religious Freedom.

The Arabs, he said, are ready to conclude a treaty with England guaranteeing the legitimate rights and interests of England in Palestine, such as ports, naval bases, air stations, and economic privileges.

The Arabs also are prepared, he continued, to give any guarantee required to assure the Jews and other sects of the right to free practice of their religion in the Holy Land.

"But I must emphasize," the mufti said firmly, "that no further Jews must be allowed to come to Palestine. Those Jews who are already in the Holy Land and who will accept Palestine citizenship like any other minority race will have the same rights and obligations as the native Arabs.

Will Have Right to Vote.

"That is, they will have the right to vote and be elected to all offices. They will be given the right to have their own deputies in the legislature or government council, their own ministers, directors, and other officials in proportion to their number.

"The sufferings, bloodshed, and anguish being endured by the Arabs, Jews, and British alike in the Holy Land give me much pain, but the revolt was forced upon us by the British and Jews. I would settle the conflict tomorrow if I had the power, but the British government must first grant our minimum and just demands. Otherwise there can be neither peace nor compromise."

British Soldiers on Walls of Jerusalem Battle Arab Rebels

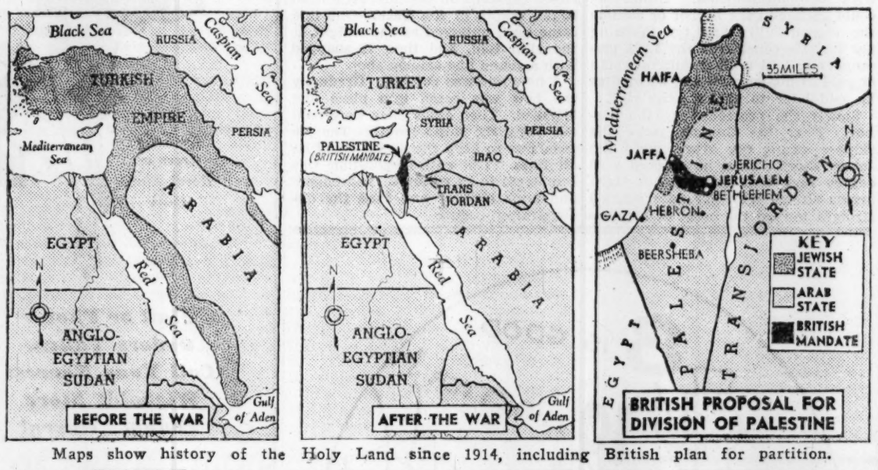
British soldiers, after mounting the ancient walls of Jerusalem (heavy line), yesterday fought Arab rebels in the Moslem quarter of the old city. Other soldiers entered the old city to protect the Jewish and Armenian quarters. The British will attempt to enter the Moslem quarter to clear it of armed Arabs. The British refrained from using plane bombs and artillery against the Arabs in order to avoid damage to Christian, Jewish, and Arab shrines within the old walls.



Maps show history of the Holy Land since 1914, including British plan for partition.

BRITISH TROOPS BESIEGE ARABS IN JERUSALEM

Outside Jerusalem the greatest task lay in the latter objective. British forces were campaigning to recapture the towns of Beersheba, Gaza, Hebron, Bethlehem, and Jericho from the Arabs.

Extend 24 Hour Curfew.

In Jerusalem authorities extended the 24-hour curfew regulation to include potential danger zones outside the walls of the old city lest the rebels expand their control here.

Royal Air Force planes flew over the Arab dominated area of Jerusalem, but dropped no bombs in fear of damaging the Church of the Holy Sepulchre, the mosque of Omar, and the Wailing Wall — historical holy places of the Christians, Moslems, and Jews.

The array of British force had the aspects of a siege of the old city and a defense of the new—the modern districts mostly built since 1858 and lying chiefly northwest of the ancient walls. Troops guarded every approach to Jerusalem, lest the beleaguered Arabs in the old city draw reënforcements from their comrades elsewhere. Soldiers and police searched every one entering or leaving the old city. Only monks, priests, and nuns were permitted free passage.

Protest American "Interference."

Washington, D. C., Oct. 18.—(AP)—The Palestine Defense society in Bagdad, Iraq, protested to the state department today against what it called American "interference" in the Palestine situation. The society based its protest on Secretary Hull's recent statement that this government was watching developments in Palestine and had been in communication with Great Britain. Hull said the state department will take all necessary measures for the protection of American interests in Palestine.

HOSPITAL'S LOSS OF STANDING LAID TO NEW WARDEN

Board Warned to Get Man of More Experience.

The appointment of Brig. Gen. Manus McCloskey, retired, as the warden of Cook County hospital was one of the principal reasons why the hospital was dropped from the approved list of the American Medical association last summer. This was learned yesterday when County Commissioner Frank Bobrytzke, chairman of the county commissioners' hospital committee, disclosed the contents of a letter he received last month from Dr. W. D. Cutter of the A. M. A.

The hospital also was dropped from its approved list by the American College of Surgeons during its convention in New York City Monday. Medical authorities at the hospital said that the A. C. S. was following the lead of the A. M. A.

Man of Experience Needed.

"The chief executive officer of the hospital should be an administrator who has had experience in the management of a large hospital, preferably a large public general hospital," Dr. Cutter said in his letter to Bobrytzke. Dr. Cutter is chairman of the A. M. A.'s hospital council.

Dr. Cutter said that he had conferred with Bobrytzke and Clayton F. Smith, president of the commissioners, last winter on the appointment of a new warden of the hospital. At that time, he continued, he recommended the appointment of an experienced hospital administrator.

"It was also stated that until the archaic laws restricting such appointments should be repealed or amended," the letter continued, "it would be impossible to secure the services of a first class hospital administrator.

"The results seem to confirm predictions which were made at that time."

Refers to Disputed Belief.

Dr. Cutter was apparently referring to a disputed belief that the warden of the hospital must be a citizen of Cook county.

President Smith joined Drs. Karl Meyer and R. W. McNealy, two of the chief medical men at the hospital, in stating that Gen. McCloskey had not been given a fair trial before being condemned by the A. M. A. and the A. C. S.

Dr. Cutter, who was in New York City yesterday at the A. C. S. convention, refused to discuss the details of the A. M. A. complaint against the hospital. He said he would have to wait until he returned to his A. M. A. office here where he would have his files available.

POPE'S BLESSING SENT CATHOLICS AT NEW ORLEANS

Cardinal Mundelein Opens Eucharistic Congress.

New Orleans, La., Oct. 18.—(AP)—Pope Pius XI., giving his benediction today to the eighth national eucharistic congress in a broadcast from Vatican City, said he scarcely could restrain a tear when he beheld the majesty of God held up as an enemy.

Rain soaked thousands on wooden benches in City Park stadium heard the pontiff's words just as Cardinal George Mundelein of Chicago had ended the solemn high pontifical mass which opened the congress here.

The pope spoke for six minutes in Latin. Then his words were translated into English and rebroadcast from the Vatican.

Although he said there were many things giving him cause for fear and anxiety, the pontiff added that he saw a promise of better things for the universal church in the "reflowering among all peoples of eucharistic love."

Divine Precepts Spurned.

"In particular," he said, "we see many men who hold as valueless and reject and spurn those divine precepts of the gospel which alone can bring salvation to the human race. Scarcely can we refrain from a tear when we behold the eternal majesty of God himself set aside and outraged, or with unspeakable wickedness held up, as an enemy, to reviling and to execration."

There were twenty-eight casualties—ranging from dogbite and fainting to a broken leg—during the mass, the most solemn and elaborate religious ceremony ever seen in this city. It began in bright sunshine with the majority of the hierarchy of the Catholic church in America seated in the sanctuary in their copes, mitres, and purple vestments.

Later in the morning rain drenched the 50,000 faithful—laymen, priests, and nuns. Hundreds fled for the shelter of trees surrounding the special altar built in the field that had been a football gridiron a short time ago.

Sit Through Downpour.

Many of the bishops and archbishops sat through the downpour, with the rain dripping down their faces from the high mitres on their heads.

The huge amplifying system, which filled the stadium with the choir of five hundred men's voices during the services, plunged the wet and restless thousands into silence with these words from the pope:

"While Christ the Lord, who arose, is 'the way, the truth and the life,' holds his magnificent triumph among you in the city of New Orleans, become as it were the altar of the entire nation, we warmly felicitate our children on this festal occasion and, rejoicing fervently in their fervent zeal and piety, with paternal gladness we unite ourselves with you in word and hope and prayer.

"Many things there are indeed which give us cause for fear and anxiety."

Hopeful for Future.

"May we not discern, however, a promise of better things for the universal church in the reflowering, among you and among almost all peoples, of eucharistic love and the daily increase of ardent devotion for the august sacrament of the altar.

"For if the blessed Eucharist, in the words of our wise predecessor, 'is to be thought of as the center upon which Christian life, in all its attitude, takes its stand,' so that it may be called 'the soul of the church,' it must be that wherever it is solemnly adored, and received with pious frequency, it will heal the ills and infirmities of men, and will quicken and strengthen them in Christian virtue."

With the ending of the mass and the pope's blessing, the congress plunged into a series of lectures and discussions for clergy and laity alike.

Triplets Are Three

Raising triplets requires patience and a regular routine, Mrs. Clare Harenberg of 9431 Albany avenue explained yesterday. She gazed fondly out of the window to the yard where Bernard, Edward, and Richard, her towheaded trio, played.

They will be 3 years old Friday. Edward weighs 34 pounds, the others 32. For a long time after their birth, when the three weighed a total of 10 pounds, their mother and their father, John, a produce merchant, lost weight worrying.

"Then I learned patience and to regulate my work," Mrs. Harenberg said. "That eased the strain of having to feed, bathe, dress and play with three at a time. Now it's just like a game of follow the leader with them. What one does, the others do. They are inseparable."

The Harenbergs have two older children, Howard, 10 years old, and Robert, 12.

AUSTRIAN PALACE OF ARCHBISHOP STONED BY NAZIS

Windows Smashed by Salzburg Mob.

VIENNA, Oct. 18.—(AP)—Ecclesiastical circles tonight expected Cardinal Theodore Innitzer to go to Vatican City soon to report on Catholic church difficulties in German Austria.

This possibility was seen as reports from Salzburg told of an attack on the archbishop's palace there last night. It was an outbreak similar to the stoning of the archiepiscopal palace here on Oct. 8, in which Cardinal Innitzer was slightly injured.

Break Palace Windows.

The demonstration in Salzburg started with derisive whistling of a group under the palace windows early in the evening. Soon the demonstrators were reënforced by a crowd, shouting, "Away with Waitz!"—Archbishop Sigmund Waitz. At the height of the demonstration missils were thrown through numerous windows of the palace.

In Vienna posters appeared on the bulletin boards of several Catholic churches, saying: "Render to God the things that are God's and to the Fuehrer the things that are the Fuehrer's."

Cardinal's Policy Hit.

Some quarters interpreted the posters as a public display against Cardinal Innitzer's policy, which is at odds with Naziism. The priest of a church where one of the posters appeared is known to sympathize with National Socialism.

In Linz Paul Elgruber, Nazi leader of the Upper Danube district, announced at a political meeting that the bishop of Linz had agreed to expel priests who "meddle in politics."

Nazis Complete New Prison Camp Intended for Jews

LINZ, Germany, Oct. 18.—(AP)—A new concentration camp with a capacity of 7,000 prisoners has been completed at Mauthausen in the upper Danube district of German Austria. It is believed the camp is intended especially for Jews.

TIE QUEEN MARY TO PIER SAFELY WITHOUT TUGS

Big Liner Is Favored by Lack of Wind.

New York, Oct. 18.—[Special.]—A feat destined to become legendary in tales of North Atlantic shipping was performed here today at the 50th street docks of the Cunard line. The huge liner Queen Mary was handled like a Staten Island ferry-boat and brought to her berth under power.

It was a job of seamanship never before attempted with a vessel of like size—the Queen Mary weighs 81,275 tons and is 975 feet long and 118 feet wide.

Ordinarily the Queen Mary steams into New York harbor and her mighty engines are stopped. She is surrounded by a round dozen of hooting, puffing harbor tug boats. They nudge and push and haul and swing. Finally they edge her to her pier and hold her until her mooring lines are made fast.

Strike Halts Tugs.

Yesterday when the great ship arrived from England, her skipper was informed by company officials who boarded her that a strike of tugboat workers had left the harbor without a single one of these craft.

Commodore Robert B. Irving, skipper of the Queen Mary, was faced with two alternatives. Either he could anchor in the harbor or assume the responsibility and try to bring her in. He considered the 1,601 passengers and 25 million dollars worth of gold in his keeping and decided as he said later to take a little risk.

Slowly she proceeded up the harbor. Near the Cunard docks the skipper swung her over toward the Jersey shore. Then he ordered a 90 degree turn that brought her right across stream with her nose pointed straight toward the heart of Manhattan Island. The ship's telegraph clanged, the four great propellers turned slowly.

Straight and true he held her, softly giving orders to the helmsman at his elbow. Her nose edged in between the piers of the Cunard Line and the Italian Line. The starboard engines were stopped. The port propellers turned over slowly, holding the heavy stern away from the Italian Line pier.

The commodore barked an order. The chief officer in the forecastle head called through his megaphone: "Give 'em the heaving line." A thin rope, weighted at one end, spiraled out over the water. Two men in a rowboat, far below the great ship's prow, ducked. Then one of them grasped the line and they rowed ashore.

Snap Mooring Line.

The light line was pulled ashore and with it one of the great bow lines, hemp as thick as a man's leg. It was made fast to a snubbing post. Another bow line followed. Then the steam capstans on the forecastle head began taking in the slack. One line came taut, quivered as the weight of the ship told, and then it snapped with a sound like cannon shot.

A new line was run out. Gradually the bow was eased into place and snubbed. Then other lines were paid out along the ship's length. The job then was to keep the strain equal on all lines. The entire operation was completed in 34 minutes. Passengers and crew cheered and then the disembarking began.

GERMANY EXTENDS $22,600,000 TRADE CREDIT TO POLAND

[Copyright: 1938: By the New York Times.]

BERLIN, Oct. 18.—Germany today extended to Poland a commercial credit of 120 million zlotys [about $22,600,000] to build up Polish industrialization with German equipment and machinery.

This action followed closely a German credit of 150 million marks [about $60,000,000], advanced to Turkey for industrial and military purposes. Another credit of 100 million marks [$40,000,000] to Greece for similar purposes is reported to be under consideration.

NEVER SLEEP ON AN "UPSET STOMACH"

OFTEN NEUTRALIZING EXCESS STOMACH ACIDS CAN MAKE THE WHOLE WORLD SMILE IN THE MORNING

YOU DON'T NEED A DOCTOR to tell you not to eat too much — smoke too much — or drink unwisely. It's the easiest rule to learn — and the easiest one to break.

But by doing one simple thing — you can relieve the effects of over-indulgence — escape "acid indigestion" that can ruin the whole next day.

Here's what you do. It's so easy — and results are amazing.

Just Do This

Take 2 tablespoonfuls of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia in a glass of water — AT BEDTIME. While you sleep, this wonderful alkalizer will be sweetening your stomach . . . easing the upset-feeling and nausea . . . helping to bring back a "normal" feeling. By morning you feel like a million.

Then — when you wake — take two more tablespoonfuls of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia with the juice of a whole orange.

Thousands Use This Way

This is a quick, simple and easy way to overcome the bad effects of too much eating, smoking or drinking. Thousands use it.

Try this way. See how clear your head feels next day. Notice the absence of dullness and "depression" due to excess stomach acidity. You'll be amazed at your feeling of well being.

But — when you buy, make sure you get the Real Article. Never ask for "milk of magnesia" alone — always ask for "Phillips'" Milk of Magnesia — the kind many doctors endorse. Keep a bottle always handy in your home — and "alkalize" excess stomach acidity while you sleep.

HUNGARY SEEKS COMPROMISE IN CZECH DISPUTE

Nations to Resume Talks Through Diplomats.

BUDAPEST, Hungary, Oct. 18.—(AP)—A foreign office spokesman said tonight that Hungary and Czechoslovakia would resume territorial negotiations through regular diplomatic channels.

If the discussions having to do with cession of parts of Slovakia and Ruthenia [sub-Carpathian Russia] to Hungary are successful, a final conference will be called for signature of official papers.

If the diplomats fail to reach a compromise, the spokesman continued, the four powers which participated at the Munich conference—Germany, Italy, France, and Great Britain—will have the last word in settling the dispute at a new conference.

"But we don't know," officials said, "whether the Czechoslovak government will follow this procedure."

Hungary Wants Bratislava.

They added that authentic news was unlikely until an announcement of the result of the negotiations was ready for publication.

The Hungarian demands were understood to embrace the return of Bratislava, where the Czechoslovak, Hungarian, and German-Austrian borders join, and the cession of some 5,000 square miles containing a predominantly Hungarian populace. Prague has indicated a willingness to cede 2,000 square miles of territory.

Demanding arms to enforce Hungary's demands on Czechoslovakia, thousands of university students demonstrated in the streets today. Both the Hungarian and Czechoslovak borders are lined with troops.

May Return Parts of Area.

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, Oct. 18.—(AP)—Reliable German sources tonight said that Germany had indicated her willingness to return parts of the occupied Sudetenland to Czechoslovakia.

The regions to be returned would include a number of predominantly Czech-populated sections, especially where they cut across rail connections from one part of Czechoslovakia to another; these sources said.

The amount of territory likely to be returned was still undetermined. About 850,000 Czechs are in German occupied territory. It was asserted that German troops already had evacuated some Czech communities occupied since Oct. 10.

Thousands of persons streamed from Prague tonight while the government imposed more stringent regulations on the population under a state of emergency throughout the country. Airliners bound for Paris, Strasbourg, Bratislava, Vienna, and Budapest were jammed.

Foreign News Censored.

The fear of uncertainty as to what might happen next—with Hungarian demands treading on the heels of those of Germany and Poland—apparently caused the exodus. A general censorship of foreign news also was tightened.

A more cheerful note, the "increased mobility of the country's finances," was struck, however, by Finance Minister Joseph Kalsus. He announced that depositors in banks, building and loan associations, and insurance companies could request the withdrawal of 5 per cent of their funds. The maximum withdrawal had been 3 per cent.

Kalsus said, too, that negotiations for a London loan were proceeding "satisfactorily" and that further conferences for additional funds above the first $50,000,000 would be held in the future.

Refugees Pack Prague.

From 200,000 to 300,000 Czechs, German Social Democrats, and Jews have fled here from the German occupied areas of Sudetenland and Polish zones. Another influx of thousands was thought possible under the option clause of the Munich agreement providing that those in occupied zones could become permanent residents of Czechoslovakia.

Banking circles here said they had reached an agreement with German bankers in Sudetenland for the consolidation of Czech branch banks with the Deutsche bank in Berlin and the Dresdener bank in Dresden.

GERMAN TROOPS RETURN FROM A BLOODLESS 'WAR'

450,000 Reservists Begin Demobilizing.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Oct. 18.—Germany today started to demobilize part of her powerful army whose strength was sufficient to conquer for Germany the Sudeten territories of Czechoslovakia without a gun being fired.

Of the 1,500,000 men Germany kept under arms for the last two months about 450,000 reservists will return to civilian life in the course of the next three weeks.

Demobilization centers are the army training camps at Berlin, Frankfort-on-Main, Mayence [Mainz], Fuerth, near Nuremberg, and Koenigsberg in East Prussia.

Trafic Is Suspended.

Trafic was suspended for more than one hour in Potsdam when motorized military units returned from Sudetenland.

Motorized artillery, anti-aircraft guns, and tanks lumbered past the Potsdam palace of the Prussian kings. Trucks and buses—requisitioned in the crisis—were filled with cheering and flower bedecked soldiers. Some of the buses bore in big chalk letters the inscription: "The war is over." Many vehicles flew the flag of the Sudeten Nazi party.

Bus travel in some districts of Berlin was badly crippled because many buses were requisitioned for transporting reservists to their home districts.

Release Workers on Forts.

Labor service youths, who were held an extra month to work on fortifications along the border facing France, also are being released.

Meanwhile, preparations are being made in army barracks to receive the hundreds of thousands of new recruits who will be called to the colors starting next month. The new conscripts belong to the 1918 class and will serve two years.

NAZI PRESS SAYS U.S. IS ARMING TO MENACE BERLIN

BERLIN, Oct. 18.—(AP)—Nazi newspaper commentators today saw the United States' rearmament program more as a threat to Germany than as a protective measure against Nazi and Fascist ambitions in South America.

The newspaper Lokalanzeiger carried a banner headline saying "America's Blue Funk" over comment on the proposed naval expansion. A second banner said "Increase of Atlantic Fleet—Against Germany! The Truth Is: Lust for Power."

A dispatch from the paper's washington correspondent complained that "nothing is being done by the official side to counteract press yarns about the alleged menace to South America by the anti-comintern bloc."

The correspondent said South American countries have not been heard from on the subject and that reports of the alleged menace all have come from Washington.

EDEN LAUNCHES DRIVE FOR NEW BRITISH REGIME

LONDON, Oct. 18.—(AP)—Anthony Eden, former British foreign secretary, today replied to Reichsfuehrer Hitler's oratorical attacks on British politicians with the declaration that "there are no warmongers among us."

Speaking at the 122d annual meeting of the International Peace society, Eden, who resigned on Feb. 20 in protest against Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain's policy of dealing with dictators, at the same time proposed a new government in which all parties would be represented to replace Chamberlain's régime.

He declared Britain must organize for defense or "our authority will continue to decline in a world which is rearming to the teeth and organized for war."

POLAND RUSHES 20,000 POLICE TO 'PACIFY' UKRAINE

Report Political Foes Being Beaten.

BY DONALD DAY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

RIGA, Latvia, Oct. 18.—Twenty thousand Polish police are assisting the army in another "pacification" of Polish Ukraine, dispatches from Warsaw said today.

The Polish police are a specially organized force of heavily armed men which Poland uses to quell peasant riots. They are similar to the GPU [secret police] army of soviet Russia.

Following a series of riots in Lwow, Stanislawow, Stryj, Przemysl, Tarnopol and other Galician centers which cost many lives, Polish authorities ordered a house to house search for arms. Many arrests were made. Using lists compiled by their spies, the Poles are reported to be beating mercilessly Ukrainians who are active in political and cultural organizations. The Ukrainians are seeking an autonomous state.

Recall Previous "Pacification."

The "pacification" is following closely that of November, 1930, when 1,000 villages were sacked, hundreds of men arrested and beaten by the police, and uhlans [Tatar militia].

Poland's efforts to keep in subjection her Ukrainian minorty, which Ukrainian leaders say numbers about 8,000,000 and which the government admits to be more than 5,000,0000, is not mentioned in the Warsaw press because of censorship.

Foreign newspaper correspondents also were advised against visiting Lwow. Reports of Lwow correspondents for Warsaw newspapers were not published.

Poland Seeks Rumanian Aid.

Foreign Minister Josef Beck of Poland, accompanied by the Rumanian ambassador, was reported to have left Warsaw this evening for Bucharest, Rumanian capital. He will seek Rumanian support for the Polish-Hungarian plan to annex Ruthenia [sub-Carpathian Russia] to Hungary, giving Poland and Hungary a common frontier.

It is reported that Beck is determined to realize this project at all costs, since the improved autonomous position of the Ruthenians in Czechoslovakia is considered a serious threat to Poland, which has refused to grant equal privileges to her Ukrainians.

The executive committees of the Polish opposition parties are liable to arrest and two years' imprisonment under a decree published today authorizing the courts to sentence all persons advocating a boycott in the coming parliamentary elections. All the opposition parties have decided to boycott the elections.

JUDGE'S ILLNESS STAYS EXECUTION OF BRICK KILLER

A week's stay of execution was granted yesterday by Chief Justice Michael L. McKinley to Robert Nixon, Negro brick slayer. He was under sentence to die here in the electric chair at one minute past midnight Friday morning for beating to death Mrs. Florence Johnson in her home at 4631 Lake Park avenue last May 27.. Nixon's new execution date is Friday, Oct. 28.

The stay was granted because Judge John C. Lewe, who sentenced Nixon, is ill and cannot sign the bill of exceptions on which Attorney Joseph Clayton, colored, seeks a review of the case before the Supreme court. The law permits attorneys, under these circumstances, to go before another judge and obtain a stay.

BEG YOUR PARDON

In an item Oct. 15 the address of Mrs. Lenore Geis was erroneously given as 2210 Thome avenue. The street number should have read 2219.

On Oct. 11 it was incorrectly stated that a prowler was surprised in the home of Jerry McKillen, 1506 East Marquette road. The prowler was discovered in the home of Jerry McMillen, 1506 East 67th street. The misstatement was due to an error in a City News Bureau story.

ULSTER PREMIER SAYS NATION WILL NOT JOIN IRELAND

BELFAST, Northern Ireland, Oct. 18.—(AP)—Viscount Craigavon, premier of Northern Ireland, assured the house of commons today of the "territorial integrity" of Northern Ireland.

"There is no need," he said in connection with Nationalist moves to unite Ulster and Ireland, "for the slightest anxiety among the people of Northern Ireland that any successful encroachment will be made on the constitutional territorial integrity of Northern Ireland."

Concerning defense of the border, Lord Craigavon said he placed "absolute reliance on steps that have been taken to meet the event of a national emergency."

TRADER'S STAMP

By CALEB

WHEN WE DECIDED to install a stamp collectors' division in our book department, we anticipated a good deal of pleasurable adventure. Somehow, there is nothing quite like the thrill that comes from the discovery or even the handling of the salmon, blue, red or yellow beauties whose modest faces and fine engravings span the width of man's understanding of this world and its highways.

Already our collection of stamps has grown amazingly, and from it we derive all the pleasure we anticipated—and more. But an interesting new angle has developed, coming about quite naturally because of the fact that a considerable share of our stamp customers belong to the younger generation.

That is not surprising, since some of the very fine collections belong to youngsters in their teens who began activities in the field almost as soon as they entered school. But the thing that did surprise us was the sound business judgment displayed by these same collectors, many of them still in short trousers. Alert, keen, shrewd, they seem almost to be born traders. The sharpness of their perception in detecting points both good and bad leaves one breathless.

But in addition they have a well developed system of ethics. The whole value of some stamp may hinge upon a detail so minute as to escape completely the slightly inattentive eye. We find our young customers scrupulous in their insistence that all the qualities in their own stamps be pointed out—the bad as carefully as the good. Only then, and not before, will they begin the discussion of value and worth.

We are not prepared to say precisely where the credit here belongs. All we know is that somehow or other these youngsters have absorbed a principle that dominates our business here and has done so by design since the day the store was opened. When this store was founded, the principle of "Let the buyer beware" was still frequently pursued in merchandising. We substituted "seller" for "buyer," and we regard the results as ample justification for the step.

Consequently, we are gratified at the discovery that by some agency—probably many have contributed to it—a clear cut idea of fine business ethics has been instilled in the younger generation upon whose shoulders the mantle of tomorrow's business conduct must fall.

Wife's Affair with Victim Related at Trial.

torney, Leslie Curtis. The prosecutor said Sikora stalked his victim to the corner and there shot him down deliberately.

The defense is relying on the unwritten law to save the young killer. His legal plea will be emotional insanity.

Smith pictured Rudolph as a trusting husband who blamed only his rival and tried to save Margaret from a mistake that he attributed to her youth and the influence of the older man.

When she began refusing him her caresses, the defense attorney said, Rudolph asked:

"Margaret, what has come into our lives? Is it anything I have done?"

They talked that night for hours, and finally, unable to sleep, arose and dressed to talk some more.

"I want to call it quits," she told him at length.

"Is it another man?" he asked. And Margaret answered, "No."

"I'm changed," she went on. "I no longer love you. I never loved you as I should."

Rudolph went then to her mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Boehme of 7809 Elm Grove avenue, Elmwood Park, who has defended him as a model husband and sided against her daughter since the shooting.

He Hears of Rival.

His mother-in-law told him that Margaret had confessed her love for Solomon and showed him a letter in which Solomon had given Mrs. Boehme his promise to end the romance. Rudolph burst into tears as his attorney told the story. That night Rudolph told Margaret he knew about Solomon.

He urged her to quit her job, but she refused. He asked her to go on a vacation to get away from Solomon. She said she feared she could not give Solomon up and told her husband she wanted to live alone. He took her to a hotel where she remained a week. Later he helped her move into another hotel. On Sunday mornings he took her coffee in a thermos bottle and breakfasted with her.

Then she moved to the home of a woman friend at 2241 Bissell street, where he called on her frequently until a stranger warned him to stay away. She was living there when he killed Solomon.

Boy Tells of Shooting.

An eyewitness story of the shooting was told by Weldon Graham, 16 years old, the newspaper boy who sold Solomon a paper a moment before the shooting. Graham said Sikora parked his car across the street from the newsstand, walked over where his rival stood reading, and opened fire.

Dr. Jacob Goodman, coroner's physician, told the jury Solomon had evidently been shot seven times, although other witnesses said there were only five shots.

HEDGE REMOVED AT WHITE HOUSE FOR IRON FENCE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 18.—[Special.]—The privet hedge around the White House grounds, since 1911 an obstacle to visitors who wish to peer into the President's yard, now is being removed. With completion of a new high iron fence around the grounds the hedge no longer is of importance.

Removal of the hedge is expected to improve materially the view of the White House and the grounds from the entire southern semi-circular boundary and also to improve appearance of the grounds.

Capt. Howard Ker, army corps of engineers, in charge of the care of the White House building and grounds, pointed out that the hedge had been damaged by construction of the fence and that it had grown thin and scraggly.

NEW BAUHAUS DESIGN SCHOOL IS REORGANIZED

Reorganization of the new Bauhaus school of design, located in the old Marshall Field home at 1905 Prairie avenue, was announced yesterday by Attorney Emil C. Wetten. He represents a new corporation created to reopen and operate the school.

The school was operated last year by the Association of Arts and Industries, with Lasslo Maholy-Nagy, a Hungarian, as director. He filed suit against the association for back pay of $2,750 last Saturday.

Wetten said that the new corporation took over Maholy-Nagy's contract with the association and all physical assets of the institution. Wetten would not say what connection Maholy-Nagy will have with the reorganized school. The attorney said the school will reopen soon.

IN THE HURRICANE'S WAKE...

Large sections of New England were completely wrecked by the worst storm in its history. Telephone lines were paralyzed—2364 men and 599 motor vehicles were lent by the Associated Bell Companies for the gigantic task of restoring service.

12 hours after the request for help, two special trains of telephone men and equipment left Chicago for the hurricane area. Where the railroads ended, they took to the roads, and arrived fully equipped to bring order out of chaos.

Millions of feet of wire and cable and train loads of other equipment, rushed from Western Electric warehouses strategically located for just such emergencies, were installed by telephone workers from as far west as Minnesota, as far south as Oklahoma!

Help for New England from ILLINOIS!

● Even as the winds died and the waters receded in stricken New England, telephone men and supplies were being marshalled from Cairo to Chicago to help rebuild the storm-lashed area's vital communications. At the same time similar help was being mobilized by nine other Bell Companies.

Answering the urgent call of the New England Telephone & Telegraph Company, your own Illinois Bell Telephone Company rushed scores of men, caravans of trucks and trailers and tons of tools aboard special trains headed for the storm area.

We've Had Emergencies, Too

We've had floods and fires, and two years ago large sections of Illinois lay buried under millions of tons of sleet, with thousands of telephones out of service. Help came from other Bell Companies, and vital telephone service was quickly restored. Today, Illinois telephone workers are proud to have been called to the aid of New England—a striking example of the cooperation and coordination that has enabled the Bell System to give the American people the world's best telephone service!

Organized For Cooperation

Not just by chance could ten companies of the Bell System contribute help in a gigantic job of restoring service that would tax the resources of any one of them. Intercompany aid in time of need is a basic feature of Bell System practice, which is of value to Illinois telephone users as well as those in New England. Cooperation between all 25 Bell Companies and Western Electric, supplier of equipment, provides standardized methods, tools and materials from coast to coast. Only a universal telephone system could be ready with this essential uniformity of methods and material, the skilled man power and the unwavering morale necessary in such a crisis.

JAPS CAPTURE 2 STRONGHOLDS ON HANKOW FRONT

Open Way for Assault on Railway to Capital.

SHANGHAI, Oct. 18.—(AP)—The capture of two important bulwarks of Chinese resistance in the Yangtze river valley was announced tonight by the Japanese. They reported seizure of Yangsin, protecting the southern railway approach to Hankow, and Teian, protecting the northern railway approach to Nanchang.

The capture of Yangsin put the Japanese in position to press westward across the plains of southeastern Hupeh province to strike the Canton-Hankow railway. The Japanese expect to strike it at a point about fifty miles south of Hankow.

The victory, coming after eighty-four days of a stalemate costing many casualties, resulted from a Japanese pincer movement north and south of Yangsin.

Slow Drive from Kiukiang.

Yangsin was the center of Chinese defenses southeast of Hankow, the provisional Chinese capital. The advance to Yangsin, was a slow drive from Kiukiang, which fell to the Japanese in late July.

The fall of Teian also was credited to a pincer movement.

The Chinese at Teian long have held up the Japanese advance down the railway from Kiukiang to Nanchang, once an important Chinese aviation base.

Another Japanese force, thrusting toward Hankow along the Yangtze, was about seventy-five miles by river from its goal. From the northeast, still another force threatened Macheng.

Ahead of this slowly closing semi-circular front, the Japanese sent their warplanes again to smash at communications north and south of Hankow. The bombardments, it was said, were concentrated on railway tracks, stations, and trains.

Planes Blast Defenses.

HONGKONG, Oct. 18.—(AP)—The Japanese invasion of South China was developing tonight into three distinct operations under cover of one of the most intensive aerial campaigns in the history of modern warfare.

Scores of bombing planes ranged over Kwangtung province, ferreting out troop concentrations for machine gun and bomb attacks, and striking at bridges and railway centers. Casualties were said to be running into the thousands.

All drives were directed at the defenses of Canton.

On the north, a powerful motorized column was reported pressing steadily toward Tsengshing, about fifty miles east and slightly north of Canton. An advance somewhat more than fifty miles westward from Tsengshing would sever the Canton-Hankow railway.

100,000 Chinese Bar Way.

One hundred thousand Chinese troops sought to bar the way against this formidably equipped Japanese force. They arranged defenses east of Canton in hilly terrain.

A second Japanese force, having sliced through the lifeline railway between Canton and Hongkong—the Canton-Kowloon line—was pushing southwestward over some fifteen miles of Pearl [Canton] river delta country toward the Bocca Tigris forts.

Chinese fortifications on two small islands lie opposite each other across the Pearl river thirty miles southeast of Canton. Either of these "mouth of the Tiger" fortresses would be within easy artillery range from the river shore.

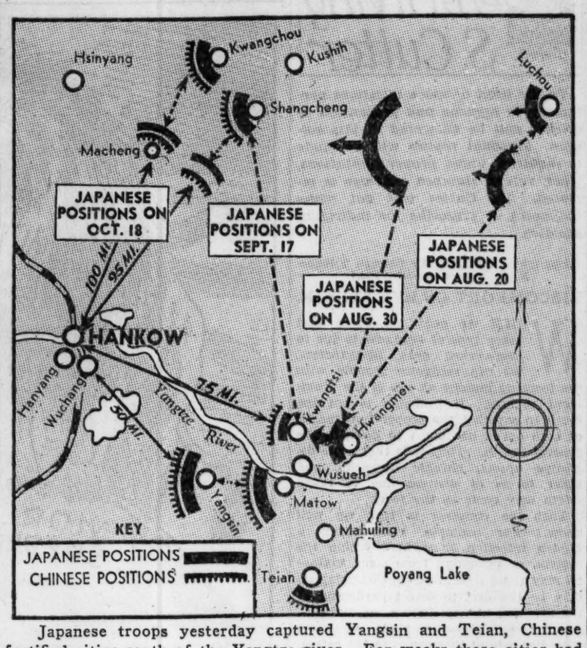
If the invaders could silence the modern guns emplaced in the Bocca Tigris forts the way might be cleared for light war craft on the river.

The third Japanese force was reported closing in on Sheklung, one of four islands in the East river, a tributary of the Pearl, crossed by the Canton-Kowloon railway.

It was estimated that 3,000 square miles of Kwangtung province had been conquered in the week old invasion of South China. The Japanese strength was estimated at 60,000 men. The most advanced expeditionary force so far has gone about fifty miles inland.

Japs Gain Again in Yangtze Campaign

(Story in adjoining column.)



Japanese troops yesterday captured Yangsin and Teian, Chinese fortified cities south of the Yangtze river. For weeks these cities had held out against Japanese assaults. The Japanese also reported their troops were pressing upon Macheng, northeast of Hankow. The recent progress in the Japanese campaign to close in on Hankow is indicated on the map, which shows various Japanese positions since Aug. 20. This map is based upon one recently passed by the Japanese censor. It shows how the Japanese armies advance in various sectors with wide unconquered areas between the different forces.

SONG PROMOTER GOES TO TRIAL IN MAIL FRAUD CASE

Daryl C. Doran went on trial yesterday before Federal Judge William H. Holly on twelve counts of using the mails to defraud. He is accused of duping hundreds of song writers with promises to market their compositions.

Daryl C. Doran.

According to postal inspectors, Doran, who is 29 years old, has been operating eight years and has netted $10,000 a year. There are more than 1,000 complainants, many of them elderly, the inspector said.

Doran's procedure, it is charged, was to learn the names of song writers who had copyrighted their work, then send them assurances he could sell it. He would inform the customers that records could be made for $25 to $50, the government alleges. The government hopes to show records could have been made for a dollar or two, and that Doran never sold any of the compositions.

The case is being heard without a jury. Doran, who has been in the county jail for the last few weeks, lived at 20 East Delaware place.

THE TRIAL OF THE NAZI SPIES.

The peculiarity of the Nazi spy prosecution in New York is the direct accusation of Hitler's government and the naming of the German officials accused of instigating and directing the work of the secret agents in the United States. Ordinarily governments whose secret police are constantly on the alert to stop the trade in military information are content to arrest the agents and upon conviction imprison or execute them without raising the question of governmental responsibility.

Germany has been beheading a spy or two every month for the last year. The British have had some trouble and the French even more. Here in America, when a retired naval officer was convicted of giving a Japanese naval attaché some information, the attaché got out of the country and the Japanese government was not brought in.

Usually these matters are handled with such discretion that the foreign minister of one country may receive the ambassador of another and, whatever their private thoughts may be, neither is embarrassed by the fact that the agents of one have just been caught double-crossing the government of the other. It is assumed that all countries employ prowlers to get any information they can regarding anything that may be hidden in military preparations. Each country welcomes and entertains army and naval attachés from other nations, invites them to observe army games and maneuvers, just as one football coach entertains the scouts from his opponents on the schedule. Then the countries employ snoopers, at a snooper's pay, to prowl around in the dark precincts. This game apparently has its rules and the gentlemen who play it try to save face so that they may meet at the club as good friends.

The United States district attorney, Lamar Hardy of New York, is acting in accord with the state department in shoving the responsibility for the Nazi agents now on trial directly up to Hitler's government, accusing it of having instigated the activities of the spy ring, which Mr. Hardy says were to include the murder of a post commander when and if he should be carrying a portfolio containing the desired secrets. Mr. Roosevelt has supported this method of handling the affair by saying publicly that he and the military authorities are much worried by foreign espionage.

Nazi activities in the United States have been irritating possibly beyond the scope of their consequences. The ideas and the practices of the Nazis make the average American hot under the collar even when they do not affect him. He hates everything he knows about the present régime as it applies to the Germans themselves and as it reaches over the borders of other countries to enslave them. It's one of the detestable systems of government to which so much of the world has been subjected. Many Americans are so mad that they might be persuaded to do something out of the realm of their national necessities which would be foolish.

Politically the trial drops like a ripe apple into the silk hat out of which the rabbits come. It serves to divert attention from the activities of the agents of another detestable form of government who have so closely tied themselves into the performances and promises of the New Deal. The New Dealers may congratulate themselves that a good wind blew this fruit off the tree, enabling them to divert the public attention from the subversionists they encourage and use to the subversionists that haven't obtained any political recognition.

Americans could not live with either of these abhorrent types of government and social order. They are, however, entertaining the agents of one while their government is officially fighting the other. Irritating as the Nazis are, they have not yet found their way into departments of government or key positions of political and economic life. The communists have.

CIVILIAN CO-OPERATION IN WAR.

In recent army practice maneuvers in North Carolina the coöperation of civilians was important and highly efficient. Its possibilities we trust will be fully and persistently exploited. In the elaborate preparation which has been going on in Great Britain in recent years voluntary coöperation by civilians under the direction of the military authorities has constituted, at least in its scope and detail, a novel aspect of the development of defense, and the lesson, we are glad to note, has not been lost upon our own military authorities.

This voluntary coöperation is in the principle and spirit of free peoples. It exemplifies their method of dealing with responsibilities and problems, even in the acute emergency of armed conflict. It will always bring better results in the end, both in the affairs of war and those of peace, than the methods of socialism or communism, which in one guise or another, under this pretense or that, are advanced by theorists. The free man is the best man, his ways and institutions are the best, in the long view and the short. The showy accomplishments of authority do not long stand the test of experience and are purchased, as history proves, at too high a price. The asserted efficiency of autocratic rule is a delusion which a free people should not permit themselves to be deceived by, for at best it does not produce true or lasting efficiency, but barters a temporary and superficial gain for a long continuing and fundamental loss.

Where preparation for war ignores and overrules the immense energy and staying power of a free society, it is preparation for final defeat and victory. Schemes for regimentation in war as in peace are costly delusions. They are not necessary to coöperation among a free people and are far inferior to the coöperation of which a free people are capable.

FREEDOM OF BROADCASTING.

Delegates to the United Lutheran Church in America at their Baltimore convention were given a warning by one of their members, S. F. Telleen, treasurer of the laymen's radio committee, against government control of broadcasting. Mr. Telleen advised his fellow Lutherans that there were dangers to religious freedom in such control which should not be lost to view regardless of the arguments against the present American theory of independent radio operation.

"We have made and are making a contribution to the religious life of the country without any dictation whatsoever," said Mr. Telleen, "a contribution which would be impossible if we had any sort of government control over radio." There is already a degree of government control which has made itself manifest in burocratic Fascism, but which at present may be regarded as chiefly minatory.

The control of renewals is a hold the federal government has upon the independence and freedom of radio broadcasting. The communications act also gives power to the President to close or take over any studios and apparatus whenever there exists a war or threat of war, or state of public peril, or disaster, or other national emergency, or, most significant of all, whenever he thinks it necessary to do so to preserve the neutrality of the United States. This last provision is so broad that it might be used to effect the purpose of autocracy in any one of the constantly recurring crises in Europe or Asia.

Radio as a private enterprise has permitted the use of the communications freely by religious organizations without any dictation. As Mr. Telleen remarked, this would be endangered by political control, which might, indeed, result in the exclusion of all religious service from the air. Politicians frequently meet what they regard as difficulties in matters of creed by barring the subject wholly. Radio as a private enterprise has found no such trouble, and the question of state control of religion or of religious influence of the state has not arisen. Religions have the freedom of assembly, speech, and of the press. They are free because they are free as yet from state control. That will not be true of radio as government interference with this powerful influence in communications is extended. "If any of you are of the opinion," said Mr. Telleen, "that government control would be an advantage in any way I should like to suggest that you inform yourselves more thoroughly on the subject."

Radio is controled absolutely in Nazi Germany, in communist Russia, and in Fascist Italy, and at least in Germany and Russia religions are subjected to oppression, restriction, ridicule, and abuse. When a government seeks to control people absolutely and deprive them of all their liberties, its first step is to stop the free spread of information, free expression of opinion, and the free service of religious belief.

Editorial of the Day

IS IT MISREPRESENTATION?

[The Minneapolis Tribune.]

There have undoubtedly been "extravagant statements and misrepresentations of government policies," as an unnamed administration spokesman charged this week. The three examples cited, however, are far from convincing.

This spokesman complains, to begin with, that it has been made to appear that "the federal government was going to establish the regional equivalents of the Tennessee Valley Authority all over the United States." But Mr. Roosevelt has never given any assurance to the contrary, and, in fact, has sponsored a regional planning bill which might easily prove to be a first step in that direction.

Again this mysterious administration voice is raised in protest against the misrepresentation of those who maintain that it has "become impossible to raise money publicly for new privately owned power plants." "Impossible," it must be confessed, is an unfortunate choice of words, but the administration has vastly compounded the difficulties of raising money for such purposes. Consider, for example, the law which permits Secretary Ickes to give funds to municipalities to build public power plants in competition with private companies which have refused to accept what Mr. Ickes, and he alone, considers a "fair and reasonable" offer of sale. Does any one suppose that this law, or the antagonist policies of the administration generally, have facilitated the public financing of new privately owned power plants?

But the last example of "misrepresentation" is the most extraordinary of all. It seems that the critics of the New Deal have actually had the gall to suggest that the "federal tax burden was far higher than it had been two, three or five years ago." This is supposed to be a case of conscienceless deception, the final clinching proof of fraud. But the records will show that the government's tax receipts were $2,080,000,000 in the fiscal year 1933, and $6,242,000,000 in the fiscal year 1938. There is some slight reason to believe, in short, that the federal tax burden has not been materially lightened over that period, and the increase of more than $4,000,000,000 might justifiably tempt some unscrupulous partisans to remark that it has grown a trifle heavier. As for the $4,000,000,000 deficit estimated for the present fiscal year, there is some reason to believe that it does not point in the direction of a less oppressive tax load.

There is not much to be said on behalf of those who have deliberately misrepresented government policies, or who have indulged in extravagant statements with regard to them. But if the anonymous administration spokesman can offer no better examples of fact distortion than these he is not apt to find a very sympathetic audience for his lamentations. We assume, of course, that he was not objecting to the truth, but only to its perversion for political purposes. Under the circumstances he would do well to look still further for examples of truth-twisting which do not have so many irritating facts to base them.

SOCIAL JUSTICE IN THE ZOO.

The editor of this column, frequently accused in political discussions of Toryism, Bourbonism, and die-hard conservatism, is at heart a quixotic supporter of forlorn hopes, underdogs, lost causes, and forgotten men. At the moment he is whipping himself into an emotional frenzy over the neglect of the lesser panda in favor of the giant panda, whose infantile representatives, Su-Lin and Mei-Mei, have been the Shirley Temples of the Brookfield zoo.

During all the excitement over the huge, harlequin honey bears from China, the lesser panda has been working at his job day by day, without getting a tumble from the populace. It's an outrage, says the Linemaster, and there ought to be a law. Is it right, we ask you; is it in accordance with the principles of social justice, that the pampered Mei-Mei shall rule the menagerie while her humble cousin, the lesser panda, eats his heart out in envious obscurity?

The lesser panda is a rusty little chunk of an animal, with black legs, white ears, and gray face. He was quite unhappy until recently, when he became the playfellow of a jolly proletarian raccoon. He is mainly a vegetarian, but occasionally he eats eggs, insects, and larvæ in order to mix his vitamins. His native habitat is the high Himalayas along the Chinese frontier, and northward through Yunnan and western Szechwan.

Social discrimination against the lesser panda and in favor of the lummox panda is one of the vices of this industrial age. Down with it, shrieks the Linemaster.

Antidote for Nostalgia.

It is hard, for me to understand this nostalgia for the past glories of the Line. Even you, Ed., don't seem to know a renaissance when you see it. Arcee, Vivian Hughes, Jake Irmiter, Peg Pericles, Allbertee, and especially S'Amuser make the Line something to turn to after the funnies.

THE HAPPY FARMER.

When it is scarcely light
I go into the fields of standing corn,
Shucking, left and right, the yellow ears.

There are pumpkins here and there.
When I find a good one
I throw it into the wagon.
They're fine for pies, or for feeding the cows.

Say, did I eat some breakfast?
Pancakes and sausage and fried potatoes,
And three cups of coffee.

Probably Mary will have cabbage and boiled ham,
And corn bread, and baked potatoes, for dinner,
And hot apple pie.

And for supper she may have
Biscuits and honey and apple sauce,
And mashed potatoes and gravy,
And pumpkin pie.

I'm glad I'm a farmer,
And I like to shuck corn.
The yellow ears mean yellow dollars.
Corn shucking suits me.

Indian Summer Purist.

I regret to see the Line adopting the general but somewhat loose application of the term "Indian summer" to the present fine October weather. In spite of the fact that Thoreau calls every fine day from September to mid-December an "Indian summer day," in the strict New England tradition the term is applicable to the fine weather that often occurs with the "hunters' moon" in November and not that with "harvest moon" of October; such at least is the teaching of my New England forbears.

Masses Cry for Crullers.

The quest for authentic crullers in Chicago has developed, strangely enough, into a major trend among the Line's contributors. The number of communications on the subject has been astonishing. Apparently genuine crullers were rare items, unless home cooked, when this discussion began; apparently, also, there was much confusion in the bakery shop mind about the nature of a cruller.

We will close the debate this week with three contributions that will serve as lighthouses in the fog. Today, a set of verses that express the very soul of crullerism. Tomorrow, an old fashioned recipe for rolling your own crullers. Day after tomorrow, a code of signals to be used for buying the equivalent of American crullers at Italian, Swedish, and Polish food shops. Here is the poem:

GRANNY'S CURLY CRULLERS.

I'll tell you of the cruller, dears,
The origin of which is:
My gran made fancy doughnuts, which
My gramp called "tangled britches."
(Of course, my gran had recipes
Than which there were none whicher,
And even water tasted best
When poured from granny's pitcher.)
She cut the dough eight inches long
By three-quarters of an inch,
Then, with precision, twisted it,
And lastly she would pinch
The ends together carefully,
My granny would—but wait—
Before the "pinch," the thing was formed
Into a figure eight.
She dropped this into deep, hot fat
And when it would obtain
An overcoat of golden brown
She took it out to drain.
A doughnut really is the same
Yet infinitely duller
Than is that luscious curly thing
My granny called a cruller.

DISCOMFORT OF EYE STRAIN.

WHILE we need not agree that every type of headache is due to overworked eyes, nevertheless, we can recognize trouble with the focusing muscles as one of the prominent sources. It probably is not too much to say that the proper functioning of both optics has much to do with the general health. Thus it is that some digestive upsets, chronic backache, and other forms of distress due to reflex strain may come to the fore.

That the converse is true we well know. For example, rheumatism, a hidden infection somewhere within the system, or poisoning from some toxin—all may affect sight, and ophthalmologists may be the first to detect hardening of the arteries, kidney disease, or diabetes, because unmistakable signs of these maladies exhibit themselves in the retina.

Many a nervous patient—one who becomes jittery, fretful, and cross—may present an entirely different picture when strain is removed. That this is a reasonable point of attack has been proved over and over again, especially with those who have been relieved by means of glasses and who sense a dull, aching sensation whenever they fail to wear them.

Of course, there are hundreds of reasons for head pain and we recognize it merely as a symptom that something is wrong somewhere. To say to a sufferer, "Your eyes may be at fault" may first of all be taken as in insult, with the retort, "How can that be? I see perfectly." These persons may read easily, but they do so by overtaxing certain powers of the eyes. They are surmounting refractive errors through effort.

Up to the age of about 45 we all possess a fair amount of reserve, as far as the focusing ability is concerned—that is, we can look at distant and near objects alternately without difficulty. No energy is expended in viewing the former, but when we gaze at the printed page 12 or 13 inches away this is another story. One who is a bit farsighted, for instance, may see well when looking down the street or across a field, but a substantial measure of muscular work will be demanded when that same person attempts to read. This means that the more reading such an individual does without glasses the more energy he will be called upon to expend. Nevertheless, by making the effort, he can see clearly.

Now, the eyes will stand their share of abuse, but why not protect them, and hence avoid overtaxing loads by using carefully adjusted glasses? Many patients will not require spectacles, but if intractable headaches come on at a specific time each day—usually four or five o'clock in the afternoon—and are absent the following morning, it is a simple procedure to have the visual organs checked and corrected if necessary. But a careless fitting is worse than none and the ordinary letter chart is inadequate as a method of testing. Fortunately, we have an instrument known as the retinoscope which should be employed for accurate diagnosis.

In searching for the origin of head pain we must not overlook astigmatism which, if it is mild, may be disregarded, but if severe will interfere with sight. It is less likely, however, to occasion symptoms located in other regions of the body. It is quite a common situation to find a girl or boy of high school age who has never worn glasses complaining of headache because of the necessity of focusing on page after page of print. Suitable lenses for such a one are generally all that is called for.

SEND FOR LEAFLET.

P. L. writes: I know you have written several times on colitis but I was not particularly interested in the subject until a member of my family received a diagnosis of this disorder. I want to read up on the disease. Have you anything along this line?

REPLY.

Many articles on this common complaint have appeared in this column. The highlights of several have been incorporated into leaflet form and this you can get by sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

REPLACES BLOOD OXYGEN.

G. O. writes: How does carbon monoxide do harm?

REPLY.

It acts as a poison to the system by replacing oxygen in the blood.

C. N. writes: Do fibroid tumors ever become cancerous?

REPLY.

It is possible for benign fibroid tumors to become malignant, but it seldom happens.

The volume of Legal Friend mail necessitates printed statements on common questions. No copies or records of the letters or answers are kept. Hence follow-up letters should be complete in themselves. NO EXAMINATIONS NOW.

No examination is scheduled at this writing for policewoman, but we have placed the writer's name on our mailing list for notification of the next examination when called.

The age limits for this examination are 25 to 40 years. The minimum height required is 5 feet and the maximum height 5 feet 9 inches [in bare feet]. The minimum weight is 115 pounds and the maximum 180 pounds.

PROBATE CLAIM.

Oak Park, Ill., Oct. 6.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Will you kindly inform me what the procedure is in filing a bill in Probate court? W. H. S.

We assume that you mean filing a claim as a creditor against an estate rather than filing a bill in the sense of a bill in equity. You can obtain a printed form from the clerk of the court, but unless you can get the personal representative of the estate to mark your claim to be allowed it will be necessary for you to keep in touch with the situation and be present when the matter is reached in court, and for this purpose you should employ an attorney.

FOR A LAKE FRONT AIRPORT.

Chicago, Oct. 17.—I see that in subway construction Chicago will have a lot of clay to get rid of. The city has been trying to get a lake front airport for a long time and this seems to be a good opportunity to, at least start one. What could be simpler than to dump the clay in the lake at a suitable spot to build an airport? Since Chicago has started to get a few improvements it might as well do it up right. M. J.

CLAY FROM THE SUBWAY.

Chicago, Oct. 17.—I note that the engineers are worrying about the disposal of clay which will be excavated out of the tube for the proposed subway. At 19th and Wolcott streets we would welcome the idea of dumping all of the 2,000,000 cubic feet of clay right into the abandoned quarry. I am sure that if the engineers and contractors would consult the city as well as the Chicago Lime works an amicable plan could be worked out, which would not only provide a cheap dumping ground for the contractors but the sooner it [the quarry] is filled the quicker the residents in this vicinity will be relieved of the terrible stink created by this hole. Let's have one of your editorials to give this subject a little light.

Chicago, Oct. 17.—The city engineers are wondering how and where to get rid of subway clay. Let me suggest a place to them—where they would be performing a great public service.

Haul by truck all clay to the abandoned Hawthorne stone quarry at 31st street and Cicero avenue [and the Belt railroad]; no more smoke, smell, and dirt, but a beautiful piece of land can thus be restored to the public. Thank you. LEOPOLD J. LISKA.

A HINT TO MR. LUCAS.

Chicago, Oct. 17.—Congressman S. W. Lucas is talking about tariffs, blaming the Republican administration for our present farm ailments. Why didn't the Democrats repeal this tarif law?

The rest of the world enacts protective tarif laws, and here we swing the doors wide open and make this country a dumping ground for foreign farm products. Then we pay the farmer for not growing these products that are being dumped here.

Keep everything out that we can produce in the United States and thus put men back to work. UNEMPLOYED.

IN SUBURBAN SCHOOLS.

Palatine, Ill., Oct. 15.—Fire Prevention week has come and gone. Yet can we not have fire inspection for our local suburban schools?

To facilitate cleaning, the floors in our local schools have been highly waxed and children must hold tightly to the banisters to keep from falling. Children in the lower grades cannot play the nursery games because of the insecure footing. In case of fire or panic the casualties would be appalling. I fear for the safety of my two little children.

ANXIOUS MOTHER.

A THOUGHT FOR CANDIDATES.

Chicago, Oct. 17.—I saw a sign in a washroom the other day which read: "A man's ambition must be small to write his name on a washroom wall." Maybe the telephone company ought to have one on its poles reading as follows: "Politicians who plaster their names on a pole must have the intelligence of a mole." MAXIMILIAN E. HUHNKE.

BOLTERS OF BLAINE WERE MUGWUMPS.

Berwyn, Ill., Oct. 14.—Your paper mentions the old time word mugwump. The name was applied to a group of theretofore stanch Republicans as a result of the 1884 Republican nomination of the "plumed knight," James G. Blaine. The result of their contemplation was the indorsement of Grover Cleveland, then governor of New York. They were reformers with a big "R."

Two of the chief mugwumps were renowned editors of newspapers—E. Lawrence Godkin and George William Curtis.

I do not believe the mugwumps ever made any nominations. They believed in reform outside of the parties. Theodore Roosevelt was very friendly with those New York mugwumps but refused to follow them into the Cleveland camp. Some years later one of his acts as a legislator of New York was severely criticized by Editor Godkin and he simply said he did not desire to notice that criticism, as he did not believe the editor of the Evening Post "had the wish nor perhaps the power to tell the truth." This has been given first place as polite stigmatization of a liar, although it was rivaled by the same author about twenty years later when, as President, he said of a succeeding editor of that paper: "In making that statement the editor of the Evening Post practiced every known form of mendacity." The jury is still debating as to which stigmatization should be immortalized. Take your choice. C. C. JAMES.

A TORT, NOT A DIVORCE ACTION.

Chicago, Oct. 17.—Before your department becomes swamped with letters from the astute lawyers who noted an error I made in this column I should like to correct myself.

In my letter which appeared in your paper on Monday I related my first experience in the Municipal court as a legal secretary. However, I erroneously stated that I had gone there to file a divorce suit. It was a tort action, not a divorce suit, which brought me to the Municipal court. My few experiences in divorce cases have brought me in contact solely with the clerks of the Superior and Circuit courts, these courts being the only ones where divorce suits may be filed.

A WORD AGAINST SKIMPING.

Grand Rapids, Mich., Oct. 14.—One reason why times are not improving faster is that too many people have got into the habit of skimping and saving, buying shoddy goods. Of course, some people have to economize from necessity, but there are a lot that do not have to, and yet are doing it from force of habit. These are the ones who are holding up the entire procession. It may be smart to be thrifty, but not miserly.

The people who are eternally looking for bargains have been educated wrong. After all, there is nothing like the personal satisfaction that comes from owning something fine, and in wearing good clothes. When some one says: "Gee, you look like a million dollars," it peps you right up and gives you a different outlook on life.

The man who wears a 50 cent shirt, a 50 cent hat, and a 50 cent pair of glasses is not an asset to any community. If he can afford to buy better and doesn't, he is a cheapskate and a tightwad.

HENRY SCHMIEL.

CHARITY BEGINS AT HOME.

Cicero, Ill., Oct. 16.—I have read in this morning's TRIBUNE the platform of Candidate A. F. Maciejewski for congressman from the 6th district. He declares for generous assistance for the aged, blind, and dependent children. Another of his planks advocates shorter hours with more pay.

As the wife of an employé of the town of Cicero I want to suggest that he start right now at home and do something about paying the back salaries of the employés of his own town, which are nine and a half months in arrears to date.

REST PLACE TO GO NUTTING.

Chicago, Oct. 17.—This is in reply to an inquiry for information by Mrs. Valerie Rich who wants to know where she can find just the right place to take her five children nutting and find plenty of nuts.

If Mrs. Rich will take her brood and board the Capital Limited and get off at the end of the line she will find herself and children in a beautiful place called Washington, D. C. There she and the young ones will find the greatest assortment of nuts the world has ever seen. And they should all be "picked."

FIRE MARSHAL DENIES HE USED BRUTAL METHODS

Insists Confession Not Due to Force.

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 18.—[Special.]—State Fire Marshal Sherman V. Coultas today denied to a jury in Circuit court that he or his investigators had used violence in obtaining a confession from William Rath of this city who is on trial for arson.

Rath, who is being tried for the third time in connection with a fire and explosion that destroyed two houses he owned on March 16, 1937, denies his confession was voluntary. In previous trials he declared he was beaten and starved for thirteen hours and was forced to sign by Coultas and his men.

Involved in Chicago Case.

Coultas is involved in a similar case in Chicago where, it is charged, he and two assistants used threats and kicks to force Frank Kolesiak and Emil Guerrieri to make false confessions of responsibility for a fire in the Hotel Center last April 6. Eight persons were burned to death in the blaze. Kolesiak and Guerrieri repudiated their confessions as soon as they were brought into court and subsequently both were freed after the grand jury investigated their charges. Attorneys for the two men are seeking warants charging Coultas with kidnaping, extorting a false confession, and illegal arrest.

At the trial here today Coultas in dulcet tones reported that no pressure of any kind had been used on Rath. He had not been forcibly detained at the fire marshal's office, Coultas said, nor had he been subjected to any maltreatment.

Case Rests on Confession.

So genteel were the investigators, Coultas said, that they even invited Rath to go to lunch with them. He refused, however. Coultas also said Rath left the office alone several times during the day. The confession was won when the investigators pointed out discrepancies in Rath's story, he declared.

A. M. Fitzgerald, chief defense attorney, said the state's whole case rested on the allegedly voluntary confession. He said the state would try to prove there was an odor of gasoline at Rath's houses after the fire, despite testimony to be offered by Assistant Fire Chief William Green who, it is understood, will say he had detected no such odor.

Fire Marshal Coultas' conduct in the Chicago case is being investigated by Gov. Horner personally.

Chain Restaurant Robber Is Captured by Lookouts

With two detectives parked outside and looking in the window, Owen Prytherch, 34 years old, last night attempted to hold up the cashier of a Thompson's restaurant at 138 South Canal street. The detectives, Edward Smith and Richard Cotter, waited until Prytherch pocketed $32, then advanced with revolvers drawn and captured him. At Desplaines street station he admitted he had robbed several other restaurants of the same chain in the last week. He lives at 666 Madison street.

2D WIFE FORCED HIM TO WED HER, SAYS BIGAMIST

Clyde Rittel, 30 years old, had an unusual excuse yesterday when he was arraigned before Judge William J. Murray at Crown Point, Ind., on a charge of bigamy. He said his second wife, Kathryn Wilfort of Streator, Ill., and her parents forced him into marriage.

Mrs. Florence Rittel, mother of the defendant's five children, who had brought the complaint against her husband, pleaded with the court to release him. All she wanted was to have him back, she said.

"I don't see what you want with him," said Judge Murray, "but I will continue the case to Jan. 12 and allow Rittel to sign his own bond. If he goes back to this girl who married him bigamously I will send him to prison."

JUDGE REFUSES AN EASY OUT FOR GRETNA GREENS

Won't Annul Marriage of Bride for Two Months.

Judge Philip J. Finnegan refused to annul a Gretna Green marriage yesterday when he learned that the child bride in the case had lived with her husband for two months after their elopement. He took under advisement a similar case in which the honeymoon lasted two days.

"I won't lend this court to such romantic ideas," said Judge Finnegan. "The trouble with modern children seems to be their parents, who fail to exercise proper supervision over them. They let them run off to Gretna Greens, and then ask the courts to subscribe to the legal fiction that what actually happened did not happen."

Advises Suit for Divorce.

Both cases were presented by Attorney Arthur K. Young, employed by the Legal Aid society. The first was that of Pearl Ehlers Irwin, 218 South California avenue.

Her mother, Mrs. Anna Ehlers, testified that on April 18, 1936, when she was 14 years old, she eloped to Crown Point, Ind., with Joseph Irwin, 21 years old. She returned to her mother two months later.

Judge Finnegan refused to grant an annulment. He advised Young to amend his bill and seek a divorce. Under Illinois law, grounds for annulment are also grounds for divorce.

Elopement to Waukegan.

The other annulment was sought by Mrs. Pearl Watkins, 716 Hinman avenue, Evanston, on behalf of her daughter, Mrs. Olive Watkins Gross. The mother testified that her daughter, then 15 years old, eloped to Waukegan on Nov. 30, 1936, with Milton E. Gross, 30 years old, 138 Asbury avenue, Evanston. She located the couple two days later and took her daughter home, she testified. Judge Finnegan took that case under advisement.

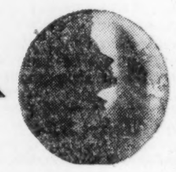
"America Facing Tomorrow's World"

—The New York Herald Tribune

presents its 1938 Forum on Current Problems...an event of importance to every citizen



Once a year some 5,000 leaders of this country's organized groups meet in New York to see and hear acknowledged spokesmen on problems of the day. This meeting is the Herald Tribune Forum. The speakers are national and world authorities in their various fields. The audience that attends—several thousand delegates, representing federated women's clubs, universities and schools, civic organizations and national societies—expands to an audience of millions through press and radio.

The whole idea started eight years ago when Eastern civic leaders, newly aware of the need for a more broadly informed public, asked the Herald Tribune to organize and conduct the first "Conference" on Current Problems. Six states were represented. Six hundred attended. From that kernel grew the present nation-wide Forum, with its representation from every state in the Union, and beyond.

But the essential purpose is still the same: to bring the public closer to clear thinking on what is affecting their lives, today and tomorrow.

This year's program, as listed at the left, is taking final shape. It will present more than fifty distinguished public figures, each with his or her significant point of view on current problems in government, economics, international affairs, science and social welfare. Under the general theme, "America Facing Tomorrow's World," the 1938 Forum will be held three days—October 25 and 26 at the Waldorf-Astoria and October 27 at the New York World's Fair.

Much of this year's Forum will be covered in the nation's press, most of the addresses will be heard over networks of the National Broadcasting Company, and all of the proceedings will be published in full in the Forum Section which will be part of the Sunday New York Herald Tribune on October 30. This issue containing the verbatim report will be sent to those interested anywhere in the United States. Orders enclosing fifteen cents in stamps should be addressed to the Circulation Department, 230 W. 41st St., N.Y.

POLICEMAN AND WOMAN DIE WHEN TRAIN HITS AUTO

Drives Car Around Truck and Onto Tracks.

A Chicago policeman was instantly killed and an unidentified woman riding with him was fatally injured early today when he drove his automobile in front of a rapidly moving Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul, and Pacific freight train at Grand and 77th avenues in Elmwood Park.

The dead policeman was Raymond J. Schmitt, 32 years old, 5040 Altgeld street. He had been on the police force three years and worked out of the Austin station. He was unmarried and lived with his brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Weber. They said yesterday was his day off. They could give no clew to the identity of the woman.

Schmitt was driving east and raced around a large truck that had stopped to allow the train to pass and directly into the path of the train. The woman was taken to the Oak Park hospital where she died a short time after the accident. She was about 25 years old.

Killed by Two Cars.

James Arcus, 60 years old, 1840 North Mobile avenue, a railroader, was fatally injured last night when he was struck by two westbound automobiles as he crossed North avenue at Moody avenue. According to the Cragin police, the first car to hit him was driven by Arthur J. Anderson, 2206 North Narragansett avenue and the second, immediately following, by John J. Malone, 1131 Ontario avenue, Oak Park. Arcus died enroute to St. Anne's hospital. Both drivers were held for the inquest today.

A man about 50 years old was killed last night when he was struck in Lake Shore drive at Surf street by an automobile driven by Benjamin Greenwald, 4536 Magnolia avenue. A clew to the identity of the victim was the name Arthur Dubois written on his shirt.

Dies After Hit-Run Accident.

Oscar Spriggs, 40 years old, died last night in the Alexian Brothers hospital from injuries suffered last Saturday when he was pinned against a parked automobile by a hit and run car at 2332 Fullerton avenue. Spriggs lived at 2027 South 21st avenue, Maywood.

Lee Hertel, 36 years old, 224 South Utica street, Waukegan, died yesterday of injuries incurred in an automobile accident Monday. An employé of the state highway department, Hertel was painting a center line in route 41 north of Gurnee when he was struck by a car driven by William Capello of East Peoria, Ill.

Frank Dahl, 63 years old, 1310 South Ashland avenue, was fatally injured last evening when he was struck by an automobile at Ashland avenue and Jackson boulevard. The driver of the car was Erwin Reis, 36 years old, 5408 Cumnor road, Downers Grove.

Dies After Sunday Crash.

Roy Haier, 28 years old, of 5826 Warwick avenue, died yesterday in the Berwyn hospital, the second fatality in a Sunday automobile crash. The other victim was Mrs. Mita Weith, 62 years, of 5634 Warwick avenue.

They were in the car of Harvey Heniff, 5943 Eddy street, an auditor for the First National bank with three other persons when it collided at Joliet road and 47th street, with another in which three colored men were riding.

Injuries incurred in an auto crash at Aurora last Wednesday caused the death yesterday of Mrs. Hannah Newcomer, widow of the Rev. Peter W. Newcomer, for many years pastor of the Free Methodist church at Belvidere. Mrs. Newcomer, who was 73 years old and a native of England, had just taken up residence in Aurora on the day of her fatal injury.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 653 persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county. Of these, 507 were killed in Chicago, where 15,790 were injured in the same period.

THE MASSACRE
Chicago's 1938 Trafic Toll

More than 98% of the city's automobile fatalities are of a nature physically impossible on an elevated highway.

LEARNS TO RUN MOTORCYCLE, BUT CAN'T STOP; HURT

Robert Thuerk, 23 years old, 4729 North Whipple street, went for a motorcycle ride yesterday with a friend, William Jacobs, 5838 North Western avenue. As he bounced along astride the luggage carrier, Thuerk tried to figure out how Jacobs operated the machine.

They stopped in Evanston and while Jacobs was visiting an acquaintance, Thuerk slipped into the saddle and tinkered with various gadgets. He found out how to start the motorcycle, but didn't know how to stop it. It zigzagged across Chicago avenue and crashed into a plate glass window of Bernard and Lee, Inc., automobile dealers at No. 1033.

At St. Francis hospital physicians said Thuerk was suffering from a possible skull fracture and numerous cuts.

PWA ENGINEERS MEET WITH CITY SUBWAY EXPERTS

U. S. Refuses Grant for State St. Bridge.

BY WILLIAM BROMAGE.

Col. Henry M. Waite, chairman of the Public Works administration commission that is to supervise the building of Chicago's subways, arrived from Washington yesterday to begin conferences with city and PWA engineers on details of the subway construction. Digging is scheduled to begin by Dec. 15.

During the day PWA officials in Washington refused the city a $1,350,000 grant for a new State street bridge. The existing bridge must be torn down before the State street subway is dug under the Chicago river. City officials said refusal of the federal grant would not retard the bridge project. The city has $3,437,000 on hand for this purpose, the proceeds of a bond issue sold eight years ago.

Meets With City Engineers.

Col. Waite met with the other three members of his commission and Philip Harrington and Charles E. DeLeuw, city traction engineers, at PWA headquarters in the Civic Opera building. The other commission members are Joshua D'Esposito of Chicago and Robert Ridgway and H. M. Brinckerhoff of New York.

Carl F. Farbach, general counsel for the PWA accompanied Waite from Washington. Farbach is to prepare the formal contract between the PWA and the city, fixing terms of an 18 million dollar federal grant for the 40 million dollar subway project.

Col. Waite's board is the one which selected the location and type of subways that are to be built. The board's plan was substituted for the city's subway program on which the original application for a grant was made.

Why Changes Were Made.

Col. Waite gave his reasons why changes were made in the city's proposal and why the board chose two rapid transit subways instead of one rapid transit and two street car tubes as the city suggested.

One of the PWA subways is to be built in State street for north and south side elevated trains. The other is to be in Dearborn and Lake streets and Milwaukee avenue and will be used by trains of the Logan Square elevated line. The city proposed a State street subway for the elevated and two subways for east-west street car lines across the loop.

The commission decided, Col. Waite said, that it was more desirous for an initial subway program to build two rapid transit tunnels because it is not known what the loop traction requirements will be after the subways are built and unification of all systems is effected.

It may prove, he said, that universal transfers and a completely unified operation will throw a large volume of surface riding to the rapid transit lines and thus reduce the number of street cars needed in the downtown district.

There were several reasons, he said, for the board deciding on a low level State street subway [about 35 feet underground] instead of the high level [near the surface] subway proposed by the city.

The low level tube, which will be made by tunneling instead of digging an open ditch as the city planned, will cause less hindrance to trafic as the street surface will be disturbed only at a few locations, the board held.

The low level tunnels will permit the building of mezzanine stations which the high level structures would not, Col. Waite continued. In addition, he said, the soil at the lower level is easier to work in and the tunneling method is faster and can be carried on in all weather.

Won't Be Barrier, He Says.

Col. Waite asserted that the low level subways in Dearborn and State streets will not be a barrier to future tunnels from the west side to Michigan avenue and the lake front. Such east-west subways, he said, could be run under those now to be built. Some Chicago engineers who advocated the city plan assert that the 50 to 60 foot depth of underlying subways would be inconvenient if not actually impractical.

Col. Waite said his commission will continue to serve in an advisory capacity throughout the construction period. In addition, there will be a resident PWA engineer in charge of the construction supervision.

This policy was followed by the PWA in the sanitary district construction program. D'Esposito is the resident engineer on the sanitary district project. No appointment for the position of resident engineer on the subway has been announced.

Col. Waite said it will not be necessary for the city to complete all of the subway engineering details and specifications by the time digging is started. The start will be made on two or three sections and specifications can be worked out for other sections as the work progresses.

Haymarket Building Fire Routs Scores; Loss $5,000

Fire which started yesterday in the basement of the Haymarket building, 716 Madison street, routed scores of patrons from the Haymarket theater and sent office workers in the building to the street. The fire was brought under control within an hour. Damage was estimated at $5,000. An overheated furnace was blamed.

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farms

By Frank Ridgway

Pick Show Lambs.

Oct. 18, 1938.

NO favoritism has been shown by the flockmaster at the Tribune's Du Page county farm in his selection of the 114 candidates for the 1938 International Live Stock exposition's car lot fat lamb competition. Lambs from both pure bred and grade ewes have been cut out of the flock of 170 and placed in the show pen.

From the 114 lambs now being pampered two carloads of fifty each will be picked and sent to the International, which is to be held at Union stockyards from Nov. 26 to Dec. 3. All of this year's crop of lambs will be kept on full feed until show week, when they will be brought to the Chicago market. There the 100 show lambs will be cut out and the balance sold.

A Veteran Judge.

The flockmaster, a veteran judge of the biggest shows in the country, believes that much of the success in winning blue ribbons depends upon the farmer's skill in selecting animals to be exhibited. He picks the kind of lambs the judges like best. Light lambs have been in great demand among packers in recent years and are naturally favored by sheep judges. For this reason the flockmaster has stayed with the Southdown breed of sheep because they produce the lighter type of lamb that meets the needs of consumers who want small lambs legs, roasts, and chops.

The practice of keeping the show lambs on full feed for about two months before they are exhibited is followed at the farm. Before they were placed in the fattening pen every lamb in this year's flock was carefully gone over by the trained hands of the flockmaster. Then they were all treated for internal parasites. Since then they have been kept off the pasture where they pick up parasites.

Make Rapid Gains.

Special feed and care have been given the lambs for the last month. They have made rapid gains on a 50-50 mixture of shelled corn and whole oats supplemented by molasses feed and wheat bran. The lambs run to racks kept filled with clover hay. The caretaker expects to start giving them alfalfa hay this week, continuing with the other feeds. The concentrated feeds are fed so that the lambs get all they can eat. They are required to clean up the feed which is given morning and night.

The ewes also have been culled lately. Approximately 150 will be kept to raise lambs next year. Recently 108 ewes were sold to neighboring farmers for breeding purposes. There are forty more yet to be sold.

The ewes are being mated so they will produce lambs in March and April. Trouble from parasites has encouraged the flockmaster to switch back to his original practice of producing early lambs. By having the lambs dropped early he has lambs that are big enough to be treated for internal parasites which they pick up in grazing.

The ewes are being kept in the woodland pastures where they feast on the big crop of acorns.

WPA SWAPS JOBS FOR IOWA VOTES, CHARGE BY G. O. P.

Cites Primary Methods of Democrats.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Des Moines, Ia., Oct. 18.—[Special.]—Accusations that the Democrats are playing politics with WPA and are putting on the squeeze for votes are being broadcast from Iowa Republican headquarters. In the primaries last June similar charges were being made by the Democrats.

Supporters of Senator Guy M. Gillette, first of nine Democrats to survive the White House purge, were then charging that anti-Gillette seeds were sown in the WPA. Now the Democrats are together again and Republicans are saying that while trade follows the flag, WPA jobs follow the political campaigns.

Elections Bring Jobs.

B. B. Hickenlooper, G. O. P. candidate for lieutenant governor, today unbelted a Republican blast from state headquarters.

"On the theory," he declared, "that votes can be bought with temporary jobs, the New Deal is moving to a duplication of the WPA polly-foxing of the 1936 Iowa campaign. In July, 1936, WPA employed 23,292 in Iowa, but in October, just before election, the number jumped to 36,361. Then with election over, the roll was cut to 27,839 in November and to 23,901 in December.

"Thirteen thousand Iowa voters were beckoned into the Democratic camp just before election and after their votes were counted they got a kick in the pants as their reward. The figures indicate that another 13,000 are now being beckoned for the pants kicking process.

WPA Rolls Cut.

"In 1937, when there was no election, WPA workers dropped to a low of 17,300 in November. Then came the time to use the loaded dice again. There has been an increase in WPA rolls since January, and today sees an all-time high on WPA. Will November see another drastic cut and thousands dropped from the rolls?"

In Iowa 56,875 are on relief of various types and 48,652 are getting old age assistance. One issue pressed by the Republicans is the growth of bureocracy at the state house. Since 1932 the employés in the departments in Des Moines have increased from 1,000 to 2,750.

"These 1,750 new political cliff dwellers," says one pamphlet, "are a hidden city, which is the fastest growing community in Iowa. It contains no Republican voters. These new employés draw salaries to a minimum total of $2,000,000 and require office space which is now spreading all over the downtown section of Des Moines."

Maytag Strike an Issue.

In the contest over state offices, the Maytag strike is regarded a weak spot in Gov. Nelson G. Kraschel's campaign for reelection. The strike is not being mentioned in the public speeches. George A. Wilson, Republican opponent of Kraschel, has been silent on this subject, apparently deeming that to give it political airing might tend to stir up the labor trouble. As a silent issue, however, it is said to be working to the disadvantage of the governor. The establishment of military law in Newton from July 20 to Aug. 20 is criticized.

Two years ago Gov. Kraschel beat Wilson, again his opponent this year, by only 2,431 votes, though President Roosevelt rolled up a plurality of 133,779. Politicians regard it as a spot where the Republicans have the best chance.

Wilson in his campaigning is declaring for elimination of useless bureaus and commissions at the statehouse and for home rule, a return of government to local authorities. He is for tax reduction and for "adequate old age pensions—not just half a loaf."

Gov. Kraschel's camp is attacking Wilson's record when he was in the state senate. It accuses him of casting his vote on various measures against the farmer, against labor and industry, and for the utilities.

HORNER, LEHMAN SEE ROOSEVELT ABOUT POLITICS

Governor of Illinois May Get Court Job.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hyde Park, N. Y., Oct. 18.—[Special.]—Henry Horner and Herbert H Lehman, Democratic governors of Illinois and New York, visited President Roosevelt here today and discussed the political campaigns in their states.

Both governors professed a confidence that the Democratic tickets would be victorious, although there were indications that uneasiness about the chances of the Democratic candidates prompted the visits in each case.

There was a tinge of mystery to the excursion of Horner. He admitted he talked Illinois politics with the President, and told him Democratic harmony had been restored since the primary last spring. The main purpose of the call was social, he insisted.

Supreme Court Job Open.

Horner's visit revived the talk about him as a Supreme court possibility. He has been urged by both Illinois senators as a logical candidate for the Cardozo vacancy. The fact that he was called here by the President on short notice tended to support the rumor. The governor was inclined to minimize the story.

Horner spent an hour talking with the President. Then he left for Washington to make a number of official calls about state problems.

Lehman followed Horner into the Presidential study. It was the first time since June that the President had seen the man he once lauded as his "good right arm." They broke over the Supreme court packing issue.

Lehman Evades New Deal.

The big question in New York state politics is whether Lehman will indorse the New Deal in his campaign speeches. He has refused to do this and after his conference with Mr. Roosevelt today he refused to reveal whether he will say some kind words for the federal administration before Nov. 8.

"My speeches will reflect my attitude on many issues," he told newspapers. "The President and I went into all the issues involved, both state and national, and we discussed them very thoroughly. We made several decisions and reached several conclusions. They will be made known in my speeches."

Refuse to Pose Together.

One significant item was that neither Mr. Roosevelt nor Lehman wanted to pose together for a photograph, one that might be used for campaign purposes.

It was recalled that the President was not so choosy when a delegation of Pennsylvania politicians led by Gov. George H. Earle and Senator Joseph Guffey invaded Hyde Park two weeks ago. Dozens of photographs were taken of Mr. Roosevelt in friendly communion with the Pennsylvania bosses, the delegation having brought along camera men.

The photographs now are being broadcast throughout Pennsylvania as evidence of the President's approval of the Guffey-Earle régime despite the unsavory mess in which the Democratic chieftains are involved.

WARNS READERS OF DANGERS TO PRESS FREEDOM

A warning of the dangers in any curtailment of freedom of the press, not only to those who publish newspapers but to those who read them, was given yesterday by Stuart H. Perry, publisher of the Adrian, Mich., Telegram.

Perry spoke on "Editorial Standards and Freedom of the Press" at the 54th annual fall convention of the Inland Daily Press association in the Hotel Sherman. Publishers from the United States and Canada are attending the two day meeting.

"There can be no freedom and therefore no free government," Perry said, "if men cannot openly and fearlessly criticize, attack or defend any and all public men, institutions, parties and issues.

"In its essence freedom of the press is not the right of the publishers to print what they please, but the right of the people to read what they want to read."

SHANAHAN CASE RECORD ALTERED, NURSE TESTIFIES

Miss May White, 2700 Prairie avenue, a nurse, testified yesterday that she believed records she had written when caring for David E. Shanahan, veteran state legislator, in his final illness in 1936, had been altered later. She was a witness in the suit to invalidate Shanahan's deathbed marriage to his secretary, Mrs. Helen Troesch Shanahan.

A previous suit by two cousins, the Misses Mary and Margaret Flynn, ended in a jury disagreement last year. The present trial is being heard by Judge George W. Bristow of Paris, Ill., without a jury. Shanahan died Oct. 6, 1936. His cousins contend he was irrational when, two days before his death, he married Miss Troesch and signed a will giving her his $800,000 estate.

Miss White testified that her notation of "irrational" on the case record for Oct. 1 appeared to have been changed to read "rational" by some one other than herself. Shanahan, she said, was irrational most of the time from Sept. 1, 1936, to his death.

LAW TO PERMIT SIDLEY INQUIRY TO BE DEMANDED

Death Inquest Stopped by Court Order.

TORONTO, Ont., Oct. 18.—[Special.]—Special legislation is to be put through the Ontario parliament next winter to permit full investigation of the mysterious death of Mrs. Maybelle Horlick Sidley, Racine, Wis., malted milk heiress. An inquest into the death of Mrs. Sidley, who died here, was blocked by court injunction.

Attorney General Gordon Conant, who has shown unusual interest in the case, announced the plan to obtain legislative approval tonight. Mrs. Sidley died last July 6 in the home of W. Perkins Bull, Toronto lawyer, where she had been a guest for more than a year.

Difference in Methods.

A legislative act for the specific purpose of upsetting a court ruling would be unprecedented in the United States. Because of the difference between the American legislative and British parliamentary systems, such a measure can be carried through here.

Powers of the provincial attorney general over legislation are much broader than those of the attorney generals in the United States. Conant is a member of the cabinet of the prime minister who is responsible for all legislation and who holds his place because he controls a majority of parliament. Therefore if an attorney general wants legislation to support him in his job he is likely to get it.

Tells Reason for Action.

"It is apparent from the judgment of Justice C. P. McTague in the proceedings recently concluded that our present coroner's act, which has been on the statute books substantially in its present form for many years, is not sufficient or broad enough to meet this or similar situations," said Mr. Conant.

The inquest was halted upon the plea of four of five executors of a will made by Mrs. Sidley less than three months before her death. In the will she made a number of minor bequests and then divided her property among Bull and her only son, William Horlick Sidley, of Racine, Wis., and a military school.

Young Sidley is contesting his mother's will in Racine on grounds that she was of unsound mind, and subjected to undue influence, fraud, and duress at the time it was made. Young Sidley, the fifth executor to his mother's will, had urged the Canadian inquiry and opposed the injunction.

In affidavits read in court here he testified he believed his mother had been poisoned in Bull's home. He testified he had seen Bull give pills to his mother.

LUCKY 13 PLAYS HIM FALSE; JAIL BANK CLERK NO. 13

A young bank clerk with staunch faith in the number 13 was arraigned yesterday before United States Commissioner Edwin K. Walker after confessing he had taken $4,500 from the First National Bank and Trust company of Evanston.

He is Clyde Alfred Beese, 29 years old, 1406 Chicago avenue, Evanston, who came here last year from Akron, O. He admitted he lost the money at northwest side and suburban gambling establishments, which he said were operated by one Johnson. [Johnson was identified by police as William Johnson, who is said to own a number of gambling houses and handbooks.]

As a result of the confession, Assistant United States District Attorney Roy D. Keehn Jr., requested the federal bureau of investigation to determine whether managers of the gambling places knew that Beese was playing with funds stolen from a national bank. If it is found this was known, conspiracy action can be taken, Keehn stated.

In his confession Beese stated that he began stealing on April 13, of this year, after having his horoscope read and being told that 13 was his lucky number. Upon recalling that he was teller No. 13 at the bank, he took $1,300, which he staked on roulette. He won and returned the money. Later he took additional sums, which he lost.

LYONS REBUKES FOE FOR REFUSAL TO DEBATE ISSUES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Quincy, Ill., Oct. 18.—[Special.]—Richard J. Lyons, Republican candidate for United States senator, tonight rebuked his Democratic opponent for refusing to debate with him.

Lyons repeatedly has invited his opponent, Scott W. Lucas, to discuss the issues of the campaign on the same platform. Last week Lucas said he wouldn't debate "with a man who has no regard for the truth."

"My opponent has done the unpardonable thing," said Lyons to 1,000 persons here. "His argument is so weak and his record as a congressman so poor that he is hiding behind Gov. Henry Horner instead of coming out like a man and discussing the vital problems of the state and nation."

Lyons challenged Lucas to deny that the national debt has gone up 18 billions, that the monthly relief cost has risen 180 millions, and that taxes are higher than ever before.

RACINE COUNTY SCHOOL BLAST INJURES FORTY

Racine, Wis., Oct. 18.—[Special.]—Forty children were injured slightly and 50 others were shaken here today in the explosion of an air compressor tank in the basement of the Frankville, Wis., elementary school 10 miles northwest of here. A safety valve that failed to release allowed the pressure in the tank to reach extreme limits.

The blast wrecked the interior of the building and the tank was driven through a 12 inch wall. Windows and walls were shattered and a piano directly over the tank was destroyed.

Most of the injured pupils were between 10 and 14 years of age, and were in a classroom directly over the tank. Only a few required medical attention and all were sent home.

New Plea to Free Malone from U. S. Prison Is Denied

Judge William H. Holly in federal District court yesterday denied a new plea for freedom by William H. Malone, former chairman of the Illinois tax commission. Malone was convicted of evading $50,000 in income taxes. He is confined in the federal detention hospital at Springfield, Mo.

COURT REFUSES REDS' PLEA FOR PLACE ON BALLOT

The Illinois Supreme court yesterday refused permission to three communists to petition for a writ of mandamus directing the state certify their names for the November ballot.

Before the court acted, Morris Childs, candidate for United States senator on the petition which the certifying board rejected, issued a statement saying he was still a candidate. He again confirmed charges of Richard J. Lyons, Republican nominee, that the communists are opposing Lyons.

'The only truth in the tirade of Mr. Lyons," read the statement," is that the communists are opposed to his candidacy. The communist party has not indorsed any candidates by name or candidates of any other party and does not contemplate any such indorsement."

The latter sentence was construed as Childs' reply to Lyons' assertion that communist tactics serve to aid the Democratic nominee, Scott W. Lucas.

Novaes Keeps Her Listeners in Rapt Mood

BY EDWARD BARRY.

Reginal Guiomar Novaes, all alone with her big black piano on the darkened stage of Orchestra hall, kept 2,600 persons hanging on her lightest utterance from 8:15 to 10 o'clock last night. The great Brazilian's sincerity, and her obvious preoccupation with the music in hand gave to everything that she did an air of the highest importance.

As a result, her audience not only listened with deep respect to such authentically first rate music as the Chopin F sharp major impromptu and the Bach D major fantasia and fugue, but also gave full attention to minor matters like the Chopin funeral march and the "Midsummer Night's Dream" scherzo of Mendelssohn. If Mme. Novaes plays them, said the audience in effect, then they must be well worth listening to.

And sure enough they were! Few of us knew that the inconsolable first theme of the funeral march could be played with so rapt and burning a tone quality nor that the middle section could be sung so movingly. And how grandly the melody [the first one] swept up to its climax without any apparent break in the granite line which the pianist had established!

We did not know, or had forgotten, the intoxicating youthfulness of the Mendelssohn scherzo. Here Mme. Novaes solved the difficult problem which this sort of piece poses—that of preserving the music's buoyancy and spirit without compromising its delicate architectural beauty.

Other noteworthy points in the evening's music were the long breathed melodies of the Chopin sonata's second movement, the half-lit air of legendry with which the F-sharp impromptu was invested, the dignity and sonority of the Bach, the magical impression of old rose and silver and suchlike things which the pianist managed to convey in the antique French pieces that opened the recital.

In casting about for some single explanation of Mme. Novaes' excellence one is brought up short by the realization that there isn't any. Such a wealth of dynamic resource and so varied a color palette would not of themselves, singly or even in combination, be able to account for her power over a listener. Neither would a polished technique nor an innate gift for rhythm.

The explanation lies in a combination of these things, and in the fact that they are consistently directed toward the highest musical ends. No effect, no matter how voluptuous it may be, is ever trotted out for its own sake. Mme. Novaes uses the elements of music as a sincere conversationalist uses words and voice colorings. That is, to convey ideas rather than to dazzle of impress the listener.

Thus auspiciously began the Adult Education council's third season of popular price piano recitals.

Londoner's Viewpoint.

Excerpt from letter:

"I, personally, have never lived through such a few days, in the last war or any other time, for this time we all felt it was almost certain death, and it is awfully seldom in one's life that one really comes face to face with that. We could hardly believe it to see our staid old London having trenches dug, not only all over the parks but in all those thousands of "square" gardens that we have in all our squares and "crescents" and "places."

And all the people waiting for their gas masks at the town halls and centers and the amazing orders and arrangements for evacuating all the children and hospitals. They were arranging for 100,000 casualties A DAY in London alone. So you can understand that we all feel as if we had just spent a week in the condemned cell and that at the last minute our execution had been put off."

Social Obligations.

"I'm really ashamed," said Mrs. Norman Hoefeld to her husband, "the Blanks have called three times and we've never retaliated."

The Scouts Do Their Stuff.

A report on the old house with the drawn blinds on Jackson boulevard at Lafiin that bus riders have been inquiring about. It is owned and occupied by an elderly couple who have lived there since the vicinity was the fashionable section of Chicago. The well kept exterior is indicative of the interior, which offers a magnificent illustration of the style of another era, T. B. M. reports. The furnishings are kept covered, and protected from light, which explains the closed blinds. The old couple keep the greater part of the house closed and live in two rooms for a month, then close them and move to another suite.

The old gentleman sometimes may be seen walking along Jackson boulevard in the vicinity of St. Jarlath's church at Ogden avenue, boots polished, linen immaculate, but clinging to an outmoded style of dress, with a diamond stickpin gleaming in his shirt front. His wife is the little old lady of lavender and old lace fame, and seldom appears in public.

Touche.

A woman in one of the less glamorous department stores stopped at the lunch counter and ordered a "plate lunch." A neighbor at the lunch counter, Zita Carroll, observed the delay in serving her, and finally, her polite request that her food be hurried. The waitress finally brought part of her lunch, but no bread, silver, napkin, nor the coffee she had ordered. In due time these arrived, but no teaspoon. The waitress removed the lid from the sugar bowl and slid it to a neat stop in front of the patron.

"How do you expect me to take sugar without a spoon?" she asked, finally goaded into irritability.

"You have a tongue, haven't you?" snapped the waitress.

"Yes, but I'm not accustomed to dipping it into sugar bowls," the patron retorted.

Feud Between Families Is Love Barrier

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"You have helped other despairing people. I am sure you can help my boy friend and me. We are madly in love with each other. We are old enough to marry and between us we make enough for a modest start, good enough for us.

"Our families have done everything to break up our romance and have failed, although we have to pretend to them that it is broken up. The reason for their objections is an old feud standing between them. They have been enemies for a long time. But we cannot see why we should be made to suffer for what happened years ago.

"My sweetheart is the grandest boy. He is ideal, clean, and honest, just the sort you'd think my mother and father would want me to marry. They can't say a thing against him personally. It is his people and the old feud they bring up in any argument.

"We decided to write you and abide by your decision. Everything looks so black to us at the moment we cannot see straight. What is your advice? SAD HEARTED."

If the state of affairs is as you picture it, Sad Hearted, if the boy is all you say he is, if you feel you can marry and get along on your own, we would suggest that you go ahead and plunge.

There is no reason under heaven why you two young people should be forced to carry on a senseless feud just to satisfy the parents on both sides. But you will have to make up your minds to move a distance away if you do marry and be in no way dependent upon your families for help.

It may happen in your case, as it has happened in others, where the respective families were at war with each other, that you two may be the means of ending that feud eventually.

When you introduce a grandchild into the picture, the tiny one may be the means of straightening out the original trouble and promoting peace and harmony all around.

In any event, it is up to you two young people in love and sure of each other to work out your own lives. Whether it will be better to just step off and get married quietly or announce you are going through with it no matter how the families feel, will be up to you two to decide.

Maybe when they see you won't be changed they will make concessions. But, we repeat, children are not expected to pay for the folly of their elders.

A Small Child Can Have Meal at Own Table

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

"I've just about decided to give Jack his supper before his daddy comes home," said the mother of a 7 year old. "After all, John is pretty tired at night these days, with the office force reduced, and he has so many things to tell me, and we can't really have a satisfactory dinner with Jack at the table at this obstreperous age."

"So," said the uncle on his return from a week-end with his young niece and nephew, "we all became audience for the children at every meal. 'You tell about the fire, son' —'Sister, let's hear what the man in the store said to you—listen, that's just exactly the way he sounded,' and on it went during the meal."

"What about my 4 year old daughter eating dinner with us? Should we talk about things of interest to her or to us?"

"I've noticed such an improvement in Lawrence's table manners since he's been having supper with us."

"Betty eats so much better since she's been eating alone," is a different comment.

Samples, all, of angles on one subject: Mealtimes alone vs. with the family. The answer: An old copybook maxim: Circumstances alter cases. That's too brief to be helpful, so here are some comments.

Children at this age can make a meal rather a trying time. They're past the baby age when the manual skill of eating absorbs their attention, and yet they are still too young to take part in adult conversation or to listen in with much understanding. At the same time they are often just beginning to assert themselves.

Many parents manage the meal with a "children should be seen and not heard" atmosphere; others seem able to strike a relaxed and sociable note with a division of interest, and others just let the evening meal be spoiled with frequent corrections or an attempt to keep the child diverted.

The dinner table should not be the scene of constant discipline, but neither should it be given over to the child who is present at it. The evening meal should be a pleasant, leisurely occasion for a man and his wife. The suggestions I wrote to the mother quoted might be helpful to others. They are:

Get your small daughter a low, broad, flat table and small chair of her own and perhaps a few dishes specially chosen for her. Then, let her have her supper on this little table by herself before the family eats. You can sit with her or talk to her as you bustle around preparing dinner. This prevents her being tired out and, consequently, fussy.

If you do not want to do this, train your child to share in the conversation at times, but also to sit quietly while you and your husband talk. Some of the conversation can be made to interest her, but not all. It is not good for your small child nor fair to the others to make her the sole center of interest. Get this idea over to her at some time during the day. Then, at meal times she will need only a reminder.

Often children who are demanding in this way are so because they habitually receive too much attention from their grownups. It may be a mistake needing wholesale improvement in the parents' attitude.

We have directions for making a small chair and table. Also, a leaflet: "Mealtime Habits." Each one requires a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Address Mrs. Gladys Huntington Bevans, The Chicago Tribune, Chicago, Ill.

Jacket Dress Always Popular

WOMAN'S AND MISS' JACKET DRESS.

One fashion that never goes out of style, season in and season out, is the jacket dress. The model in the pattern today is particularly versatile in that it supplies an excellent opportunity for fabric and color contrast. The original combines black woolen with gleaming satin for the blouse. Two different colors may be used, too, of course, with special emphasis on the new shades this season, the rich plum, royal purple, and Persian blue.

The jacket is the bolero type with long sleeves. It is short enough to allow the graceful draped waistline of the blouse to show completely. The skirt is paneled affair cut for flare. There are no plaits.

If you wish, you may have a cardigan type jacket made from this same pattern. It has a high, round, collarless neckline and buttons down the front. Two triangular pockets high on the bodice are smart.

Style No. 3170 is designed for sizes, 12, 14, 16, 18, and 20 years, and 30, 32, 34, 36, and 38 inches bust measurement. Size 16 requires 3½ yards of 39 inch material, with 1⅝ yards of 39 inch contrasting.

Appoints Chairmen for Roll Call of Chicago Red Cross

James B. Forgan, chairman of the Chicago chapter of the American Red Cross, yesterday appointed roll call chairmen and community chest representatives in fifty Chicago neighborhoods and 105 suburbs. The annual roll call campaign period this year will be the shortest in six years, and the need for a generous response is greater than since world war days Mr. Forgan said.

"During the last twelve months," he declared, "the Red Cross has given food, shelter, medical aid, and rehabilitation assistance in 174 disasters, an all time high. The need of Red Cross aid has continued to grow in the light of changing world conditions. And the roll call period this year is only from Armistice day to Thanksgiving day."

Wiener schnitzel is an old German favorite way of preparing veal. The sour cream and seasonings in which the meat is cooked leave a delicious sauce in the cooking plan, and this, of course, is poured over the veal when it's served.

Half an hour is the cooking time for wiener schnitzel, which makes it an eligible dish for our weekly short-cut dinner menu. An hour from the time you start this meal it should be ready for the table.

SHORT CUT DINNER.

Wiener Schnitzel with Oven Fried Potatoes
Buttered Fresh Spinach
Buttercup Rolls [Bakery or Grocery]
Apples Grenadine
Coffee

Wiener Schnitzel.

[Serves three.]

1 pound veal steak
2 slices bacon
1 tablespoon chopped onion
½ cup sour cream
¼ cup catsup
½ teaspoon paprika
Salt, pepper

Cut the steak into individual servings. Fry the bacon until crisp and break it into small pieces. Dredge veal with flour, and brown it on both sides, together with the onion, in the bacon fat. Season with paprika, salt and pepper. Add bacon, sour cream, and catsup, cover, and let cook gently until the veal is tender, about 30 minutes.

BUTTERED FRESH SPINACH.

Wash the spinach carefully in several changes of water. Put it in a kettle with only the water which clings to the leaves after washing. Cover and cook over moderate heat for about 8 minutes. Don't allow the spinach to overcook and become soft and limp. Add salt, pepper and butter, and chop the spinach rather coarsely before serving.

OVEN FRIED POTATOES.

Peel the potatoes and cut them into strips as though for French frying. Put them in a greased, shallow baking pan, brush well with oil, bacon fat or butter, and bake in a hot oven, 400 degrees, until tender and browned. Turn occasionally during the baking. Drain on paper, sprinkle with salt and pepper, and serve hot.

Apples Grenadine.

[Three servings.]

3 tart apples
¼ cup sugar
3 tablespoons grenadine sirup
1 cup water
2 tablespoons lemon juice

Unless the apple skins are tough, leave them on, as they give color and attractiveness to the finished dessert. Wash and core the apples. Make a sirup of sugar, grenadine, water and lemon juice, and drop the apples into it. Cook until tender but still firm. Remove apples to serving dishes and boil the sirup a few minutes longer, until it becomes thick. Pour over the apples. Serve warm or cold, with cream.

If you don't happen to have grenadine sirup on hand, cook the apples in a simple sugar and water sirup. They're good that way, too. Or add a few of those tiny red cinnamon drops to give color and spiciness to the apples.

Lovely Gowns, Fantastic Hats on Parade at St. Luke's Show

BY INDIA MOFFETT.

UNLIKE wine, the St. Luke's fashion shows do not improve with age. How could they when each one of the eleven that preceded yesterday's was as near perfection as a fashion show could be? Also, unlike wine, each vintage of St. Luke's is excellent, full of delightful flavor and lasting aroma.

All of which means that the hard working woman's board of St. Luke's hospital has another success to its credit and again will be able to turn over to the hospital a goodly sum, perhaps $30,000, certainly not less than $20,000. It will be several days before the accounting is completed and the net proceeds known, but it is certain that this year's profits will be large, for admission prices were upped last year to pre-depression ones. And the audience that assembled for the afternoon showing yesterday was the largest in the history of the fashion shows.

About 2,000 women crowded into the ballroom of the Stevens hotel and several hundred more were turned away. Not so many could be accommodated at the evening showing for it requires more room for waiters to serve dinner than tea. "They should have only thin waiters," grumbled one woman in the afternoon after she had been knocked almost out of her chair a dozen times by the plump waiter who had to squeeze past her. "They should have the show in the Stadium next year," exploded another who was packed in so closely to her neighbors that they resembled sardines in a box.

Unusual Ornaments Worn on Hair.

Mrs. Katherine Pardee and her little daughter, Deirdre, in matching hostess gowns opened the show and two hours later Mrs. Wilbur C. Smith, in an ermine evening wrap and with a curl of ermine in her hair closed the show.

A curl of fur may sound queer to the uninitiated, but that is what was in Mrs. Smith's dark hair. There were stranger things than that on some heads yesterday, feathers, curled and uncurled, long and short, shooting off at unbelievable angles, drooping, erect, almost all of them unbecoming and too bizarre to be attractive.

Not all the queer things in the hair were ornaments for evening wear. Some of the hats were fantastic and ugly, too. But the show as a whole was stunning and glamorous.

Only 24 of the 117 models had their hair dressed high although there were perhaps a dozen others who had modified high coiffures. It was difficult to find any one in the audience whose hair was up; Mrs. Lester Armour was about the only one sitting near this reporter who definitly has adopted the new style. Which would seem to indicate that Chicago fashionables have turned thumbs down, at least so far, on hair up.

Illustrate Popular Songs in Rollicking Feature.

Mrs. Smith closed the fashion show proper but then came the feature, a rollicking, colorful pageant of illustrated popular songs entitled "Here, There and Everywhere." First there was pretty blonde Mrs. Nelson L. Barnes Jr. [Clarice Hamill] in a Dutch costume. She went galumping as gracefully as can be done in wooden shoes up and down the runway to illustrate "It's Tulip Time in Holland." Then dainty Mrs. Chauncey K. Hutchins and Miss Jessica Butler danced in to the accompaniment of "Chinatown, My Chinatown." Mrs. Joseph T. Ryerson Jr. was a fetching little German girl ["I Love Louisa"] and Miss Carlotta Lagorio a senorita, throwing violets, to make every masculine member of the audience dream of castles in Spain ["Who'll Buy My Violets?"].

Mrs. John Harris Ward, a newcomer to Chicago, was a provocative "Mimi"; Miss Sally Perry an entrancing little Hawaiian hula dancer with feet bare, real carnation leis and ladylike undulating hips ["Aloha Oe"]; and last of all, Aunt Jemima herself singing "My Mammy." Huntington B. Henry, whose wife planned the feature, took the microphone away from Billy Scott to sing the finale, "Alexander's Ragtime Band."

Reporter Selects Some Highlights.

Foregoing notes as reminder, the outstanding things in the show were Miss Margot Reid and debutante Elizabeth Crawford in a floral display; Miss Sally Perry in a white ball gown that was so lovely she surely will wear it at her own debut on Dec. 29; Mrs. George A. Bates, looking like a young duchess of Windsor, and wearing a sophisticated evening outfit of black velvet with volunts of gold; tiny Lolita Armour in an abbreviated frock of peach velvet with a turquoise sash and wee turquoise bows in her straight, bobbed dark hair, which was parted in the middle; Miss Nancy Leigh Bowes, beautiful in a bottle green redingote house coat with a horizontally striped underskirt of the pale yellow, aquamarine and dull raspberry, each stripe about ten or twelve inches wide.

Also Mrs. Harry L. Drake in a pearl gray moiré evening gown and jacket, sable trimmed; Miss Margot Reid in a gray and pink net ball gown with pink roses in her hair and cascading down the full skirt from the waist; Mrs. John Jay Borland, looking like a cross between an angel and a femme fatale in a black velvet dinner dress and a tiny black hat from which floated a long, black veil; Mrs. Eugene du Pont III., smart in a simple black dinner dress with a silver link belt and a huge corsage of white lilies.

Floral Display Is a Triumph.

The floral display was a triumph; dark-haired Miss Reid was in a purple velvet sheath with red roses at her waist and falling down the skirt. Blonde Miss Crawford was in red velvet, strapless and hoop skirted, as so many of the evening gowns were yesterday, with violets as her flowers. Strapless gowns and hoop skirts were only two of the new fashion details noticed yesterday; others were the prevalence of muffs, all sizes, all shapes, all materials; the accent on gloves, all colors, all lengths, and the definitly defined small waistlines.

Fashion Returns to Days of Long Ago.

We're going back to the pinched-in waists and rounded hips of the days of long ago. One exhibitor cleverly showed four old dresses and with each was its modern copy. One of the old ones was a reception dress worn by the late Mrs. David G. Hamilton at one of her regular Tuesday at homes half a century or more ago.

Mrs. Hamilton's daughter, Mrs. Edwin W. Ryerson, a member of the St. Luke's board, loaned the dress which was worn by Mrs. William K. Meyers. Mrs. William B. Cudahy wore a copy of one of Queen Victoria's ball gowns; Miss Margaret Hixon one of the dresses worn by Norma Shearer in "Marie Antoinette," and Mrs. Cyrus H. Adams III. a gown that was worn to the famous Potter Palmer ball.

It would take columns and columns to describe the rest of the outfits shown by the other models. Among the models were Mrs. Ralph Applegate, Mrs. Robert F. Carr Jr., Mrs. Hal Millard Hall, Mrs. Robert Cavanaugh and her little daughter, Joan Dunham; little Joan MacDonald and Nanette Cochran, sub-deb Elizabeth Peabody and her mother, Mrs. Howard Peabody; Mrs. Louis Watermulder, Miss Elise Clow, debutante Katherine Littlefield, and Mrs. Lent Hooker and Mrs. Willard Drown, both of whom are visiting here from California.

Miss Mary Ryerson Wears Skating Outfit.

Other models were Miss Joeine Norcott, Mrs. John R. Hurley, Mrs. James H. Douglas Jr., Mrs. John P. Bent and her cousin, Mrs. A. Watson Armour III.; Mrs. Bartholomay Osborne, Miss Frances Price, Miss Virginia Parker, debutante Peggy Burrows, Miss Nancy Brown, Mrs. Philip B. Hosmer Jr., Miss Charlotte Hubbart, Miss Barbara Bastien, Mrs. Sydney P. and Mrs. Morrison Waud, debutante Barbara Mechem, Miss Harriet and Miss Mary Paul Welling, Mrs. William B. McIlvaine Jr., debutante Phyllis and Miss Sylvia Peter, debutantes Margaret Hutchins, Jane Kreuscher, and Mary Ryerson, who was cunning in a skating outfit that made her look like a little girl instead of a young lady ready to bow to society.

Mrs. Armour Gives $50,000 to Institute's Architecture School

A gift of $50,000 from Mrs. J. Ogden Armour to carry on the work of the architectural department of Armour Institute of Technology was announced last night by H. T. Heald, president of the school.

Mr. Heald made the announcement at a dinner at the Palmer house welcoming L. Miës van der Rohe, distinguished German architect, as director of the school of architecture. Approximately 400 persons, among them some of Chicago's leading architects, attended.

Rexford Newcomb, dean of the college of fine and applied arts of the University of Illinois, welcomed Mr. ven der Rohe on behalf of midwestern universities and colleges. Dean Newcomb praised the creative spirit, resourcefulness, and fresh viewpoint of Mr. van der Rohe.

"As protagonist of the modern movement," Dean Newcomb said, "you will find yourself here among friends, kindred creative spirits who welcome you, knowing that you may do much to promote a movement that except for a few like Frank Lloyd Wright had all but perished in the eclectic deluge of the last quarter century."

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

The French dress designer who is always doing startling things that turn out to be wonderfully right for the public tastes has launched a soap that bears the name and the scent of her now sensationally successful perfume.

It's decidedly luxurious, and not inexpensive. But it is practically waltzing off the cosmetic counters because women find it irresistible. Even men buy it, we're told, because a cake of it, enchantingly packaged as it is, is a sure-fire frippery for the lady love.

The cake is pink, a brilliant pink, and heart shaped! Each bright soap heart nestles in a stunning container, with a cerise satin base, broad gold sides, and a cellophane cover with a white lace design edging. It's all very giddy and feminine and to own and use the fragrant soap is to feel a pampered darling. Several of the shops have it and all the luxurious ladies are buying it like mad.

Two of the newest lipsticks are creating considerable excitement. These sticks are among the best you can buy. The texture is something to write home about; the stick is fat and the shades are always lovely.

One of the two new shades is a pinkish tint, for day; the other is a purplish shade, for evening. Both are wonderful and no one is paying much attention to the day-evening angle. Those who like the purplish tone are wearing it day and evening; those who swear by the bright warm pinks are wearing it 'round the clock, too.

You do as you please, but either shade is high fashion right now. A true red lipstick shade is beginning to look decidedly old fashioned. And rouge or lipstick with a smidge of an orange tone gives the fashion and beauty experts the screaming jitters. They're OUT, they say.

Rugby Club to Meet Winnipeg Team Sunday

BY JUDITH CASS.

THE thirty odd young men who play with the Chicago Rugby club do not pay much attention to their wives and sweethearts when it is time to leave town for a big match. But when a big match is to be played here these same young men turn on their most charming manners. The formerly neglected "gals" become busy as bees selling tickets and in other ways assisting with plans for the game.

Just now preparations are being made for a game with a Winnipeg, Can., team. It will be played on Sunday at the New Trier High school in Winnetka. Mrs. John Lawrence Irving, Miss Charlotte Hubbart, Miss Evelyn Bouscaren, and Miss Gertrude Sieber, who is engaged to Henry A. Gardner Jr., one of the Chicago players, are selling tickets at 50 cents each.

Mr. Irving, Clinton Frank, Ted Wilder, Hamilton Reidy, Alex S. Crawford, Henri Bouscaren, Leslie Mather, Freddy Lind, Robert Childs, and Victor Harding are among others on the Chicago team. Peter Fortune is president of the Chicago Rugby club. If the Canadians arrive on the eve of the match the Chicagoans will give a dinner for them.

There will be a get-together after the match. The game will start at 2:30 o'clock. Last year several hundred spectators sat for two hours on one of the most bitterly cold days of the season to watch the Winnipeg-Chicago game, which was sponsored by the Service club.

The Service club has opened a revue ticket office at 820 Tower court, telephones Superior 7495 and 7496. The revue will be given on Nov. 5 at the Auditorium.

Gives Tea Tomorrow for Mrs. Benjamin Crawford.

Mrs. Frank Taylor Crawford is entertaining at tea tomorrow afternoon to introduce her new daughter-in-law, Mrs. Benjamin Crawford, to Winnetka friends. Young Mr. Crawford and his bride, the former Lida Whitmore of Omaha, are settling an apartment in Crilly court.

The smaller, more informal parties that are given for debutantes during the season are as popular with the buds and their beaux as the big dancing parties. The Francis P. Butlers are entertaining thirty of the deb set at a buffet supper Sunday night at their Lake Forest home for Miss Barbara Mechem and Miss Tita Johnson.

The annual meeting of the woman's committee of the Chicago Symphony orchestra will be held in Orchestra hall's foyer at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon. This will be the last meeting of the committee for the season. Mrs. Bartholomay Osborne is chairman.

Bispham Medals to Be Presented Today.

The presentation of the 1937 and 1938 David Bispham memorial medal, awarded by the American Opera society, will be made at 3 o'clock today at the home of Mrs. Frank G. Logan.

The 1937 medal has been awarded to Julius Ozier of St. Louis for his American opera, "The Bride of Bagdad," and the 1938 medal has been awarded to Dr. P. Marinus Paulsen of Chicago for his opera, "The Cimbrians."

The English-Speaking union will give a tea on Friday at 4:30 o'clock at the Arts club for Miss Gertrude Lawrence. Miss Lawrence, the star of "Susan and God," is an English actress, although she has been appearing in this country for many years.

Those who will pour are Mrs. John R. Winterbotham, Mrs. Charles S. Dewey Jr., Mrs. Byron S. Harvey Jr., Mrs. Thomas S. Tyler, Mrs. Arthur G. Bissell, and Mrs. Shreve C. Badger.

Anna Fitzu Will Give Operalog Sunday.

As a prelude to the opera opening on Oct. 29, some of the women interested in the Chicago City Opera com-

Colonel Gimp.

Hollywood, Cal., Oct. 18.—In what caldron was brewed the mixture that is Col. Gimp is difficult to explain, because the Broadways of the world have never produced a character to match him.

In case you don't know, Col. Gimp is the little fellow now penned in Los Angeles because he discharged a slug of lead that perforated the abdominal wall of Ruth Etting's husband. The colonel had been Ruth's husband for seventeen years, but she divorced him.

"Just why I let her get the divorce I don't know," the colonel told me just a week ago at the Clover club." I wanted to be nice. Nice? I shoulda hit her in the topper with a coupla slugs, because she give me a wrong deal. I took her from nothin' and made her a big shot. For seventeen years I've been takin' wrong raps for her, and this is the gratitude I get. Carrying the torch for her? Sure I am. I always loved her, from the first day I see her in Chicago.

"I see her on the four walls of my room when I go home at night. I'm going crazy, Ed, crazy—no, don't con me. I know. I got no friends. Never bothered to make no friends because she was the whole world to me. The sun rose and set on her. She give me a wrong deal and now I'm a dead pigeon. Nobody wants me around, I'm just a lame punk. When my money runs out I'll hit myself in the topper with a coupla slugs and call it a day."

Col. Gimp was the last frontier of show business. He was the last harsh and grim frontier. "Harsh" and "grim" are the words that come most readily to mind when you discuss him. To him the world was a battleground rather than an oyster.

To him the world was full of real and fancied enemies and he left his hotel each night ready to do battle with them. He eyed everybody with distrust, and he limped through the world with a cigar in his mouth, a sour look on his face, and "the little lady" in his heart.

The "little lady" was his description of Ruth Etting. "The little lady stopped the show cold tonight," he'd tell you proudly. "Them other dames go out there on the floor. She don't fuss around—she gives quick."

When Helen Morgan was paired with Miss Etting in the "Follies" the colonel was quick to detect prejudice and discrimination against the little lady. With him to think was to act. He went right away to Florenz Ziegfeld Jr. "You ain't gonna shove the little lady around, not for a minute," he warned.

Ziegfeld barred him from the theater. The colonel thereafter stood at the head of Ziegfeld alley, grimly smoking a cigar. "Nobody gonna shove us around," he'd tell you. "The little lady don't need no Ziegfeld. One more crack out of him and I'll yank her out of the show, contract or no contract. Without her this is strictly a tab show."

In London we met the colonel again and he was just as uncompromising. His "Ruthie" had gone over there to do a show for young Jimmy Donahue, one of the 5 and 10 cent babies of the Woolworth carldom, and the colonel had come to pay us a visit at the Savoy hotel.

He took one quick look at the living room suite and without even saying hello he started: "You know what they're going to charge you for this joint? They'll take your eye teeth out. They're thieves and robbers. The food stinks. The country stinks. Today I'm in a bank and a guy tries to short change me and I tell him that America can buy and sell this country." Even the ocean trip failed to mellow the colonel.

No doubt that Col. Gimp must have been a trial and burden to "the little lady," despite his best intentions. His language and his uncompromising attitude must have made him a difficult problem, because the colonel popped off, regardless of his surroundings. Nobody awed him.

In a regimented world he was a free soul, and a free soul on the loose is as out of place as if George Washington suddenly were to be reincarnated in your living room while you were giving a party for the Joneses.

The Tiny Hats Keep Making Fashion News

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Hats are still making news. New ones are small, devastatingly feminine, and flatter with every inch of fabric. The tiny models are airy, inconsequential, frivolous, and flattering, but they will do everything for a low mood.

Tiny fur hats are the smallest spots of fur you've ever plopped on your head. One silver fox bit of fluff has a coy little bunch of French violets against two green velvet leaves and two loops of cerise velvet. Another brown fur is just about a curl of fur and that's all. One smart daytime hat is of dull black with sooty black wings in a snappy fly-away arrangement and with a whiff of black veil over the head. Another feather affair is made of vivid color contrasts, red, parrot green, and yellow.

Red veils, yellow veils, bright green veils and all kinds of colored veiling flutter provocatively from small and brimmed hats, and the snood arragements are definitly better and more high fashion than ever. Snoods make the headlines smoother, give you that well groomed patrician air and do a grand job of keeping your hat on in windy weather.

Hats for spectator sports clothes have changed. You'll see sulphur yellow felt in a fedora style, with or without a head band. Striped fabrics make other brimmed hats, also for sports clothes.

SYNOPSIS.

David Beddoes, young American, accompanies his cousin, Alison, to a party at Lady Wibbe's. By mistake they go to the house next door. While they are talking to the spinsterish woman who receives them they hear a woman scream and a body fall. The spinster explains it is a parrot. But young Penelope Wibbe says their strange neighbors have no parrot. But they acquire one next day. While in the house David had seen a favorite book of his former love, Betsy Greentree, with her initials in it. Betsy's father died after losing his money. While traveling in Europe with her aunt, Fanny Rush, Betsy met and married an Englishman, Geoffrey Scarpath. David learns the Scarpaths live in the mysterious house and sends a letter there to Betsy, which is unanswered. David confronts Scarpath, who explains that Betsy is suffering from a chronic nervous condition and can have no visitors, that she is being taken care of by his sister Evelyn. In the guise of a telephone repair man David gains a secret interview with Betsy and learns she did not receive his letter. She tells David her husband is not in love with her and she doesn't know why he married her. David arranges a scheme whereby they may communicate, with Penelope Wibbe's aid. Then Betsy's writing materials disappear. When Dr. Broderick, the specialist attending Betsy, insists on her taking the medicine, which always makes her feel worse, she grows desperate. Alison's friend, Dr. Colin Ladbroke, leaving her flat one night, finds Betsy unconscious on the threshold. Revived, Betsy explains Penelope helped her escape. She is half starved.

INSTALMENT XXVII.

CLOUDED HAPPINESS.

"I'd like to do things," said Elizabeth wistfully. "Shoving in on you like this, eating your nice food. O, Alison, darling, such food! I can't think of it without sniveling. One thing, I'll not go on pinching your bed. I've made her change over the sheets. Here's where David slept, isn't it? What a joke!"

"Joke? We'll see about that! Look, Betsy, who's giving orders, you or me?"

"Dr. Ladbroke wants me treated like an ordinary person. So here! Besides"—a furrow between her brows—"I've got to think how to get myself off your chest. There must be a way if . . ."

"Drop it!" bade Alison with brusque kindliness. "Are you allowed to smoke?"

"Just a little. Might I . . .? O, how too wonderful!" She sighed, puffing thankfully, and uncurling her wool-stockinged toes to the fire. "See? More of your belongings. Are you hungry? I am. That divine smell! If only David . . .". She stopped, shamefaced. "O, you know what I mean!"

Alison explained why she had not yet told David what had happened.

"He must, you see, keep his whole mind on his job."

"O, of course!"

"Now he's got his worse day over—goodness! Did that telephone make you jump? It's probably David now."

"It—it might be some one else. . . ."

Elizabeth was trembling as she had done last night. Since 6 o'clock

"Scarpath has found us! Now what do we do?"

she had been secretly dreading her husband's descent on her. She had a rampart of defense now, but still . . . Her color flowed back. The voice she heard was David's. Sitting forward eagerly, she drank in every word. Excited, blunt. . . . Pen had written him. He'd just got the letter—and he was arguing, insisting. Alison handed over the receiver, with a whispered: "He wants to come tonight—meaning he won't get a wink of sleep. Going to let him?"

"David!" cried Elizabeth into the mouthpiece. "O, lamb, you're not to! I'm all right, do you hear? Quite safe. Alison's spoiling me, and listen! I'm up for dinner. . . . Yes, fool, I mean it!"

Low and urgent, he demanded: "What happened? Spit it out!"

"I can't. That is, nothing. I feel rather a loon—only I'm not going back! I've been thinking. You see, I've my sapphire ring Fanny gave me for my coming out. Yes, I remembered to bring it—and that can be sold. To tide me over."

He was swearing. She caught something that sounded like: "Elizabeth—darling!" Then, more clearly: "I wind up here on Friday. I'll be with you that evening without fail. . . ."

Starry-eyed, Elizabeth sank back. With a shrewd glance at her, Alison sought the bathroom to remove her Fleet street grime, and met the nurse coming out with a finger bowl brimming with snowdrops. More tributes!

"How kind of the doctor to get her all these flowers!"

"Here, I've a card under my arm. Can you take it? My hands are full up."

It was Colin's professional card inclosed in a florist's envelope addressed—to her! And the inscription: "To A. Y.—always the best!" O, dear! She felt a little drunk—and suddenly as hungry as her guest.

All the same Colin, when he came, had eyes only for his patient. Penetrating, preoccupied eyes—never leaving the small, sensitive face. Alison followed him on to the landing.

"See here: Scarpath's back. Bream was watching the house and saw him go in. That was about 6—and at 7 he was out again, with some bags, got his car, and drove straight to Broderick's consulting rooms. Twenty minutes later he went on to the flat in South street—where he still was when Bream telephoned me. God knows what's in his mind. We may be sure, though, he'll try and get in touch with Elizabeth. Don't let it worry you. That nurse has her instructions. The patient isn't to see any one, or even answer the phone. Come down, let's take a look—see."

At the door Colin hauled up his coat collar against the thin sleet which drove in and, warning Alison to keep back, gazed up and down the square. He touched her elbow.

"Over there. Do you see?"

A gray car was parked by the old Foundling hospital. Its headlamps streaked a glistening path through the wet. They could not make out the face of the driver, only his attitude—head leaned out at the side, eyes trained on the top windows of the house in whose entrance the watchers had shelter. Alison had hardly noted the stained mudguard and blurred windscreen before the engine hummed and the man inside made a right-about turn. She hugged Colin's arm suddenly.

"Yes! Didn't you see him when he passed under that light? He's found us! Now what do we do?"

"Keep the chain on your door." The doctor's jaw set pugnaciously. "Ring me if there's any disturbance. He can't break in, you know."

Driving slowly through to his own square, Colin mused under his breath: "Am I turning visionary? If it's true he couldn't manage it alone. . . . It can't be true! And yet . . . there's something. Some reason—and that proves—or does it? Damn it, there are no symptoms. Not now. Yes, just one. The stumbling. I saw that myself."

He continued to ponder, and, just as he was putting up his second-hand car, stopped dead and smote his thigh a resounding blow.

"God!" he muttered. "Why didn't I think of it?"

What Colin had thought of presupposed a conclusion so mad that instinct ordered him to dismiss it on the spot. Merely to consider it constituted a species of high treason. Yet the girl herself! If she had been less decent, less ready to excuse, he could have taken what she said with a large grain of salt. Her very nature as he saw it—conscientious, anxious to be fair—made him believe every word of hers could be trusted.

"She's suggestible, but who isn't? And all along there's been not one person to raise objections. . . . It's the right leg, I think. At least, I thought I noticed it was only one that gave way. Well, it can't do any damage to look into the thing rather closely."

Next morning he questioned her—with discretion and tact. She herself could not say whether the weakness lay in the knee or the ankle. Both had suffered from the rabbit-hole mishap, about which she let out an interesting detail. Gently kneading the knee muscles, Colin encouraged her to talk.

"It just never really got better. I thought maybe all that blundering and tumbling down came from my being so horribly depressed."

"Had it ever happened to you before?"

"Just a little," she admitted, "after my father was killed. You know about all that, don't you? My whole world was dynamited. For about a month I kept turning this same ankle. Then it got all right."

"Yes, quite. Mental despond often has that effect."

ADVERTISE IN THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE

pany have arranged for Anna Fitzu, vice president of the company, to give an operalog next Sunday night. It will be on "Otello," which will be the opening opera. The program, to be given in the Civic theater, will benefit the opera company.

Preceding Miss Fitzu's program there will be a dinner at the Casino club. Mrs. John W. Walsh, Mrs. C. Mabee Lauritzen, Mrs. Jacob Baur, Mrs. Thatcher Hoyt, Mrs. John R. Thompson Jr., Mrs. Richard Cooper Jr., Mrs. Harry Winston, Baroness Wenner, and Mrs. A. M. Harvey are on the committee in charge.

On the committee for the annual fall second hand clothes sale of the Chicago Junior league, to be held Nov. 5, are Mrs. Harvey Ellerd, Miss Barbara Johnson, Miss Virginia Garard, Mrs. Ralph W. Applegate, Miss Virginia Hobart, Mrs. Cyrus Adams III., Miss Louise Brydon, and Mrs. Edward Platt. Mrs. Norman Ibsen is chairman.

Bohemians Sponsor Concert by Kipnis.

The Bohemians of Chicago [not a national group but a state of mind, according to the committee on information] will sponsor a song recital by Alexander Kipnis on Monday, Dec. 5, at Orchestra hall. This will be the only Chicago appearance this year of the great basso.

Dr. Frederick A. Stock is honorary president of the Bohemians, an organization of prominent musicians and laymen interested in music. Avern B. Scolnik is president.

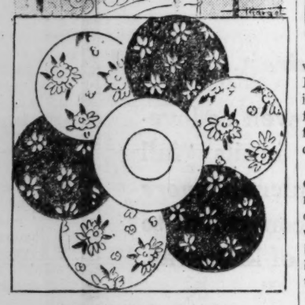
The University Colony club is busy with plans for a number of parties for its young people of high school and college age. The annual Christmas ball will be given on Monday, Dec. 26, with Mrs. Arthur Green in charge. Mrs. Harold E. Wheeler is making arrangements for a dinner-dance for the younger group at Chrismas time.

The Thanksgiving holiday will be made doubly gay for the college age group by a tea-dance. Several informal roller skating parties will provide entertainment for both groups. Mrs. George O. Fairweather is president of the club. Mrs. Robert G. Warfield is general chairman of the entertainment program.

Skating Club Members Are Enjoying Arena.

The list of Chicago Figure Skating club members who frequently use the ice at the Chicago Arena has grown since last year when the club's headquarters were established at the arena, which was formerly the Chicago Riding club. Mrs. A. Watson Armour III., Miss Mary Adams, Mrs. William B. Cudahy, the Chauncey B. Borlands and their daughters, Miss Harriett and Miss Martha and Mrs. Clive Runnells are some of the skaters.

Pilgrim Spirit Is Apparent in Applique Quilt



BY NANCY CABOT.

This lovely applique pattern, "Priscilla Alden," epitomizes all the daintiness and primness we have associated with the Pilgrims. Of Quaker origin, it is extremely popular with the present generation. The design is composed of printed materials with one small white circle in the center creating a decidedly modern note. The finished squares measure 15 inches and the entire coverlet is composed of these blocks surrounded by a 4½ inch border and a ½ inch bias binding.

For the applique pattern of "Priscilla Alden," No. X-106, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth avenue, New York City.

Upswept Hair Style Subject to Individual

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

"Why do women lose all sense of proportion when it comes to hairdos?" asks Connie Boswell, mellow-voiced songbird.

The above query is, of course, apropos the new coiffures which have been so hotly discussed pro and con since their introduction.

"The popularity of the upswept hair style," declares Miss Boswell, "seems to indicate that women have forgotten the prime rule to be followed in adopting any fashion—it must be becoming. Just because 'they' say that it is the fashion to wear your hair up, doesn't mean that you must follow suit regardless. Give the matter serious thought first.

"Is yours the type of face which will look its best with exposed neckline and ears, with added height on top? Are you one of those girls who are completely helpless when it comes to combing a complicated coiffure? Does your financial condition permit discarding hats designed to be worn over a long bob? All these questions deserve consideration before you entrust yourself to a hairdresser."

Miss Boswell has had little difficulty in answering these questions herself. She agrees with Elizabeth Hawes that fashion is spinach and refuses to follow current trends merely because of fashion's dictates. Her lovely light brown hair is worn in a long bob which waves softly around her face. The mistress of swing adopted this coiffure because it was becoming and sees no reason to change it.

"After all," says Miss Boswell, "it does seem foolish to sacrifice individuality for style, if being fashionable means looking just like every one else. You should have one motto in choosing hair styles, as well as in choosing your wardrobe—be yourself. Select a fashion which suits your type and personality, instead of trying to adapt yourself to a fashion.

"Another thing to remember before you have your curls swept up is that you won't be able to wear any of the hats you now own," warns Miss Boswell. "So if you're struggling along on a balanced budget, be prepared to juggle finances, because you'll have to get yourself hats to go with your coiffure.

"Girls, get hair wise," advises America's favorite songbird. "Stick to the hair style that becomes you best. But, if you feel you must follow the leader, at least choose the right occasion. Don't wear an upswing hair-do to the office. Save it for your formal evening affairs, when your gown will provide the appropriate setting for it."

Tips on how to apply rouge to thin faces, and scores of other makeup secrets, are told by Antoinette Donnelly's booklet, "Makeup Magic." Get a copy today. On sale at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 S. Dearborn street and Tribune Tower. Price 5 cents. Postpaid, 7 cents.

Have you ever tried a self-polishing wax on your floors and woodwork? It will save wear and tear because it builds up a resistant coating. On furniture it helps protect the finish from the rubbing of elbows on desks, chair arms, and tables.

And this wax is available in wood colors, in mahogany, in oak, and in natural tone. The first two are especially adapted for use on varnished wood surfaces, while the natural [without color] wax is intended for linoleum, rubber tile, and composition tile floors.

It's not expensive to keep your floors glistening and handsome with this self-polishing wax.

According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1938: By Ely Culbertson.]

Ely Culbertson will present Auction bridge playing boards to all readers who attain master ranking in the national bridge examination.

The following table will be used for determining final grades in the Second Annual Self-Rating Bridge examination:

Final standing of	Grade.
950 points and over	Master
875-949 points	Expert
800-874 points	Advanced
700-799 points	Good average
600-699 points	Weak average
500-599 points	Poor
Below 500 points	Dub

By using 1,000 points as par instead of the 100 point par used last year, I will be able to assign more equitable demerits to the questions. Thus, a slight error will be charged 6 or 7 points; a bad one, perhaps 24 or 27 points. This, in effect, gives fractional differentiations. Last year I was confined to exactly 1, 2, or 3 point demerits on a basis of 100.

TODAY'S QUESTIONS.

Answers will be given next Wednesday

Question 3. Both sides vulnerable. North, your partner, deals and bids one spade. Next hand [East] passes. You [South] hold:

♠ K 8 6 4 3 2 ♥ 6 5 3 ♦ 7 4 ♣ 8 6

What call do you make?

Question 4. Both sides vulnerable. You are South. West deals, and the bidding proceeds:

1 spade	Double	Pass	?

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 spade	2 hearts	2 no trump	Pass
3 spades	Pass	3 no trump	Pass
Pass	Pass

East felt that he had enough entries to attempt the establishment of his heart suit despite declarer's obvious double stopper, hence signaled for a continuation with the eight spot. Declarer correctly held up his ace and West continued with the heart queen. Declarer won and counted his potential tricks. There were five spade tricks and two hearts. Obviously, if the diamond queen were in West's hand, three diamond tricks could be established. But what if East had that important card? On the bidding, a far better plan of play presented itself. Declarer would need only two club tricks to fulfill his contract and could forget about the diamond suit. The club ace was virtually marked in East's hand after West had shown up with the king-queen of hearts. On that sound reasoning, declarer led a low spade to the queen and returned a club. East properly ducked and declarer's queen held. The spade suit was then run off, after which the other club was led from dummy. This time East went up and no return he could make could prevent declarer from fulfilling his contract.

When there has been bidding by the opponents, aces may be "placed" much more easily than queens.

Arrest Sheets Are Cut from Bindings.

New York, Oct. 18.—[Special.]—A major police department scandal broke in Brooklyn tonight when Police Commissioner Lewis J. Valentine and laboratory technicians arrived unexpectedly at the Bergen street police station, where six arrest books containing all the data on 7,200 prisoners had been slit from their bindings and stolen.

"Some person with a terribly guilty conscience is the perpetrator of this," said Valentine after a hundred policemen had been herded into the room at police headquarters and examined.

The books had been sought by William B. Herlands, commissioner of investigation, in his inquiry into police irregularities and alleged politico-criminal alliances in Brooklyn.

Prosecutor to See Lehman.

The disclosure came on the eve of the conference called by Gov. Herbert Lehman in Albany tomorrow with John Harlan Amen, the special prosecutor he has designated to investigate official corruption in Brooklyn law enforcement agencies, including the police department.

Amen was appointed special prosecutor Monday night to supersede District Attorney F. X. Geoghan in the corruption inquiry. For ten years he has been special assistant United States attorney general and recently in charge of racket prosecution in New York City.

The governor will talk with Amen and Supreme Court Justice Francis D. McCurn of Syracuse, who is to preside over the special court term to handle cases growing out of the investigation.

The mutilation of the records became known when all police officers and even police garage employés were summoned to the trial room. The Bergen station is housed in Police Headquarters building.

Sift Ashes for Clews.

Valentine's technical staf began an immediate examination and processing of furnace ashes and all other possible sources of clews.

The commissioner indicated that the guilty persons might have been involved in a bail bond racket of some kind.

"For the last five or six months," he said, "there has been a joint investigation in connection with conditions in some of the precincts in Brooklyn. Allegations of misconduct and violations of the rules and regulations and our manual of procedure regarding the bailing of prisoners have been made.

"Charges were made against some lieutenants, as a result of which the lieutenants in this precinct were transferred some time ago."

'TOMBS' PRISON FOR SALE; COURT BUILDINGS ALSO

New York, Oct. 18.—(AP)—Manhattan Island's saddest spot—the place where criminals have been punished for 300 years—is for sale.

Tombs Prison.

The city announced today that the prison called "the Tombs," built in 1830, and the criminal courts building may now be purchased for about $1,850,000.

The ground on which they stand was covered by a pond when Hendrik Hudson came here in 1600, the Dutch called the pond "Kolch," meaning fresh water. When the English moved in, "Kolch" became "Collect Pond." On its shore the Dutch erected a gibbet. The English, too, used the spot for hangings.

The city is building two new buildings near by and doesn't want the old ones any more. Any offers?

ELKVILLE BUSINESS MAN DIES.

Du Quoin, Ill., Oct. 18.—[Special.]—George A. Holiday, 73 years old, died at his home in Elkville, south of Du Quoin, today following a heart illness of two weeks. He had engaged in business there continuously for 45 years and was widely known in Perry and Jackson counties.

Faces Counter Suit

Mrs. Julia Hopkins, whose husband answered her suit for divorce by filing a cross bill. The hearing was enlivened yesterday by the testimony of a resort landlady.

COATS OF MANY COLORS FAIL TO HIDE A ROMANCE

Quick Changes Do Not Trip Hubby's Witnesses.

Those who ventured into Judge John J. Lupe's courtroom yesterday heard curious stories. One was of a romance in a summer resort, told by a landlady who kept her eyes and her mind open. Another was of a detective who never shirked even though getting the evidence meant taking part in a specially arranged automobile collision. This tale was told by a small town policeman who accompanied the sleuth for the smashup.

Judge Lupe had expected to hear Mrs. Julia May Hopkins' suit for divorce from Irving S. Hopkins, pension secretary for the Pullman company. But because Hopkins' witnesses were from out of town the judge listened instead to the stories they told in support of Hopkins' cross bill. Mrs. Hopkins, who lives at 5406 North Winthrop avenue, is 24 years old. Her husband is 54. He lives at 11731 Normal avenue.

Register as Man and Wife.

Mrs. Johanna Tschurwald, owner of a summer resort at Winneconne, Wis., was the first witness. Last June 29, she said, a pretty woman registered as Mrs. Gertrude Boughan. Later, she said, a 6 foot man wearing glasses arrived and registered as Mr. Boughan. They didn't leave until July 1. Mrs. Boughan got a fishing license.

"Do you see that woman in court?" asked Hopkins' attorney, James Cartwright.

"Yes," beamed the landlady. She peered around the courtroom until she saw Mrs. Hopkins and said, "There she is. That woman in the pink coat with the fur collar."

The landlady's daughter, Mary, was called. She testified that the bed in the couple's room had been slept in by two persons. And when Mrs. Hopkins' attorney, Harold Blitstein, asked how she knew, she answered with finality, "You can't fool me."

Changes Coats to no Avail.

The landlady's daughter didn't say the woman was the one in the pink coat, for Mrs. Hopkins was wearing another coat by that time, but she identified her.

Policeman Harvey Lemke of West Bend, Wis., was called. He testified that the day the couple left Winneconne, the detective visited him at West Bend, near Winneconne, and asked him to "go along on an accident." They drove along until they deliberately ran into a car occupied by a man and a woman the policeman identified as Mrs. Hopkins. All got out of their cars and exchanged names. She was wearing still a third coat when Lemke pointed her out. Hopkins' attorney protested that women friends were lending her coats to confuse his witnesses.

State's Attorney Courtney's axmen continued their raids against handbook proprietors. 432 Bet dives in or near the loop were visited. Two squads of raiders brought the number of places wrecked to 432 for the season. The places raided were at 29 West Randolph street, fourth floor; 322 West Van Buren street, fourth floor; 108 North Dearborn street, 34 South Clark street, and 716 Plymouth court, first floor.

The Spirit of Tradition

PARK & TILFORD IMPORT CORP., NEW YORK, N.Y.

In every 1939 Buick you get the skilled engineering and sturdy quality traditional to Buick—enriched by all the extra value which General Motors science and Buick workmanship can provide.

WHEN you've got something mighty good and know it, it's not easy to pass it up even for something better!

There's a whale of a temptation to play it safe, to coast along a while, when you're riding such a vote of confidence as we've had this year.

We had ample evidence from the start that our past season's good Buick was the life of the 1938 party.

But itching in our heads and on our drawing boards were ideas.

Ideas that started with practical things like better cooling and more efficient aerodynamics and a wider field of vision for the driver and his folks.

Ideas that wouldn't stand still—that budded, burgeoned, flowered full into gorgeous new beauty of line and form and action.

Ideas that promised to re-pattern motor car design for the next half decade or more!

Now, the price of progress is daring to make good things better—even if you've got a winner to start with. Buick's whole come-back has been based on that.

NO OTHER CAR IN THE WORLD HAS ALL THESE FEATURES

MORE VISIBILITY...up to 413 more square inches of safety glass in sedans.

HANDISHIFT TRANSMISSION...gearshift on the steering post, out of knee-way.

OPTIONAL REAR AXLE GEAR RATIOS...take your choice between power and speed, brilliance and extra gas economy.

ABLEST OF THE EIGHTS is this mighty Buick Dynaflash Valve-in-Head Straight-Eight, with a cyclone in each cylinder to squeeze full power from exery drop of fuel.

So the life of the party now looks it. And you'll see a Buick for 1939 of very different pattern, a car fit to fix the fashion for many a long year to come.

Please do more than admire it.

Try it—for it's livelier as well as lovelier. Thriftier—smoother in its "full float" ride. Airier and roomier and more easy to see out of. More convenient to drive; the gearshift is out of knee-way, for instance.

Not just because it's our baby—

But because we're sure that once you've got one to call your own, you're going to be proud of it too!

4 BACKS AT NOTRE DAME WIN PROMOTIONS

BOILERMAKERS CAN PUNT AND HOLD THAT LINE

Badgers Face a Real Test Saturday.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

The statistics of the Purdue-Fordham game in New York last Saturday included this line: "Average distance of punts, Purdue, 47 yards." This is amazing until one traces the asterisks to the duplicate at the bottom of the column and discovers that eastern statisticians still measure punting distances from the spot where the ball was kicked.

Lou Brock.

Without entering into an argument over the inconsistency of this sectional rule on measurement, since gains by plunging, running, and passing universally are measured from the point where the ball was put in play, Purdue's kicking against Fordham was above average for Western conference teams this season. And without knowing whether Lou Brock, Purdue's half back, stood ten yards back to receive the center's pass, or how many steps he took forward before he kicked, the average for eleven Boilermaker punts is sufficient to give Wisconsin's Badgers something to worry about while preparing for the game Saturday in Lafayette.

There's More to It.

Brock's kicking, however, may be the least of Wisconsin's worries, for in scoring the Purdue touchdown against Fordham, Brock and Jack Brown demonstrated that they are first class ball handlers. Most important is Purdue's defense, which premitted Minnesota and Fordham only one touchdown each, although these teams outgained the Boilermakers. Fordham never did make a sustained drive to the Purdue goal, the Rams' touchdown being the result of a fifty yard run by Len Eshmont. Purdue's goal line defense stopped Fordham twice on the 1 yard line, and other attacks in the first half were broken up sooner.

Throughout the game with Minnesota and for nearly all of the first three periods of the Fordham game, Purdue failed to get into position to get its own attack under way. Against Minnesota, the Boilermakers might just as well have been engaged in a defensive scrimmage. Exclusive of kicks, Purdue put the ball in play only twenty-eight times in the Minnesota game. Since in the average game, not counting kicks, there are approximately 120 plays for both teams, the offensive handicap for the Boilermakers immediately is apparent.

Holding Ends a Threat.

Perhaps the best opportunity Purdue had to try its offense in Minnesota territory, when Brock returned a punt to the Gophers' 29 yard line, was forfeited when Purdue lost the ball on penalty for holding while the ball was in the air. On another occasion Brock returned the ball to midfield and Purdue then fumbled and lost possession on the next play. Again in midfield when Brown juggled a pass with a chance to get away, Purdue missed out on the break for which it had been waiting.

It never is difficult to find those might have been plays which, if they had succeeded, would have changed the course of the game. Observers report that if Wisconsin, which outplayed Pittsburgh in the first period Saturday, had been able to shove over a touchdown, the result would have been different, and certainly Pitt's margin of victory would not have been so great. On the basis of statistics of that game, the Panthers do not seem to be three touchdowns better.

The Game Is Important.

The game at Lafayette Saturday will be the turning point in the conference schedule for the winner. Wisconsin is undefeated by virtue of its 31 to 13 conquest of Iowa and, if the Badgers whip Purdue, they logically may expect to follow up with a victory over Indiana. Wisconsin faces games with Northwestern and Minnesota and a trip to Los Angeles to meet U. C. L. A. the week before the windup with the Gophers at Madison. This coast trip won't help preparations for Minnesota.

Purdue's remaining games do not seem quite as difficult. Certainly the open date before the final game with Indiana at Lafayette will help. Iowa is the Boilermakers' opponent after Wisconsin and Purdue travels to Ohio State on Nov. 5. The Buckeyes can be beaten by speed. Southern California proved it, and Purdue has speed.

Illini Seek No. 2.

The battle at Champaign Saturday is equally important to Northwestern and Illinois. The Illini are undefeated in the Big Ten, having whipped Indiana, 12 to 2. Northwestern tied with Ohio State and, while this may not prevent the Wildcats from finishing in first place, a defeat this week probably would.

HAWKS PREPARE FOR INTRASQUAD CLASH SATURDAY

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Champaign, Ill., Oct. 18.—The world champion Chicago Blackhawks, who played to 300,000 at home and at fancy prices last season, are asking a buck and a dime for their intraclub exhibition game to be played here immediately after the Illinois-Northwestern homecoming football contest Saturday. At the rink today Coach Paul Thompson promised Mike Tobin and other Illini officials that the hocky after-show will not be any practice swindle, but a very rapid competition.

Coach Thompson hasn't been thinking altogether about the exhibition opener from the commercial viewpoint, however. He will be sort of showing off to his manager, Bill Stewart, due here Friday night after a long spell of sickness at the Stewart family manse in Dorchester, Mass.

Hold Double Drill.

Paul has been pointing for the best conditioned team that ever greeted a manager and judging from the way the boys bore down in two drills today—they were on the ice this morning and again this afternoon—it appears that Skipper Bill will be delighted when he comes to Champaign and beholds his Stanley cup defenders.

Though temperatures still were in the eighties, as they have been ever since the Hawks arrived at their camp here, Coach Thompson bounced on with the first Chicago hocky lineup of the budding season. Here it is, the array that will start the Saturday night game:

BLACKS.		REDS
Goodman	Goal	Karakas
Levinsky	R. D.	Seibert
Mackenzie	L. D.	Wiebe
Romnes	C.	Blinco
Thompson	L. W.	Northcott
March	R. W.	Robinson

Plan Power Plays.

Gottselig, Dahlstrom, and Desilets will be an alternate line with the Blacks, and Shill, Voss, and Jenkins with the Reds. Demarco and Besler will wear chameleon uniforms and will be called on where and when needed.

A preseason lineup, yes. But the boys will be lining up that way when the regular season opens against the New York Americans in Chicago Stadium Nov. 3.

What perhaps is of greatest interest to the technically minded Hawk fan in the new setup here is to be found in the plans for power plays, a phase of the game in which the Hawks long have been weak.

In recent years the Hawks have had only one power line array for use when the opposing team was short handed because of penalties. With only one augmented line the Hawks frequently found themselves with one tired trio and another disrupted line.

Make New Alignment.

One of the power play combinations will be the quartet which used to do the work alone, Thompson, Romnes, March, Gottslig. The new power line will be Northcott, Blinco, Robinson, and Dahlstrom. These new alignments, it is believed in the camp here, will improve the Hawk attack many points.

The Hawks will remain here until Oct. 28, after which they will go to Cleveland for an exhibition game with the Cleveland Barons of the International American league. The squad will work out in Chicago Stadium Oct. 30 and 31, and on the night of Nov. 1 will play an exhibition game with the St. Louis Flyers in St. Louis.

Navy Fans Would Ban One Cheer; It's a Jinx

Annapolis, Md., Oct. 18.—(AP)—There's a movement afoot at the United States naval academy to ban as a jinx the yell in which "Navy" is spelled out in mournful chant, followed by the screaming injunction: "Fight! Fight! Fight!"

Navy finger-crossers cited records today to show it invariably brings defeat and pointed out it was used in giving the team a sendoff to Yale and an unexpected 9 to 7 licking last week.

WILDCATS KNOW ILLINOIS GAME MEANS TROUBLE

They Remember That 6-0 Defeat Last Year.

A strong feeling that Illinois will bounce back from the Notre Dame defeat to hand Northwestern one of its hardest games of the year pervades the Wildcat camp this week. Fast experience has taught the Purple that the Illini always are toughest after they have suffered a setback. Coach Lynn Waldorf is trying to convince his players that they will encounter a stubborn opponent at Champaign Saturday.

The Wildcats who faced Illinois last year are not likely to become overconfident. They still recall how the Illini staved off several scoring threats and in the second period drove sixty yards for a touchdown to win, 6 to 0.

Waldorf attributes Northwestern's failure to capitalize on a number of scoring opportunities against Ohio State to lack of speed.

Sophomores Will Get In.

While Northwestern probably will start the lineup against Illinois that faced Ohio State, the coaching staf hopes to give several new players an opportunity to engage in conference competition. This particularly is true of Ollie Hahnenstein and Paul Soper, sophomore understudies for Jack Ryan, regular left half. This pair saw only brief action against the Buckeyes.

The Wildcat coaches are about convinced that there is little to choose between the two line combinations.

ILLINI PLEASE ZUPPKE.

Champaign, Ill., Oct. 18.—[Special.]—Scrimmaging against the freshmen, who demonstrated Northwestern plays, the Illini showed spirit that encouraged Coach Bob Zuppke, although the first year men were more effective with the Wildcat tactics than he liked.

Zuppke's search for more strength at end seems to have turned to Herb Young, lanky sophomore. With Bob O'Neill lame from the Notre Dame game, Young seems in line for some service, although O'Neill will be available, too.

Ralph Bennett, a victim of hay fever, probably will be back to vie with John Kanosky for the assignment as relief for George Rettinger at full back. Kanosky's punting ability came in handy against the Irish.

Fight Decisions

They Pile Up Points for Notre Dame

Pirates Raise Traynor, Sign Him for Year

Pittsburgh, Pa., Oct. 18.—[Special.]—Harold [Pie] Traynor will remain as manager of the Pittsburgh Pirates, who were nosed out of the 1938 pennant by the Cubs in the waning days of the season.

William Benswanger, president of the club, announced today Traynor's signed contract covering the 1939 season had been received at the club's offices. The document was mailed from Brookville, Ind., where the Pirate leader has been wintering the last few years. Along with the contract Traynor sent word that he was leaving for a hunting jaunt in northern Wisconsin.

No Thought of Change.

When the Pirates, after leading the league for several months, finally were eliminated from the race the second last day of the season there were unofficial hints that the collapse might cost Traynor his job.

"We never thought of making a switch," Benswanger explained today. "Even before we were out of the race I declared that I would stick to Traynor if the worst happened. It happened and I didn't change my mind. With a little luck, over which a manager has no control, we could have won that pennant easily."

Report Salary at $18,000.

Salary was not made public, but Benswanger admitted that Traynor had been given a slight increase. The new figure is said to be around $18,000.

Traynor, former Pirates' third baseman, was promoted to the management in June of 1934, taking the place of George Gibson, one time Pirate catcher. The Pirates finished fifth in 1934, fourth in 1935 and 1936, third in 1937, and second in the last race.

KLEIN, WHITNEY GET PERMISSION TO HUNT JOBS

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 18.—(AP)—Gerry Nugent, president of the Phillies baseball club, announced tonight that Chuck Klein and Pinkey Whitney have been granted permission to sell their services to the highest bidder. Klein, right fielder, and Whitney, third baseman, both probably will be retained on the Phillies' team next year if they do not find new places, Nugent said.

Bears Remember Cleveland and Get Real Busy

The Cleveland Rams, rested after a two weeks' layoff, bring one of the best rounded back fields in football to Wrigley field Sunday to play the Bears in a National league game.

Johnny Drake, former Bowen High school and Purdue star, and Corby Davis, Indiana university full back, are the power backs in this quartet. Bob Davis of Kentucky and Bob Snyder of Ohio university provide the speed

They contributed generously to the 14 to 7 defeat of the Bears in Cleveland on Oct. 9, the only setback the Bears have received in league play.

It is from the air that Coach George Halas looks for trouble, and this week will be devoted to rebuilding defense, which was punctured time and time again by the Cardinals last Sunday.

Meanwhile the Cardinals are working daily in preparation of their journey to Detroit Sunday, where they will attempt to score their first victory over the Lions. With their new found strength in the plunging of Sam Agee and Buddy Parker and the running of Jack Robbins and Dwight Sloan to supplement their passing, the Cardinals hope to score their second victory of the season.

BEARS WIN, 29 TO 6.

The Bears defeated the Calumet Indians, 29 to 6, in an exhibition game in Roosevelt High school stadium in East Chicago, Ind., last night. Dick Schweidler and Bob Swisher, half backs, scored two of the touchdowns, the former on a 55 yeard run and Swisher on an 85 yard dash.

EAST TO HAVE POST SEASON GAME DEC. 31

New York, Oct. 18.—[Special.]—The east will have its own post season football game this year, it was announced today. The game, to be played between a leading college eleven of this section and another from a different part of the country, will take place in Philadelphia's Municipal stadium on Dec. 31. Selection of teams will be governed by the choice of the press of the Metropolitan area.

M. J. McLoughlin, Philadelphia director of public works, is arranging the event. Mayor Davis Wilson has given his approval.

SHERIDAN ON FIRST TEAM FOR CARNEGIE GAME

Saggau, Burnell, and Rassas Move Up.

Notre Dame, Ind., Oct. 18.—[Special.]—Rewards for good work against Illinois Saturday were handed out in the form of advancements to higher ranking teams in the Notre Dame football camp today, as the first two teams returned to practice for the game with Carnegie Tech here this week-end.

Saturday's battle will be a meeting of undefeated elevens. Notre Dame has beaten Kansas, Georgia Tech, and Illinois. Carnegie Tech's three victims were Davis and Elkins, Wittenberg, and Holy Cross.

Ben Sheridan, fleet junior left half back from Havana, Ill., lined up with the No. 1 team as Harry Stevenson's alternate. The latter threw a touchdown pass to Earl Brown, left end, and Sheridan returned an Illinois punt sixty-eight yards for another score in the 14 to 6 victory. Stevenson's running was hampered by an injury received in the Georgia Tech game, but his passing and kicking, as well as past performance, prevented Sheridan from replacing him.

Saggau Moves Up.

Herman Burnell, senior right half, won even ranking with Paul Morrison with the shock troops at right half back, and George Rassas, third team left end, is being considered for promotion.

Today's preparations for Carnegie Tech consisted of line scrimmage and a passing and pass defense drill for back field men. Brad Lynn, Clyde Archer, and Walt Kristoff, who participated in the B team's 33 to 0 victory over the Illinois Bees Saturday, were given varsity tryouts in the pass drill.

Joe Will Get a Chance.

Joe Thesing, No. 2 full back before his nose was broken in the Kansas opener, was not placed with a team in his first hard practice session, but he undoubtedly will see action Saturday. He made his first collegiate appearance against Tech last year as a sophomore and started the six following games.

The Carnegie Tech kiltie band will be present Saturday and many Pittsburgh fans will come on special trains.

CARNEGIE SEEKS CENTER.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Oct. 18.—(AP)—Worried over the recurrence of injuries to several of his stars and still working hard to plug a hole at center, Coach Billy Kern said tonight he plans to carry every player on the Carnegie Tech squad to South Bend this week-end.

Kern gave all the backfield men a rest today after their hard game against Holy Cross.

TWO FAVORITES REVOLT; FORM $8 DAILY DOUBLE

Two Jockies Bite Dust in First Race.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

The favorites, forgotten horses of the first seven days of the Sportsman's Park race meeting, staged a minor revolution in the first two races at the little half mile track yesterday. The product of this uprising was the smallest daily double of the meeting—$8—and one of the shortest combination prices of the year.

Charmed One, a three year old gelding from the stable of T. H. Cross, scored his first victory in eleven starts in the opening race. Ridden by the Canadian, Earl Dew, Charmed One went to the post an even money choice. The price appeared foolhardy in the face of the favorites' performances for most of the meeting. But Charmed One soon adjusted that by taking a lead which became six lengths at the finish. Gaming was the only contender throughout the seven furlong race, taking the place from Gate Manager. Charmed One returned $4.

Two Jockies Are Thrown.

The race was preceded by considerable excitement. During the parade to the post, Pollytaur spilled Jocky Jim Linton and dashed around to the top of the stretch, then reversed and dashed down the back stretch to starting gate before she was overtaken. For this impertinence, Pollytaur's entry for the duration of the meeting will be refused. Lady Penn added to the confusion by throwing Jocky Willie Page just after the start.

The double was completed by Lady Thirteen, even more of a popular choice than Charmed One. Bobby Conley made the Burrell mare's victory as convincing, coming home six lengths in front of Getabout, with Forceful third. Lady Thirteen paid $3.80.

Social Error obviously was out to make it three favorite triumphs in a row, but reckoned without the ride Jocky My Yarling gave Falermian in the stretch. Social Error, 2 to 1 in the wagering, barely withstood the rush of Royal Countess, which finished third. Falermian returned the cutsiders' public with $15.80.

Vuljest Wins at 17 to 1.

The long shot fans retorted to the form followers with a stunning upset in the feature, the five furlong Burnham purse. Jocky Tay Pay Martin, the South Chicago veteran whose light has been somewhat dimmed by the riding of his younger rivals, also had his say in the matter. He rated the 17 to 1 shot Vuljest just right up to the stretch, where he went on to win from Maewhisk and Norman Sloat. The victor's price was $35.40.

OHIO GAME JUST A TRAIN RIDE TO BORED MAROONS

A Moral Victory Is Their Only Prospect.

Every outside handicapper would rate Chicago's chance of success against Ohio State at Columbus Saturday at close to zero, but the Maroons galloped through a preparatory scrimmage yesterday with cheerful zeal.

Comparative records this year and in recent seasons when the Buckeyes rolled up big scores against Chicago would seem to rule out even the possibility of an upset. Last year Ohio's margin of victory was 39 points, and this year the Ohioans will pit an experienced line, with an average weight advantage of 26 pounds, against the green Maroon forwards.

Yesterday Coach Clark Shaughnessy tried out Carl Nohl, erstwhile sophomore full back who recently was declared eligible, at right end. Nohl, who weighs 190 pounds and gained his experience at Shattuck Military school, is the best punter on the squad.

The new back field of Davenport, Meyer, Hamity, and Valorz functioned together most of the afternoon, chiefly in an attempt to develop running plays which will make the passing attack stand up.

HEAT HAMPERS BUCKEYES.

Columbus, O., Oct. 18.—[Special.]—With the temperature near 90 degrees and a broiling sun beating down, Ohio State's football team took it easy today, practicing fundamentals for its engagement with Chicago here next Saturday.

The day, besides breaking all heat records for Oct. 18, marked the return of the Buckeye regulars excused from practice Monday following the game with Northwestern. All of the players were in good physical condition except Vic Marino and Charlie Maag, who suffered leg injuries in the Wildcat game.

The Ohio State starting back field probably will have Jim Langhurst at full back and Mike Kabealo at quarter back. The halves will be Jim Strausbaugh and Frank Zadworney.

Strausbaugh, because of his speed and good all-around work in the Northwestern game, has displaced the sophomore Don Scott as a starter at left half back. The remainder of the starting lineup against Chicago probably will be Lohr and Bliss at ends, Schoenbaum and Kaplanoff at tackles, Marino and Nosker at guards and Maag at center.

INDIANA SHIFTS BACKS.

Bloomington, Ind., Oct. 18.—[Special.]—Capt. Paul Graham was shifted from full back to blocking back today as Coach Bo McMillin made revisions in the Indiana offensive for the homecoming battle against Kansas State Saturday.

CARTHAGE FOE AT ELMHURST'S HOMECOMING

Elmhurst will entertain Carthage college Saturday in its sixteenth annual homecoming game. Carthage, which has won two of its four games, is the favorite, but Elmhurst, winner of only one of its four contests, will be at its peak of physical efficiency.

Injuries have handicapped the team all season, but all cripples are again in uniform. The team is drilling this week on plays in which Coach Pete Langhorst hopes to shake loose his fast back, Bill Bohle.

Elmhurst defeated Aurora, 26 to 0, but was beaten by Wheaton, North Central, and Illinois State Normal.

White Sox Send Gabler to Saints for Frasier

Frank Gabler, the right hander whose jokes were better than his pitching, was released yesterday by the White Sox to the St. Paul club of the American association. He was shipped as part payment for Pitcher Vic Frasier.

Manhattan Soccer Team to Play Wisla Tonight

The Manhattan Beer Soccer club will play Wisla of the International league tonight in the first of a series of night soccer games in Mills stadium, Lake street and Kilpatrick avenue.

York replaced Roy Bellin, who has been shifted to left half to replace the veteran Bill Schmitz. Schmitz was injured in the Pittsburgh game and will be out of action for possibly two weeks with a shoulder injury. York's understudies will be Vince Cibik and Harry Knickelbine, a made-over quarter back. Bellin will be supported by Tony Gradisnik and Johnny Tennant, another sophomore.

Although hampered by rain Coach Stuhldreher continued to stress forward passing. Jack Murray, center, who was injured in the Pitt game, was held out of the scrimmage, but is expected to be ready to start against the Boilermakers. Jimmy Dean, reserve right tackle, who was kept out of both the Iowa and Pitt games because of a back injury, also will be able to play against Purdue.

PURDUE TRIES PASSES.

Lafayette, Ind., Oct. 18.—[Special.]—Coach Mal Elward devoted attention to forward pass offense this afternoon as the Boilermakers jumped back into intensive drill for the homecoming game with Wisconsin here Saturday.

Elward gave every indication that the Boilermakers, who threw only half a dozen forwards in the games with Minnesota and Fordham, will attempt to open up against the Badgers in an effort to increase the scoring punch. Chunky little Mike Byelene, promising sophomore right half back, along with the veterans Lou Brock and Jim Nesbitt, did the bulk of the passing in an extended scrimmage session against both the reserves and the yearlings.

MICHIGAN POLISHES OFFENSE.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Oct. 18.—[Special.]—Michigan polished its offense today, pointing for its first intersectional game, with Yale in New Haven Saturday. More new plays received emphasis in a running and passing drill for backs and ends as Coach Clarence Munn worked with linemen in a light fundamental drill. Coach Fritz Crisler also sent a reserve squad armed with Yale plays against the varsity.

Fred Trosko was in uniform again today, ready to play this week, but Tackle Roland Savilla appeared out of play for a week because of an injured foot.

YALE IS IMPRESSIVE.

New Haven, Conn., Oct. 18.—(AP)—Yale's varsity looked impressive in its first scrimmage in preparation for the Michigan game, making long gains. Eddie Collins Jr. was shifted to the varsity back field with Bud Humphrey, Al Wilson, and Bill Snavely.

Iowa Tests Defense for Colgate Game

Iowa City, Ia., Oct. 18.—[Special.]—The University of Iowa football squad today attempted to work out a defense against Colgate's running plays.

Coach Irl Tubbs had hoped to devote the session to defense against the Hal Lube-Don Wemple passing combination, but rain forced him to change plans. After slithering about in the mud for an hour the squad went indoors for a blackboard session.

The Iowa coach indicated he would keep Ray Murphy and Jerry Niles, sophomore backs who performed well against Chicago last week, on the first string, along with Nile Kinnick and Russell Busk, juniors.

COLGATE GETS READY.

EXTEND C. Y. O. RING DEADLINE; NEW DATE OCT. 30

Entry deadline for the Catholic Youth organization boxing tournament has been extended to Oct. 30, it was announced yesterday by Tom O'Connell, C. Y. O. boxing director. The closing date originally was set for tomorrow, but O'Connell said there was so much interest in this year's meet that it was decided to extend the deadline.

Entry blanks, which can be secured at the C. Y. O. center, parishes, parks, and playgrounds, should be filled out and sent to the C. Y. O. boxing department, 31 East Congress street, Chicago. Entrants will be notified when and where to report for physical examination and classification. There is no entry fee.

The tournament will open Nov. 2 and will be climaxed with sixteen title bouts in the International Amphitheater on the night of Dec. 9. Preliminary matches will be staged in the south, west, and north sections of Chicago, and the suburban contests will be fought in Joliet.

Canadian Rugby All-Stars Play Chicago Team Sunday

A picked Canadian rugby team, representing the province of Manitoba, will meet an All-Star Chicago squad in New Trier High school stadium in Winnetka Sunday. Clint Frank, Yale's great half back last season, who was hurt in a touch football game last Sunday, may appear in the Chicagoans' lineup.

Football for the Fan

Pass Defense Plays an Important Part in Football.

PASS DEFENSE.

Let us consider how the back field works on pass defense. There are three terms with which you should become acquainted. The names are self-explanatory: man for man, zone, and combination [man for man and zone].

The usual procedure in a man for man is for the half backs to cover the ends, the full back to cover the first back coming out from the strong side, the center to cover the second man out, either from the strong or the weak side, depending on which back is staying in to block for the passer. The quarter back, when deep man in a spearhead defense, will take the long man.

In zone defense each back imagines himself as the center of a big rectangle or circle and protects the zone against any man who enters in his territory.

In the combination type, the backs closer to the line of scrimmage mark off their territory by zones, and the backs playing deeper play man for man.

The man for man is a rigid defense but the defenses must be elastic in so far as a defensive back often will be without a man to cover and can help his neighbor. Furthermore, if an opponent is a dangerous receiver, two men may be assigned to cover, leaving a weak man uncovered. The instant the ball goes into the air, the defensive men must play the ball for interception or for batting it away from the receiver. They should go up with two hands and bat the ball down to earth and not back into a receiver's hands.

The best defense for a pass is to have the ends and tackles rushing to hurry the passer, thereby hurrying the pass and making it inaccurate, or perhaps blocking it completely.

DePaul Eleven, Loyola of South Meet Saturday

Loyola university of New Orleans, La., coached by Larry [Moon] Mullins, a member of Knute Rockne's last Notre Dame eleven, will oppose the De Paul football team in Wrigley field Saturday.

The Blue Demons, who have lost three games this season, will be seeking to repeat their 1937 triumph over the Wolfpack. One of the largest crowds ever to see De Paul play in Chicago is expected for the contest, which drew 29,000 last fall in New Orleans.

Loyola Has Won Three.

Loyola comes north with a record of three victories in four starts. The lone defeat was suffered at the hands of the powerful Louisiana State eleven, which turned back the Wolfpack, 47 to 6, last Saturday in Baton Rouge, La. The triumphs were scored over Springhill, 13 to 0; Birmingham-Southern, 19 to 0, and St. Mary's university, 14 to 12.

Loyola has been held back this year by inexperience, Mullins sending a starting lineup which included seven sophomores against Louisiana State, but the squad has been learning in each game and is expected to be at its best for De Paul. The Wolfpack line will average about 185 pounds, with the back field going ten pounds lighter per man.

De Paul Slow Developing.

De Paul opened its season with an easy triumph over Ripon, but since has been beaten three times straight. Illinois won, 44 to 7; Montana came from behind for a 7 to 6 victory, and North Dakota whipped the Blue Demons last Saturday. Loss of eight regulars plus injuries have combined to slow the development of the Blue Demon squad.

THOMSEN BACK AT MARQUETTE.

Milwaukee, Wis., Oct. 18.—[Special.]—Gathering strength for next Saturday's intersectional clash here with undefeated Texas Christian, the Marquette university football team was fortified today by the return to the first string lineup of Gil Thomsen, 204 pound sophomore right end.

Thomsen was idle in the Kansas State game and played only a few minutes against Southern Methodist because of illness and an injury. He is expected to start against the Horned Frogs Saturday.

Although reluctant to risk further injuries to the varsity, Coach Paddy Driscoll today scrimmaged his first stringers against the freshmen who used Texas Christian plays. The southerners' tricky offense caused the Marquette regulars trouble.

Harry Steers, Veteran Bowler, Will Be Honored

Harry Steers, veteran Chicago bowler and member of the Mineralites team of the Randolph league, will be honored at a Harry Steers Night at the Bensinger alleys, 29 West Randolph street, tomorrow night. E. H. Baumgarten, secretary of the American Bowling congress, will present a testimonial to Steers in behalf of the members of the Randolph league.

The presentation will take place at 9 o'clock during the regular league match between the Mineralites and the Budweisers.

This is Harry Steers' forty-third year as a bowler. Once a week, thirty weeks a year, for the last twenty-six years he has bowled in the Randolph league without missing a game. For the last twenty-five years he has bowled as a member of the Mineralites.

GUNNERS MEET MICHIGAN CITY RAIDERS TONIGHT

Led by Pug Rentner, the Chicago Gunners return to their gridiron in the 124th Field Artillery armory, 5200 Cottage Grove avenue, tonight to meet the Michigan City Raiders.

Rentner, the former Northwestern star and last year with the Chicago Bears, joined the Gunners in a recent game with La Grange and in a few minutes time ran 65 yards for one touchdown, 15 for another, and passed 45 yards for a third to Johnny Zitko.

The Gunners' offense also includes Hugh Duvall, Freddie Lind, and Wallie Stanul of Northwestern, Tony Mazziotti of Nôtre Dame, and Willie Phillips of De Paul.

Austin Bears and All-Star Elevens Meet on West Side

The Austin Bears and Coach Bill Heiland's All-Stars, an independent football team of former Austin High school players, will meet tonight at Harlem and North avenues.

Mrs. Hill Turns Pro After 15 Years of Golf

Mrs. Opal S. Hill of Kansas City, Mo., for fifteen years one of the nation's ranking women golfers, yesterday said she had turned professional and would engage in golf promotion work for a sport goods firm.

Mrs. Hill won the women's western closed tourney three times, has held the trans-Mississippi title and is holder of the unofficial women's scoring record. At the Indian Hills course in Kansas City she once had a round of 32—34—66, including a hole in one.

She also will compete in open tournaments, notably the western, which Chicagoans saw her win a few years back while competing against such business women golfers as Helen Hicks [the present Mrs. Whitney Harb] and Babe Didrikson.

GOLD STOCK TOPS 14 BILLIONS AS INFLUX KEEPS UP

34½ Millions More Arrive in Two Ships.

Gold arriving in New York yesterday from Europe raised the gold supply of the United States over the 14 billion dollar mark. In a little less than three months the gold supply has risen a billion dollars. Never before has one country acquired such an amount of gold in so short a period.

Yesterday's receipts totaled $34,500,000. The liner Queen Mary brought $24,500,000, including $9,250,000 from England consigned to commercial banks and $15,250,000 from France consigned to the Federal Reserve Bank of New York. The steamer American Farmer brought a shipment of $10,000,000 of gold consigned to the reserve bank.

Still More Engaged.

In addition to yesterday's receipts the reserve bank reported engagements of $951,000 gold in England for late shipment to this country.

The daily statement issued by the federal treasury listed gold stocks on Oct. 15 at $13,987,970,199. With yesterday's receipts this total was pushed well above $14,000,000,000.

American gold stocks reached 13 billion dollars late in July. Shipments speeded up to an unprecedented rate during the European crisis. The movement has tapered off some since the Munich accord was reached but transfers have continued at far greater than a normal rate. Most of the gold has come from England. Settlement of commercial balances has necessitated continued shipments after the cause for the feverish capital flight was removed.

Gold Dips in London.

Gold was quoted in London yesterday at 146 shillings 2 pence an ounce, 4 pence below Monday's price. The London quotation was equal to $34.77, the point at which it is considered profitable to ship gold to the United States for sale to the American treasury at its fixed price of $35.

Foreign currencies extended their recovery on exchange dealings. The British pound rose nearly 2 cents, closing at $4.76½. French francs were quoted 0.01375 cent higher at 2.67. Swiss, Belgian and Netherlands currencies were also higher in terms of the dollar.

BENTON HARBOR FRUIT PRICES.

BENTON HARBOR, Mich., Oct. 18.—[Special.]—Today's Benton Harbor fruit market prices: Apples, bushels, Jonathans, 2¼ to 2½ inch, $1.05 to $1.20; delicious, 2½ inch, $1.25 to $1.30; 2¼ inch, 95 cents; Grimes Golden, 2½ inch, 90 cents to $1. Pears, bushels, Kieffers, 2 to 2¼ inch, 50 to 60 cents; poorer, 35 to 40 cents. Tomatoes, 12 quarts, 25 to 30 cents. Lima beans, 12 quarts, best, 75 to 90 cents.

American Safety Razor.

Investors' Guide: Please send me a report on the American Safety Razor corporation. Does it make an electric shaver?—C. G.

Answer: The American Safety Razor corporation is the second largest maker of safety razors and blades in the country. Its products are sold under the trade names of Gem, Ever-ready, and Star. In September the company brought out an electric dry shaver to meet growing competition in this field. It also makes surgical blades and wire blades used in carpet mills.

The company has followed the practice of distributing a large number of new razors at nominal prices in order to build up a potential demand for blades, the largest source of profits.

Earnings have been slipping since the middle of 1937. Net income last year amounted to $1,294,243, or $2.47 a share, compared with $1,414,226, or $2.70 a share, in 1936. The 1936 profits represented a steady climb from a depression low in 1932, when net income was $615,756. Record net income of $1,543,000 was made in 1929.

In the first six months of this year net income amounted to $473,118, against $596,299 in the first half of 1937.

In August, 1936, the capital stock was split three for one, making 524,400 shares of $18.50 par stock outstanding. There is no other stock and no funded debt.

The quarterly dividend rate was reduced from 50 to 40 cents a share in June of this year. Last year $2 a share was paid. In 1936 payments of $1.25 were made on the present stock and $3 a share before the splitup. Dividends on the old stock were paid throughout the depression, ranging from $3 in 1932 to $4.75 in 1935.

The company's outlook depends on its ability to maintain a large part of its razor market in the face of electric shaver competition, and also on the success of its own new electric shaver.

Tennessee Copper Bonds.

Investors' Guide: Tennessee Copper and Chemical debenture 6s, due in 1944, look interesting to me. How are this company's earnings?—H. K.

Answer: These debentures were issued in 1929 by the Tennessee Copper and Chemical corporation, now called the Tennessee corporation. The company covered its fixed interest charges 2.2 times in 1935, 2.9 in 1936, and 4.8 in 1937. Charges have been covered in every year except 1932 and 1933. Fertilizers are the company's chief product.

GEN'L MOTORS TO HIRE 35,000, BOOST PAY ROLL

Restore Salary Cut to 30,000 More.

The General Motors corporation will rehire within the next two weeks 35,000 factory workers. It also will restore the salaries of about 30,000 white collar workers which were cut last February. Announcement of this was made in New York yesterday by Alfred P. Sloan Jr., chairman of the board of the corporation.

Alfred P. Sloan Jr.

Increasing business and improved prospects made possible this contribution toward betterment of the nation's employment situation, Sloan said.

The addition of the 35,000 workers will raise to a total of about 200,000 the number on General Motors' pay rolls, including both factory and white collar employes.

Involves $2,000,000 Weekly.

It is estimated that rehiring of the 35,000 workers and restoration of the salary cuts will raise the corporation's weekly pay rolls by approximately $2,000,000.

Sloan disclosed that the public interest in the new models for 1939, now being placed on the market, has been greater than expected. This led the corporation to revise upward the production schedules for the 1939 cars.

The salary restorations will be given those whose monthly pay is $300 or less. Restorations of pay for persons in the higher salary brackets will be made on an "individual merit basis." The restorations will be effective Nov. 1.

Outlook Better than Year Ago.

"Our new models have been well accepted," Sloan said in a statement. "There appears to be a greater interest than existed a year ago. This is evidenced by the attendance at the showings of our new cars as well as by the number of retail orders actually received.

"This leads us to believe that the trend of consumer buying when retail deliveries of new cars can be made to customers in volume will be found to be substantially improved over that existing during the last few months.

"Therefore, the corporation feels justified in increasing its current production schedule by revising upward the plans made last summer, as well as in readjusting its general operating program to a higher level."

Aims at Job Stabilization.

Sloan said the corporation proposes to continue its efforts to stabilize employment at its huge manufacturing and assembling plants located in fourteen states. This will be done by increasing its inventory during the winter months in anticipation of spring buying.

"The corporation recognizes its responsibility, not only in its own interest, but in the interest of its workers and of the national economy, to provide as much work as it possibly can," he continued. "Further, it desires to allocate the amount of work available, so that it will produce the most beneficial results to individual employés as well as to the community as a whole."

Other Industries to Benefit.

The General Motors decision to increase production is expected to have a stimulating effect on the many subsidiary industries throughout the nation which supply it with materials and parts that go in the new automobiles. Chicago is expected to share to a large extent, because General Motors buys much of its steel and other supplies from Chicago area companies.

Several factors have aided the automobile industry this autumn. Production of the 1938 models was geared closely to the demand, with the result that inventories of the 1938 models were very low as the season closed.

Stocks of used cars were reduced as the result of campaigns to clear them from dealers' hands. Prices of steel used by the automobile industry have been reduced. In addition, there have been substantial reductions in prices of the 1939 models.

Republic Steel to Build Plant for Oil Recovery

New York, Oct. 18.—[Special.]—The Republic Steel corporation announced today it will begin construction immediately on a new light oil recovery plant at Youngstown, O. The plant will be used to recover light oils from coke oven gas. The plant will have a capacity to treat 4,300 tons of coal coke per day. The construction of the plant is another step in the company's extension and improvement program.

Truce Hinted as Board's Aim on Rail Wages

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 18. — A jurist, an economist, and a teacher buckled down today to the task of averting a nation-wide railroad strike. As they did so a compromise adjustment of the 15 per cent wage cut proposed by the carriers was foreseen.

The fact finding board appointed by President Roosevelt to halt the threatened rail strike began work on the report which must be placed on his desk by Oct. 27. The board yesterday closed three weeks of hearings on the wage cut proposal.

Pleas of Both Sides.

At the hearings the carriers maintained that the pay cut alone can save them from financial ruin, because the interstate commerce commission refused to grant the full amount of rate increases asked by railroad operators. The roads argued that money is the vital need of the roads and that it can only come through pay cuts. They said the roads can borrow no more.

Railroad labor asserted that any wage reductions would bring chaos to American industry.

Hints at Compromise.

He asserted that it is well for the producer of eggs to get the highest possible price, but that if his chickens become sick he should devote efforts to get them back into health.

This was interpreted here as meaning that a rail laborer should get all he can in wages, but at the same time should be prepared to make sacrifices because the industry is financially ill. From persons close to the board the statement indicated that the body is considering a compromise.

The economist on the board is Prof. Harry A. Millis of the University of Chicago. The teacher is James M. Landis, dean of the Harvard law school and former head of the Securities and Exchange commission.

$4,000,000 LOST IN MINNEAPOLIS FIRM'S CRASH

Minneapolis, Minn., Oct. 18.—[Special.]—Losses in the collapse of S. W. Gongoll & Co., market trading firm, were set today at $4,000,000. The company was forced into receivership here last September by the county attorney. Approximately 3,500 persons had turned over to it sums ranging from a few dollars to $20,000.

The extent of the losses was revealed as Eloi Bauers, federal receiver, listed the investors in federal court. The largest creditor listed was E. C. Noll of Minneapolis, grain supervisor for the federal bureau of agricultural economics, who had investments of $29,000. No assets were listed for the firm. Gongoll has until Oct. 31 to file schedules showing what assets, if any, his firm possesses. A meeting of creditors will be called within the next three days for election of a trustee to administer the assets.

W. F. Douglas and F. F. Hofacre, both associated with S. W. Gongoll in operation of the firm, were indicted last week on unregistered security sales charges.

ILLINOIS COAL SELLING AGENCY GIVEN APPROVAL

Washington, D. C., Oct. 18.—(AP)—The bituminous coal commission approved Middle States Fuels, Inc., today as a marketing agency for northern Illinois coal producers.

The four producers which organized the agency were Truax-Traer Coal company, Chicago; Midland Electric Coal corporation, Indianapolis; Little John Coal company, Inc., Indianapolis; Central States Colleries, Inc., St. Louis.

The companies told the commission they produced about 3,000,000 tons of the northern Illinois field's approximate annual output of 8,000,000 tons, and served markets in Indiana, Missouri, Illinois, Wisconsin, Minnesota, and Iowa.

The Carter Coal company indicated that it would protest before the coal commission classifications and minimum prices proposed by the producers' board of district 7. The company successfully challenged in the Supreme court the 1935 bituminous coal act.

CORNING CRUDE OIL PRICE CUT TO 5 YEAR LOW

Pittsburgh, Pa., Oct. 18.—[Special.]—The South Penn Oil company today cut the price of Corning grade crude oil 10 cents a barrel to 97 cents. This reduction, the second 10 cent markdown in two months, carried the price of Corning crude to the lowest figure in five years. It was the first time since Sept. 6, 1933, that the price had fallen below $1 a barrel.

Oil men said that the reduction was in line with recent reductions ranging up to 20 cents a barrel made in the midcontinent fields of Kansas, Oklahoma and northern Texas.

NICHOLS RENEWS WAR WITH FDIC; REFUSES TO GIVE DEPOSIT DATA

J. M. [100 per cent] Nichols, president of the First National Bank of Englewood, yesterday reopened his war with the Federal Deposit Insurance corporation.

J. M. Nichols.

Nichols made public a letter sent to FDIC officials refusing to supply information sought by the statistical division of the corporation. Nichols' bank was asked to fill in a blank form giving a summary of the deposits held on Sept. 21, 1938.

"May I ask," Nichols wrote, "on what authority you base your demand for such an analysis of our accounts? Possibly it has not occurred to a new dealer that to compile the information requested, would entail considerable time—and that's money in case you don't know."

Nichols letter was sent to Donald S. Thompson, chief of the statistical division of the FDIC. Nichols has been bickering with the FDIC since his bank was forced to accept membership in 1934 in order to retain its national charter.

THREE INVESTING FIRMS' ASSET VALUES DECLINE

Reports issued yesterday by three investing companies showed lower asset values for their shares on Sept. 30 than a year earlier.

Equity corporation said its assets on Sept. 30 represented a value of 37 cents per common share against $1.22 a share on Sept. 30, 1937.

American General corporation [including American Securities corporation] reported its common stock had a value of $7.65 a share on Sept. 30 against $10.44 on the same date last year. The stock was worth $6.09 a share on Dec. 31, 1937.

Assets of the Standard Investing corporation applicable to the preferred stock amounted to $13.33 a share on Sept. 30. On Sept. 30, 1937, the same stock had an asset value of $39.92 a share.

Cut Reported in Galvanized Sheet Prices

Further evidence of weakness in the price structure of the steel industry came to light yesterday. It was reported that the price of galvanized steel sheets has been reduced $4 per ton. As in the case of earlier reports of reductions in steel prices, officials of steel companies in Chicago said they had little knowledge of the cuts.

At the time reductions were made in prices of both hot and cold rolled sheets and hot rolled strips last week, the Carnegie-Illinois Steel corporation and the Inland Steel company said they would meet competition. It is expected that both companies, which have huge Chicago operations, will meet price cuts on the galvanized sheets.

Used in Auto and Many Industries.

The automobile industry consumes large quantities of the hot and cold rolled sheets and strips. Galvanized sheets are used by building and other industries in large quantities.

The break in steel prices was reported to have resulted from pressure of a large Detroit automobile company for lower prices. Anxious to get this company's business, several independent steel companies were said to have made deliveries at prices below the prevailing level.

Officials of companies with offices in Chicago said the present widespread cutting threatens to wipe out profits from operations.

Wage Level Is Factor.

"With our level of wages at an all time high and prices for our products slipping, we cannot hope to make a profit," one Chicago steel company official said.

Normally the various companies post prices which are to be in effect during a three month period. This enabled industries using raw steel to fix the cost of the steel in setting prices for their own products. With the disturbed price situation now in effect, it is indicated that there may be some hesitancy on the part of such industries to make future purchases, hoping that prices will fall.

The Daily Metal Trade said in Cleveland yesterday that it had learned of a sale of about 5,000 tons of No. 1 heavy melting steel scrap at Pittsburgh at $14.50 a ton. This, the paper said, caused the scrap price range to drop 25 cents a ton to $14.50 to $15.

I. C. MAKES PROFIT IN AUGUST, AGAINST LOSS YEAR EARLIER

Operation of the Illinois Central railroad in August resulted in a net income of $132,766 as contrasted with a loss of $116,196 in August, 1937. The road had a net income of $5,517 for July. For the first eight months of this year it had a net loss of $1,792,533, against a loss of $2,128,807 in the like period of last year. Net income is after provision for fixed charges.

Roads reporting yesterday included the following:

Seek to Put Clothing Wage Control Under One Code

Washington, D. C., Oct. 18.—(AP)—More than 20 clothing and apparel manufacturers recommended today that men's, women's, and children's outerwear be represented by one industry committee under the wage-hour law. Under NRA these products and working clothes and underwear were covered by about 40 different codes.

MOTOR SHARES LEAD UPTURN IN STOCK MARKET

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 18.—Announcement by General Motors corporation that 35,000 workers will be rehired and that salaries of 30,000 office workers will be restored to last February's levels caused late rally on the stock market today. Gains of as much as one to three points replaced early losses of fractions to about a point in key issues.

Trading increased sharply after the announcement, forcing the high speed ticker three minutes behind actual trading. Total volume was 2,408,280 shares. About 880,000 shares changed hands in the last hour.

Motors Lead Upturn.

Motor and motor equipment shares set the pace but all sections took part in the late advance. General Motors jumped from 48½ to 51⅝, a new high for the year. Its final price represented a net gain of 2⅜ points. Chrysler closed 3¼ points higher at 83¾, also a new high. Electric Autolite and Borg Warner rose more than one point.

Aviation issues co-starred with the motors under the impetus of the federal administration's rearmament drive. North American Aviation drew considerable attention and gained 1 point to 14¼, a new 1938 high. Douglas, up 1, and Boeing, United Aircraft and Curtiss-Wright were other popular issues. Bendix also made a new high, advancing 1½ points to 25.

Price Weakness Hurts Steels.

Further weakness in the steel price structure worked against steel shares for a time. Leaders came along in the late general buying, however, with United States Steel, Bethlehem, Republic, Youngstown and Crucible adding fractions to 1⅝ points on the day.

Coppers, still under the influence of removal of production restriction, dropped in the morning. Leaders recovered near the close, however, to edge fractionally higher. Anaconda was volume leader in the group. Kennecott advanced 1¼ points.

Power and light shares dropped from the limelight today. Early softness gave way to firmness in the afternoon and at the close most of the leaders were about back to the preceding close.

Rails Active and Higher.

Carrier shares gave their best performance in a week. They closed fractions to around 1 point higher.

In the rubbers, United States Rubber was active and nearly 2 points higher. Goodyear gained 1½ points. Goodrich added a fraction.

Electric equipment issues pared early losses. Among the other machinery stock, Sperry spurted 1⅛ points to 35¼, a new peak for this year.

Senior C. & O. Stock Is Sold by Chesapeake

The Chesapeake corporation yesterday sold to a syndicate of underwriters its holdings of 60,490 shares of Chesapeake and Ohio railway preferred stock.

John P. Murphy silent on stock transactions.

The syndicate, headed by Kidder, Peabody & Co., the First Boston corporation, and Lazard Freres & Co., announced last night it would offer the stock to the public today at $79.50 a share. The stock was quoted at $80.12 on the New York Stock exchange yesterday. The price paid by the syndicate was not disclosed. In Cleveland John P. Murphy, secretary of Chesapeake corporation, refused to deny or confirm a report that the syndicate offered $4,200,000 for the stock.

Board Issues Statement.

He was asked about the offer after the Chesapeake board of directors had met at Cleveland and issued the following statement:

"Today we have taken steps looking toward sale of our holding of 60,490 shares of Chesapeake and Ohio 4 per cent series A preference stock and have declared a dividend out of earned surplus of $2.50 a share [on Chesapeake corporation stock], payable Nov. 4, 1938, to stock of record Nov. 1."

The 60,490 shares represent Chesapeake's entire holdings of C. & O. preferred. Chesapeake corporation is a middle holding company in the former Van Sweringen railroad system. It is in the process of liquidation, which will leave the Alleghany corporation, top holding company, in direct control of the system.

Plan for Erie Submitted.

Another development yesterday affecting the C. & O. was submission to the interstate commerce commission of a plan for reorganization of the Erie railroad by the Kurth committee, representing a group of bondholders. The plan would wipe out C. & O.'s holdings of Erie railroad common and preferred stocks and cut fixed charges. The committee recommended that new common stock be "distributed only to holders of refunding and improvement bonds and unsecured claims."

The issue would be placed in escrow for five years from Jan. 1, 1939, under option to the present Erie stockholders at the stated value of $36.25 a share, plus interest at 4½ per cent.

1938 Publicity Award Goes to W. O. Douglas of SEC

New York, Oct. 18.—(AP)—The National Association of Accredited Publicity Directors announced tonight that William O. Douglas, chairman of the securities and exchange commission, would receive its 1938 award for outstanding service in publicity.

PUBLIC SERVICE 80 MILLION BOND ISSUE OFFERED

715 Firms Take Part in Huge Program.

Public offering will be made today of $80,000,000 of Public Service Company of Northern Illinois first mortgage bonds, 3½ per cent series, due in 1968. The bonds, which are for refunding purposes, will be offered at 103 and accrued interest. This is one of the largest security offerings to be made this year. It is being marketed by one of the largest groups ever organized to handle the sale of a corporate security issue.

Halsey, Stuart & Co., Inc., heads a group of 116 underwriters for the issue. Associated with the underwriting group is a selling group of 599 dealers. This makes a total of 715 investment firms which will be engaged in the distribution of the bonds.

Part of Edison Program.

Public Service of Northern Illinois is a subsidiary of the Commonwealth Edison company, which owns more than 99 per cent of its outstanding stock. The offering is being made in connection with the refinancing program of Commonwealth Edison. The purpose of this program is to simplify the corporate structure of Commonwealth Edison and to reduce interest charges.

Proceeds from the sale of the bonds will be used primarily for the redemption of $80,000,000 principal amount of the company's outstanding first lien and refunding mortgage bonds.

How Issue Will Affect Debt.

At the completion of the financing plan for Public Service the mortgage debt will consist of the $80,000,000 issue and $228,000 of 5 per cent noncallable mortgage bonds. In addition there will be an issue of $36,000,000 of 5 per cent unsecured notes due Nov. 1, 1978, which are held by the Commonwealth Edison company.

Public Service is a public utility operating company which serves the outlying metropolitan area of Chicago. Its activities do not enter the city of Chicago. Last year 76.5 per cent of its revenues were derived from the sale of electricity and 22.6 per cent from the sale of gas. The territory it serves is estimated to have a population of 1,110,000, which includes 347 communities.

Another Issue Makes Headway.

The Wisconsin Electric Power company yesterday filed a registration statement with the Securities and Exchange commission giving the names and participation of the underwriters for its proposed issue of $55,000,000 of 3½ per cent first mortgage bonds. Public offering is expected to be made next week. Dillon, Read & Co. will have the largest participation, handling $8,600,000 of the issue.

Halsey, Stuart & Co. and Bancamerica-Blair corporation are offering $380,000 Troy, N. Y., 1¾ per cent bonds, due 1939-'48, at prices to yield 0.35 to 1.80 per cent.

A Safeguard For Your Family
Your family should have two forms of protection when you are gone:
(1) Against the depletion of your estate resulting from necessary administration expenses, federal and state taxes, the payment of debts, and cash bequests.
(2) Against the loss of your personal earning power.
A sensible way to provide for these eventualities is to determine the probable amount of cash that will be needed to settle your estate . . . and the amount required to provide an adequate income for your family . . . then buy the amount of life insurance you need.

New York Bonds.

New York, Oct. 18.—(AP)—After a weak opening, the bond market rallied today on the General Motors corporation's reëmployment announcement. Prices closed with a firmer tone.

Most of the active issues which did not show gains at the close had wiped out most of their earlier losses.

The industrial group was the only gainer in the Associated Press averages. Studebaker 6s were 3 points higher at 84 and fractions to around a point higher were Bethlehem Steel 4¼s at 106⅝, Remington Rand 4¼s at 103, and Goodyear 5s at 103¼.

The average of 20 rails at 59.3 was unchanged. Weakness in Western Union 5s of '60, off a point at 70½, carried the average of 10 utilities down 0.2 to 94.9, although numerous issues in this group showed small gains.

Foreign loans were slightly improved. United States government obligations moved quietly into slightly lower territory for the most part. Losses ranged down to 6-32ds, with a few narrower gains.

Chicago Stocks.

Trading favorites on the Chicago Stock exchange moved upward yesterday. Several stocks, including Bendix Aviation, Houdaille Hershey B, and Stewart-Warner reached new highs for the year. The Tribune average of twenty stocks closed up 0.21 at 11.84.

Commonwealth Edison, most active stock on a turnover of 7,650 shares, advanced ⅛ to 27¾. Bendix set a 1938 top of 24⅞, and closed at 24¾ with a net gain of 1½. Houdaille Hershey B finished at a new high of 17¾, up 1. Borg-Warner climbed 1⅛ to 17¾. Montgomery Ward, common, however, slipped 1¼ to close at 51½.

Volume was 54,000 shares, against 59,000 on Monday. Many of the less active stocks declined.

Bank Stocks.

Chicago bank stocks were quiet yesterday. Dealers reported light trading. Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company shares closed $3 higher at $77 bid, $79 asked. Shares of the Harris Trust and Savings bank finished up $2 at $317, $327 asked. First National bank stocks dropped $1 to $224 bid, $228 asked. Other leaders were unchanged.

Hides to Lether—13.

Hides and skins are selected by tanners to serve a functional purpose. Size determines whether the lether can be used in upholstering. "Plumpness" or "stoutness" are necessary in lethers that are subject to strain and abrasion as in belting or soles. Smooth grained skins are desired in shoes and gloves.

Loose-haired animals, especially if they are summer-bald, are preferred by tanners in making shoe lethers. The sparse hair folicles lessen the separation of the skin's grain which weakens its structure.

"Grubs" [the eggs of certain flies], the "tick" parasite, branding irons, disease and injury to the skin reduce the value of lether. Many parasitic damages make the lether unsightly.

Hides are classified as "packer, city, or country" stock. This division is based on the theory that less defects are found in hides removed and cured by packing houses in metropolitan districts because of improper purchasing and supervision. The best grade, "packer," refers to hides of large packing houses; "city," to those from moderate size slaughter houses, and "country" to those from smaller houses or farm districts.

NO END TO U. S. LENDING IN SIGHT, SAYS RFC CHIEF

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 18.—Jesse H. Jones, chairman of the Reconstruction Finance corporation, today admitted that he saw no end of government lending. He said he is "moderately hopeful" for the business outlook.

When asked at his press conference whether he felt the RFC should remain as the government's lending agency permanently, he said:

Jesse Jones.

Jones said he felt "business is getting a little better and railroads are getting a little bit more trafic." He said that "just human nature" points to a business upturn.

Discusses Bank Loans.

Continuing his restrained remarks, Jones said that banks are cooperating "pretty well" in financing business. He referred to an RFC report showing that of 3,793 loans made to business by RFC since last February, banks participated in 915. The total of loans to business was $128,994,000 and banks participated to the extent of $28,042,000.

The RFC chairman said that the corporation is studying the possibility of making loans totaling $8,725,000 to three railroads in the east and south.

The Southern railway, he said, is seeking $6,000,000 to buy new freight cars. The Boston and Maine railroad is asking $2,000,000 to repair storm damage in New England. The Seaboard Airline road wants $725,000 to buy a new Diesel powered day coach train.

12 Million Disaster Aid Ready.

Jones said approximately $12,000,000 is available to the Disaster Loan corporation for aid to flood and hurricane sufferers in New England.

The most difficult problem, Jones said, is disposition of timber blown down by the storm. He asserted that forestry experts estimate the total at more than 4 billion board feet.

Jones also said that there have been a few inquiries from small utility companies for RFC loans but that the amounts involved were not large.

He disclosed that RFC engineers are investigating a situation in Texas under which several small towns in the Colorado river valley want loans to provide power facilities.
